DEMOCRATS LOSE IN THIS STATE AND NEW JERSEY; HARMON GAINS

Ohioan's Presidential Chances Improved by Victories in His State.

TAFT BEATEN IN HIS HOME

Despite His Indorsement of Cox Ticket, Democrats Carry Cincinnati.

MASSACHUSETTS FOR FOSS

The New York Assembly Carried by the Republicans by a Large Majority.

MARYLAND IS REPUBLICAN

Socialist Party Sweeps Schenectady and Elects Eight Mayors in Ohio.

OVERTURN IN PHILADELPHIA

Boss Penrose Loses Control of City to Rudolph Blankenburg, the Reformer.

The most striking results of yesterday's elections in the country generally were the Republican successes in the States of New York, New Jersey, and Maryland, the Democratic victories in the Ohio municipal contests, the success of the "Reformers" in Philadelphia, and a notable increase in the Socialist vote in various parts of the country. In Ohio eight Socialist Mayors were elected, and in New York State one.

In this State the people, who in 1910 gave the Democrats a victory unprecedented since 1891, turned squarely around and elected an Assembly which will have a Republican majority of 52 over the 48 Democrats and one Socialist. The splendid Democratic vote of 1910 has gone glimmering. Murphy has lost control of the Legislature, which will have a Democratic Senate and Republican Assembly.

New Jersey has elected a Republican Legislature, and Gov. Woodrow Wilson's chances for the Presidency, to say the least, have not been improved.

On the other hand, the friends of Gov. Harmon of Ohio deduce a big increase in his boom from the result in Ohio. In that State there were only city elections, but interest centred on the election for Mayor of Cincinnati, the home town of both Harmon and President Taft.

Mr. Taft, who in 1905 bolted the Republican ticket nominated by Boss Cox, indorsed it this year, but the influence of the President of the United States had apparently little effect on the Cincinnati voters, for the Democratic ticket was triumphantly elected. And Columbus went Democratic.

There is a recrudescence of Tom Johnsonism in Cleveland, where Johnson's spirit lives after him. His man Baker. is elected Mayor by such a sweeping majority as to suggest that his city is ready to return to his doctrines.

Brand Whitlock, the Socialist Mayor of Toledo, is re-elected by his usual majority.

Gov. Foss is re-elected in Massachusetts by a majority of 7,734. Last year he got 35,000. This year he was the only man

Maryland has gone Republican, electing Goldsborough Governor over Arthur P. Gorman, son of the late Senator Gorman. elected on the Democratic ticket.

There was no fight to speak of in Rhode Island, and Gov. Pothier (Rep.) is re-elected.

Philadelphia has defeated the Penrose machine in power by a close vote. George H. Earle, the organization caandidate for Mayor, has been beaten by the reformer, Rudolph Blankenburg.

The following States elected Governors yesterday: Rhode Island, (which went Republican,) Massachusetts, (Dem.,) Maryland, (Rep.,) Kentucky, (Dem.,) Mississippi, (Dem.,) and New Mexico, (in doubt.)

Ollie M. James, the stentorian orator from Kentucky, will succeed Senator Paynter in the Senate. The Legislature has gone Democratic in both branches. Ex-Senator McCreary (Dem.) was elected Governor by 20,000 to 40,000.

New Mexico held its first election as a State yesterday. Both parties are claiming victory.

The most surprising feature of the result is the increase in the Socialist vote. There are not enough returns at hand to show its total increase, but it has swept Schenectady and put the Democrats in the third column in Chautauqua County.

In Schenectady the Socialists have elected as Mayor Dr. George R. Lunn, a clergyman and editor, by a majority amounting to two-thirds of the total vote cast; they have carried the Common Council, which has been Republican for years, and they have elected their whole ticket, with the exception of one candidate. They have also elected an Assemblyman, the first to appear in the Capitol at Albany as representing the Socialist Party.

In conservative Chautauqua County the Socialists polled a larger vote than the Democrats, the Republicans carrying the county. The Socialist vote was chiefly polled in the manufacturing town of Dunkirk.

In the Western States the Socialist vote was also heavy. In Columbus, Ohio, the Socialist candidate for Mayor polled almost as many votes as Marshall, Republican.

The returns secured in some of the Ohio cities, in eight of which the Socialists elected Mayors, gives them a total thousands in advance of any previous showing and puts them close in order, numerically, with the two old parties. In Ohio, as well, where actual Socialist candidates were not elected, progressives of more or less radical views were returned by the Republicans.

Besides Schenectady and Columbus, Cleveland and Dayton were the most favorable cities for the Socialist Party. In the Second Kansas Congressional District, where a successor to the late Congressman Mitchell was elected, the So-

Despite the "Lexowing" of Albany, William Barnes, Jr., carried the city for his Mayoralty candidate, James B. McEwen, and election all three Assemblymen by increased majorities.

Thomas M. Osborne has been defeated for Mayor of Auburn, the result being due to the efforts made by Charles F. Murphy to beat him. Osborne has been Mayor of Auburn more than once, and was regarded as its most influential citizen, but he stood out against Murphy both on the Senatorship and on other matters during the last session of the Legislature, and has always been opposed to Tammany domination up the State. A good deal of money was sent to Auburn to influence the result.

KENTUCKY ELECTS DEMOCRAT

McCreary's Majority for Governor Over O'Rear, Republican, Put at 25,000.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7.—Returns, though incomplete, indicate that James B. McCreary, Democrat, has been elected Governor at an estimated majority of 25,000 over Judge Edward C. O'Rear.

The Democrats gained in every precinct in Louisville and Jefferson County.

Judge O'Rear lost his home county, (Montgomery) by about 407, according to the figures of the Republican organization. Clark County, which gave Bryan a majority of 625 votes, gave 950 for Mr. McCreary.

The Herald, which supported the Republican State ticket, conceded defeat, and announced that the only factor in doubt was the Democratic majorities. The Herald will say to-morrow:

"An unpopular National and State Republican Administration was the cause of the Democratic victory in Kentucky."

Kentucky, for years considered in the balance between the Democrats and Republicans, has thus returned to the ranks of the former. Some even concede that Mr. McCreary has been elected by 40,000 majority, but figures from all sources hardly justify such an estimate.

The returns have surprised even the most optimistic Democrats, most of whom said the election would be close. As it is, the Republican majority of 7,000, by which the present administration went into office, was shattered, and the Democratic State ticket will go into office more strongly indorsed than has any ticket in years. Neither party had a paramount issue.

EDITH CAMPBELL ELECTED.

Woman Indorsed by President Taft Chosen on Board of Education.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7.—Edith Campbell of this city enjoys the distinction of winning for the woman suffrage cause the highest recognition it has received in this part of the country by the personal indorsement and vote of President Taft for herself as candidate for a member of the Board of Education of Cincinnati. the Board of Education of Cincinnati. The President scratched his otherwise straight Republican ballot to vote for her.

Her campaign has been a feature of the exciting fight now ended and has given an entirely new turn to the popular view respecting the propriety of women entering politics. The enthusiasm and earnestness shown by the young woman and her friends had held public attention from the start.

When President Taft arrived here the day before yesterday and declared his purpose to vote for Miss Campbell the enthusiasm of her friends increased and their efforts to-day were redoubled.

"I believe there should be women representatives on the Board of Education, and I know Miss Campbell's abilities and qualifications and expect to vote for her," the President said.

Miss Campbell's campaign has been managed by both men and women. All the women's social organizations, many church societies, and similar bodies have been energetic and ardent in her cause. From Brooklyn even there was extended support from the Rev. J. H. Ward Melish, who urged all his friends to give her their votes.

There is special rejoicing over the result to-night in the Women's Clubs of the city, as it is generally conceded that she has been elected.

BREWER WINS MISSISSIPPI.

Little Interest and Vote Very Light—Bilbo Scratched Heavily.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 7.—Barring only the Lieutenant Governorship, the election in Mississippi to-day was devoid of interest, a mere ratification of the nominations made in the Democratic primary. Thousands of conservative Democrats, however, manifested their personal objections to Theo G. Bilbo, party nominee for Lieutenant Governor, by either neglecting to vote on that feature of the ballot or giving their ballots to the Socialist nominee, James T. Lester.

Bilbo was a central figure in the bitter factional fight during the Democratic primaries last Summer. and won the nomination chiefly on his assertion that he had accepted a bribe in the Vardaman-Percy Senatorial contest for the purpose of exposing L. C. Dulaney's alleged bribery. Dulaney was acquitted.

The weather was rainy throughout the State, and it is doubtful if more than 35,000 votes were polled out of a total registration of 140,000. This was the first time the Socialist Party has had a State ticket in the field, and while the party has not manifested a formidable strength some heavy gains were shown in the southern counties.

The returns are coming in very slowly, and approximate figures will not be known for several days. However, the entire Democratic ticket has been elected as usual. The next Governor will be Earl Brewer of Clarksdale, who won the party nomination without opposition.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP CHIEF OHIO CITIES

Cincinnati, Cleveland, and Columbus Reject Republican Candidates for Mayor.

HOME TOWN REBUFFS TAFT

For Support of Cox's Ticket—Results Thought to Favor Harmon's Chances for Presidency—Eight Socialist Mayors.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 7.—With the election of Henry T. Hunt, Democrat as Mayor of Cincinnati to-day—a city with a normal Republican majority of 6,000—there looms up larger than ever a boom for Gov. Harmon as a Presidential candidate. The newly elected Mayor is a close personal friend of Gov. Harmon, and while his election is in part, perhaps, a rebuke to President Taft for the part he has taken in the local campaign, yet, coupled with the election of Democratic Mayors in all the large cities of Ohio, it is looked on in the light of approval and indorsement of the policies with which Harmon has been identified, and which he has championed in his position as Governor of the State.

This is particularly so in the measures relating to the taxing and management of the cities. The Governor's position in these matters has been one of the points of controversy in the campaign; it has been attacked by the Republicans and defended by the Democrats. Now that the sanction of a majority vote has been won the feeling is general among the Harmon adherents that new and greatly heightened prestige is given to his standing as a Presidential candidate, not only in his own State, but throughout the country generally. It is their impression that this sentiment will continue and exert its full force on the Democratic masses from now on till the time comes next year for making the choice of the party leader for the National campaign.

There is general rejoicing among the Harmon adherents over this prospect, which they consider as forecasting the success of their favorite. They are all the more exhilarated over it owing to the fact that the determined opposition of Mr. Bryan in the past several months was feared to have created latent opposition to the Governor in his own State and raised the question as to his availability in some other parts of the country which might otherwise be counted on to give him support. They believe to-day's results will offset and dissipate all these untoward influences and place Harmon once more in the front as a fit Moses for the party.

It is one of the things reckoned on now that no further attempt will be made to get up a following for Gov. Wilson in Ohio, though that statesman has numerous admirers in the State.

"It seems the Germans are not with us," remarked Rudolph K. Hynicka, Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, as one of the German precincts showed a loss of 45 votes for Mayor Schwab. While the Republicans had no idea of conceding the election to the Democrats, disappointment was evinced by Mr. Hynicka, August Herrmann, Judge William H. Lueders, and other prominent Republicans gathered about the round table at the Blaine Club. The familiar figure of George B. Cox was missing.

Cincinnati will probably have a "mixed" government for two years. The people, by their votes, have given both Republicans and Democrats some of the public offices, and just who has the better of the result has not been ascertained at this time. With 100 precincts heard from unofficially it appears that Mr. Hunt has defeated Dr. Louis Schwab for Mayor, thus giving the Democracy the biggest prize of the ballot. Mr. Hunt's plurality as indicated by the returns will be sufficient to elect him, and that probably will be satisfactory to the energetic man who soon will step from one high office to another. Mr. Hunt must resign the office of Prosecuting Attorney of Hamilton County before he can enter upon his duties as Mayor.

It is not yet determined whether Simeon Johnson has been elected Vice Mayor, or, more properly speaking, President of the Council. The race between Johnson and Albert H. Morrill is close, and not quite a third of the precincts have been heard from. Elements which figured in the election of Mr. Hunt may have had no effect in the other race. Mr. Hunt has easily run ahead of his ticket, while Albert Morrill is showing some individual strength. Democrats believe, however, that Johnson will preside over the affairs of the City Council for two years.

Of the other candidates on the general municipal ticket it seems that Henry Hoefle for City Treasurer and Guy H. Kennedy for Auditor are running ahead of their fellow-Republican aspirants. Both men made strong campaigns and had a host of supporters who worked day and night. It is possible that other Republicans may win. The returns for Councilmen at Large are still in doubt, and on them may hinge the political complexion of the City Council, which for so many years has been Republican. It is believed the Democrats at least held their own in the ward fights with a chance of having made gains.

The judiciary ticket is still greatly in doubt, as the voting on the candidates was not aligned closely with the general ticket.

There is not a wide margin between the votes received by Prescott Smith, Democrat, and Frank Coppock, Republican, in the precincts which have been unofficially reported. Arthur Fricke and Judge August Bode are leading the other two aspirants for Police Court Judge, and the race is between them. Apparently the only thing accomplished by the Abraham Lincoln candidates for city and judicial

BLANKENBURG WINS IN PHILADELPHIA

Reform Candidate Victor Over Earle, Republican, by a Small Majority.

PENROSE CONCEDES IT

Organization Unable to Control Districts Which Republicans Considered Safe for Their Candidate.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Rudolph Blankenburg, the reform candidate was elected Mayor of this city to-day by a small majority. At midnight Senator Penrose conceded his election by from 300 to 1,000 majority. The returns showed that he had made surprising gains in former organization strongholds.

The Vare wards fell down greatly, and in the northeast, where the Republican leaders estimated that there would be a normal Republican majority, Blankenburg was very strong. He was defeated in the Nineteenth Ward by a majority of about 100.

The organization was routed in the downtown wards. Indications are that the Thirty-sixth Ward, of which Hugh Black is leader, has gone for Blankenburg by a majority approaching 500.

Official returns from these wards are:

| Ward. | Earle. | Blankenburg. |
|---|---|---|
| Second | 2,550 | 510 |
| Fifth | 2,458 | 217 |
| Sixth | 224 | 1,150 |
| Seventh | 4,498 | 921 |
| Eighth | 2,212 | 652 |
| Ninth | 843 | 317 |
| Twelfth | 1,323 | 562 |
| Sixteenth | 1,488 | 600 |
| Seventeenth | 1,278 | 1,019 |
| Nineteenth | 4,968 | 4,825 |
| Twenty-ninth | 3,046 | 3,025 |
| Thirty-first | 1,914 | 2,930 |
| Forty-seventh | 843 | 2,400 |

At 11 P. M. Rudolph Blankenburg made a statement at the Keystone Party headquarters. It was this:

"I claim I am elected."

Edwin O. Lewis asserted that Mr. Blankenburg had been elected by 38,000 majority, and the whole Keystone ticket by about 5,000 less.

The returns that first came in were from the strong organization wards. These reports were very discouraging to the organization. For instance, one-half the Nineteenth Ward, which was counted on with a 4,000 majority, gave Earle only 150, and the reformers are claiming that Earle's majority in the ward will be less than 500. The Twenty-seventh Ward, which was claimed for Earle by 1,000 majority, returned 300.

The reformers claim the Thirty-sixth Ward by several hundred; the organization predicted the result would be 2,500 majority for Earle. The Twenty-eighth Ward is claimed by Blankenburg by 3,500; the organization claimed it for Earle by 500. Blankenburg carries the Sixth Ward by over 800. Blankenburg claims the Twenty-third Ward by 2,500; the organization claimed it by 500. Recorder Vare's division gave Blankenburg a majority of 12. The Twentysixth Ward, Vare's ward, which was claimed by Earle by 2,000, will give less than 1,000.

The Twenty-second Ward, Germantown, is claimed by 4,000 for Blankenburg. This is 3,500 more than Earle conceded.

Tre Eleventh Ward gives Earle 918 majority. He claimed 1,200. The Thirtieth Ward will give Earle less than 2,000, which is 500 below the vote claimed.

The well-drilled and thoroughly equipped followers of the Republican organization were up with the sun to-day. Perhaps the organization's seasoned fighters were not as pleased to see the sun shining as were the allies, a majority of whom are volunteers.

The organization regulars lost no time in deciding that it was up to them to give battle even more vigorously than if weather conditions did not favor the reformers in getting out every available voter.

The Keystone-Democratic allies, accepting the beautiful day as an omen of success, turned out just as promptly.

Indicative of the heavy early vote which was polled in many parts of the city this morning, the county Commissioners were requisitioned to send extra ballot boxes into several wards before noon. Up to 12 o'clock a total of twenty extra boxes were sent out.

While Philadelphians were to-day selecting a Mayor and numerous municipal and county officers, the electors of both the city and State were voting on two proposed constitutional amendments, one of which is of vast importance to Philadelphia, namely, the amendment to permit this city to borrow an unlimited amount of money for the construction of subways and water front improvements. This appeared on the ballot as amendment No. 2. The other amendment, which appeared as No. 1, provides for the consolidation of the Common Pleas Courts of Allegheny County and concerns that county alone.

It is generally believed by the Republican leaders and by those interested in the progress of the municipality that the subway and harbor amendment was carried by to-day's vote.

Mrs. Earle, wife of the Penrose-McNichol candidate, called Mrs. Blankenburg, the wife of the reform candidate, on the telephone shortly after midnight and congratulated her on her husband's election to the Mayoralty.

Immense crowds of Blankenburg sympathizers paraded Broad Street to the residence of the victorious candidate and serenaded Mrs. Blankenburg. She came to the front of the house and replied to the cheers of the crowd by waving her hand in appreciation of their enthusiasm.

Ex-Secretary Garfield Defeated.

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Fifteen of 21 precincts in Lake County give Fletcher D. Malin, progressive, 1,395 votes and James R. Garfield, Secretary of the Interior under Roosevelt, who refused to pledge himself, 816 for delegate to the Ohio constitutional convention in 1912. With Malin's majority growing with the count, Garfield concedes defeat.

Morris a Municipal Justice.

Morris, Dem., by a vote of 21,384 to 18,266 for Bothy, Rep., and 11,065 for Devis, Ind. Leag., was elected Justice of the Municipal Court in the Second District.

It Was the Only Borough That Stood by the Party Against Strenuous Attacks.

SORRY NIGHT FOR MURPHY

But He Says It's a Victory for the People Against Yellow Journalism—Cohalan's Plurality Only 691.

Tammany elected the Sheriff and Surrogate of New York County yesterday by small pluralities. The Sheriff, Julius Harburger, wins by 3,081 over Hopper, the Fusion candidate. Fowler (Tam.) is elected over Matthewson (Fus.) by about 16,000. The judiciary ticket scrapes through by a few thousand plurality.

But Mr. Murphy loses control of the Board of Aldermen and with it the hope of putting through his cherished Building Code. With his Aldermanic control gone he also loses control of the bi-partisan Board of Election Commissioners, who under the Levy law are now chosen by the Aldermen instead of as formerly by the Mayor. The Fusion majority will pick the Democratic Commissioners from Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Fusion carries 20 out of the 41 Aldermanic districts in Manhattan and the Bronx. Some setas are also won in Kings

Not only is control of the State Assembly lost to the Democrats, but the Republicans in the city have won eight districts in New York County, ten more in Kings, and two in Queens.

The pluralities of the Tammany candidates for the Supreme Court in the First Judicial District were:

Cohalan over Ottinger........3,691
Pendleton over Shearn..........7,053
Hotchkiss over Baldwin.......3,318

Altogether it was such a "victory" as left gloom in the Wigwam in Fourteenth Street. A few more such would leave Tammany in dire straits. The real test of Tammany's strength in an off year like the present is the vote on Sheriff. Other conditions such as the personality and previous service of the candidates tend to complicate the vote on Surrogate, but the Shrievalty vote is a clear test. Foley carried the office by 23,000 four years ago. Harburger wins by hardly one-seventh as many.

Mr. Murphy said, nevertheless, without particular outward manifestations of great joy, that it was "a signal triumph for the people over the combined forces of yellow journalism and canting hypocrisy by which we were assailed."

To which Sheriff-elect Harburger added: "The result of our victory proves conclusively that the people of New York County are opposed to any campaign of character maligning."

Although it was a defeat, the vote filled the anti-Tammany camp with rejoicing. With a direct primaries law about to go into effect there seemed to be hope of putting an extinguisher on Charles F. Murphy as the controlling factor in Democratic affairs in New York City.

The result in Manhattan did not contain all the bitterness in Mr. Murphy's election cup.

The scandal over the nomination of William Willett, Jr., for the Supreme Court in the Second District resulted as expected, in the defeat of the Democratic judiciary ticket in Kings, Queens, Richmond, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties. In Queens Callahan led the losing ticket in the matter of votes, but all of the Fusion Judges were elected. The vote, with Suffolk County returns missing, was:

FUSION.

DEMOCRATIC.

Callahan...............127,379
Ketcham...............117,211

Candidate Willett's home district, the Rockaways, comprising the Fifth Ward of Queens, cut him heavily because of the nomination scandal. Its votes gave Ketcham, (Dem.,) 1,413; Callahan, (Dem.,) 1,321; Willett, (Dem.,) 1,092; Kelby, (F.,) 845; Benedict, (F.,) 874; Van Sicklen, (F.,) 1,155.

NEW JERSEY CARRIED BY REPUBLICANS

Smith, in Essex, Defeats the Wilson Senator, but Loses His Assemblymen.

GERAN LAW SUCCESSFUL

Hudson County Democrats Elect Their Legislative Ticket—Mayor Wittpenn Wins Again—Essex Elects a Democratic Sheriff.

The Republicans carried the New Jersey Legislature yesterday, electing a majority in the Assembly and six of the eight new Senators. Republican politicians and anti-Wilson Democrats are proclaiming the result as a defeat for Gov. Wilson, who made a personal canvass of the entire State, with the exception of Essex County, in which Newark is situated. Essex is the stronghold of former Senator James Smith, who was defeated for the United States Senate by Gov. Wilson, and the Governor declined to make an appeal to the voters for the Smith ticket.

The voters found themselves confronted for the first time with a blanket ballot, known as the Geran law, one of Gov. Wilson's measures, a sort of a compromise between the Massachusetts and New York forms. In the past New Jersey has voted with the old-fashioned party ballot containing only the names of the nominees of one party. This year every one nominated appeared on one ballot, but there were no party designation devices except the words denoting the party's name. All the nominees for an office were grouped under a heading showing they were for that office. Then after each man's name appeared the name of his party. Unlike the New York ballot, a man cannot put a cross in the circle under the emblem. Jersey ballots this year had no emblems. To vote for a candidate for each office to be filled he must start at the head of the first column, and go down each column voting for one or more as the ballot tells him without the aid of pictures. Also he must vote for each man individually. There was no way that a ballot could be prepared by a single mark.

Election Day offered no change of routine to Gov. Woodrow Wilson, and he went to his Trenton office as usual after casting his ballot at the Seventh District polls in Princeton Borough. It took the Governor more than four minutes to cast his ballot, and then he walked to the railroad station, boarding a train for Trenton. Gov. Wilson spent the evening at his home on Cleveland Lane with his family and a few friends. He received the election returns from Trenton by telephone.

Princeton, Gov. Wilson's home town, elected Prof. Alexander H. Phillips of Princeton University, Republican candidate for Mayor, though supporting H. I. Ford, the Democratic candidate for the Assembly. The Mayor-elect swept the town by a good majority, the students' vote playing a large part in the election. The election of three borough Councilmen resulted in a party split, and two Democrats and one Republican are the incumbents. The Council will now be composed of three Republicans and three Democrats, and the Mayor's vote in borough matters will be decisive.

The Republican Party recovered its sway in Essex County, which it lost last year under the impetuous attack of Dr. Woodrow Wilson and the new Democratic leadership. The county was carried by Austen Colgate for State Senator, who defeated Senator Harry V. Osborne by about 4,000 plurality. Colgate's victory was due to the fact that he was supported by a united party, Progressives and "regulars" standing firmly behind him. On the other hand Osborne was seriously handicapped, notwithstanding a strong personal appeal made for him by Gov. Wilson. The fact that the Governor refused to come into the county to speak for the Assembly candidates reacted upon Osborne. The latter was also handicapped by recent scandals in connection with bankruptcy court matters, into which his name was brought.

The election for Sheriff of Essex County between Carl Valentine Baumann, Republican, and John F. Monahan was close, and the indications are that Monahan was elected, although full returns may show that Baumann was pulled through with the rest of his party ticket. Monahan displayed great personal popularity and won for him many Republican votes.

The Republicans elected their twelve candidates for Assembly and also made a sweep of the new Board of Freeholders, which will succeed the present board Jan. 1. Nine Republicans were successful, and the board will have a minority representation.

The Republicans of Newark carried the city yesterday for members of the Board of Works, two of whom were chosen. The Democrats broke even in the Aldermanic contest and will retain a majority in the next Common Council. The successful candidates for Board of Works, elected for three-year terms, were Arthur R. Denman and August J. Miller. The former is a member of the present board. The defeated candidates were Charles F. Kramer and Alexander Archibald. The incoming board will contain four Republicans and one Democrat.

In the election in Newark and elsewhere in Essex County to-day the first test was made of the efficiency of the new Geran Election law, one of the reforms given to New Jersey last Winter by Gov. Wilson. The experiment was in every way successful. The voters took kindly to the omnibus ballot and neither they nor the election officials experienced the slightest trouble.

Returns from the First Congressional District show that W. J. Browning, Republican, is elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry Laudenslager.

Paterson experienced the quietest election in its history. The largest percentage of registered voters ever casting their ballots was shown throughout the city and Passaic County. On all sides genuine satisfaction with the Geran election law was expressed by voters. There was a complete absence of the energetic and athletic electioneering of previous years, and but little buttonholing of voters was shown by enthusiastic district workers. No crowds, as in former years, congregated around the polling places, and for the most part voters entered the polling place, cast their ballots, and went away.

The police did not have to make even the usual Election Day arrests of intoxicated enthusiastic partisans. In a city of 125,000, on Election Day, this appears to be remarkable. Chief of Police Bimson says he never witnessed a quieter election, and in his visits throughout the city to-day, said he found difficulty in finding polling places because of the lack of crowds.

Prosecutor Michael Dunn, who was at

RHODE ISLAND FOR POTHIER.

Returns Show Him Re-elected Easily —Republican Gains in Assembly.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.Midnight returns throughout Rhode Island indicate the re-election of Gov. Aram J. Pothier and the Republican State ticket, the Governor's plurality being estimated at between 7,000 and 8,000, and the rest of the ticket at a greater figure. In twenty-eight districts, mostly from the country towns, where the polls closed in the afternoon, Gov. Pothier led his Democratic opponent, Lewis A. Waterman of Providence, over 2,000 votes, an increase of 300 in his plurality over last year's figures for the same districts.

The rest of the Republican State ticket, with Lieut. Gov. Zenas W. Bliss, Secretary of State J. Fred Parker, General Treasurer Walter A. Read, and Herbert A. Rice for Attorney General, is easily running ahead of the Democrats and will be elected probably with pluralities running into the thousands.

The hottest fight in the State as well as the closest is for Mayor of Providence, with Mayor Henry Fletcher, Republican, as candidate for re-election, and Alderman Joseph H. Gainer, his Democratic opponent. Not until the last Providence districts are in to-morrow morning can the result be definitely announced.

The Democratic campaign has been waged on the abolition of the property qualification for voters, the appeal being made to the registry voters to elect Democrats and thus receive the full franchise, allowing them to vote for City Councilmen, &c.

A constitutional amendment providing for bienning elections is also one of the issues. The Republicans favor this measure, which has already passed two General Assemblies, while the Democrats oppose it. A three-fifths vote is required to pass it, and this, too, will require the entire vote of the State before it can be told whether or not future elections here will occur yearly or every two years.

The vote throughout the State has been unusually heavy for an off year, and the gain from the early returns has been largely Republican.

BALLOT ANNOYS GOV. WILSON

Takes Too Long to Mark, He Says—Dodges Woman Suffrage.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 7.—Gov. Wilson was not at the State House this morning, but voted early at his home in Princeton. When the Governor entered the polling place he criticised the ballot because of the poor alignment. He declared that no time could be saved and expressed the fear that some of the voters would improperly mark the tickets. He required four minutes and a half to cast his ballot.

Later in the day the Governor, having heard that a large sum of money had been sent into the First Congressional District for use in the election, notified Prosecutor A. L. Rogers of Gloucester County, and also wrote letters to the Prosecutors of Camden, Salem, and Cape May Counties.

The Governor is not yet ready to place himself on record with regard to woman suffrage. When questioned by reporters he said he preferred to give his answer in his reply to the letter sent him by the Woman's Suffrage Association. Gov. Wilson plans to leave here Saturday for a two weeks' vacation, which will probably include a trip to Bermuda. In his absence President Ackerman of the Senate will be Acting Governor, this being the fifth time he will have served in this capacity this year.

CHICAGO ELECTION EVEN.

Judgeships Likely to be Filled by Equal Number of Both Parties.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 7.—The result of the judiciary election in Chicago will probably show an even break between the Republicans and Democrats. Bonds for new bridges have been approved, but the proposal to raise the salaries of municipal justices has been rejected.

Returns from half of the 1,497 precincts indicate that the Republicans and Democrats are divided evenly for the ten Superior Court Judgeships, and that the Democrats elected the one Circuit Judge.

ELECTIONS ELATE SPEAKER.

Results Forecast a Democratic President, Says Champ Clark.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 7.—Speaker Champ Clark is elated over the results of the more important elections throughout the country as indicated in early returns.

He holds that the news shows an indorsement of the work of the last Congress and forecasts the election next year of a Democratic President.

KANSAS REPUBLICAN LOSES.

Second District Elects J. A. Taggart, Democrat, for Congress.

IOLA, Kan., Nov. 7.—Complete returns give Joseph A. Taggart, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Second Kansas District, 200 majority over Ulysses S. Guyer, Republican.

The same city in 1910 gave A. C. Mitchell, Republican, for whose seat Taggart and Guyer are contesting, a majority of approximately 300.

Gov. Dix Makes No Comment.

ALBANY, Nov. 7.—Gov. Dix at his Adirondack camp at McKeever learned over the long distance telephone from Albany to-night that the Republicans had gained control of the Assembly. He had no comment to make.

Accompanied by Commander De Kay, his military secretary, the Governor walked through a driving rainstorm from his camp in the woods to the little station at McKeever where he learned through the Associated Press of results throughout the State.

No Opposition to Virginia Democrats.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 7.—With no opposition to the regular Democratic ticket except in some districts where Republicans nominated candidates for the General Assembly, the election to-day was merely a ratification of the primaries. Returns to-night indicate that the Democrats will have a majority of about 110 votes in joint Assembly, which consists of 140 members. No candidates for Federal office were voted for in Virginia to-day.

H. T. DEWEY & SONS CO., 138 Fulton St., N. Y.—Adv.

C. Cropsey (Fus.) beat John F. Clarke (Dem.) for another term as District Attorney of Kings by 6,802 plurality. Law (Fus.) is also elected Sheriff over Ragan (Dem.) by about 19,157 plurality.

Cassidy, in Queens, makes his man Smith District Attorney by a bare 800 votes.

In Richmond alone did the Democrats sweep the entire field. The Democratic ticket is elected in the island borough by a safe margin.

NEW YORK ASSEMBLY SOLIDLY REPUBLICAN

Republicans 101, Democrats 48, and 1 Socialist, the First in the State.

TAMMANY'S LARGE LOSSES

Eight Members Gone in Manhattan and the Bronx—15 Out of 23 Kings Assemblymen Republicans.

The next New York Assembly will be Republican by a safe majority. Indications at midnight were that it would be composed of 101 Republicans, 49 Democrats, and 1 Socialist member. The result was very close in several districts up-State, and was still considered in doubt, but later returns will not essentially change the figures.

This will give the Republicans a working majority of 24 of all the members elected to the Assembly. The numerical majority over the Democrats will be 50. The present Assembly is made up of 85 Democrats, 63 Republicans, 1 Independent Democrat, and 1 Independence Leaguer.

It will be the first time in the legislative annals of this State that a Socialist will take a seat in either house of the Legislature. The pioneer of the Socialist ascendancy is Herbert M. Merrill. He was elected from Schenectady by a substantial majority, largely as a result of discontent in that industrial city with the management of the two older parties. In the present Assembly Schenectady is represented by a Democrat, who early in the session joined the insurgent ranks.

The Democrats lost ground in every section of the State, but comparatively their losses in this city were more disastrous than in the rural sections. The Republican gains in New York City cannot be regarded except in the light of a rebuke to Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy and his lieutenants in the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens.

The Republican gains up-State represent very largely a return to the condition that existed prior to the Democratic sweep a year ago. In New York City, and particularly in New York County, the Assembly elections brought about changes which might well make the Democrats sit up and take notice.

The heavily Democratic Borough of the Bronx, which had four Democratic representatives in the last Assembly and which only rarely has sent a member of the opposite political faith to the lawmaking body, will not have a single Democrat in the next Assembly to act as spokesman for its thousands of Democrats. The result in that borough is ascribed very largely to the fact that Tammany leader Murphy ordered the defeat of the Stilwell-Mork bill, providing for the erection of a separate county out of the Borough of the Bronx and the more recent carving out of Democratic Congress districts, in the course of which the Bronx territory, much against the protest of the Democrats in that borough was divided between four different Congressional Districts, not one of which was located wholly within the borough borders.

The Republicans have gained eight Assemblymen in Manhattan and the Bronx, Tammany's former stronghold, and in all the two boroughs will have thirteen Republican representatives in the lower house of the Legislature next year.

In Kings, with the returns in two or three districts in doubt, the Assembly elections resulted in gains for the Republicans proportionally much larger. Out of twenty-three Assembly Districts in that borough the Republicans succeeded in electing fifteen, as against five in the last House.

A rebuke was administered to Tammany for the failure to renominate Edmund R. Terry and Sydney W. Fry, the Democratic Assemblymen of the First and Twelfth Assembly Districts in Brooklyn, who stood out as insurgents against Murphy in voting against William F. Sheehan for United States Senator, and against the Tammany charter. By way of punishment, the organization nominated Dr. James H. McCabe in place of Terry and Max Arens in place of Fry. Terry's friends nominated him by petition, but the Republican organization had his certificate of nomination declared invalid by the courts, on the ground that some names appeared there without the knowledge of the persons who bore them.

Nevertheless, about 750 voters, according to figures late last night, went to the trouble of writing Mr. Terry's name in the blank column of the ballot yesterday, despite the danger of thereby invalidating their vote. Oddly enough, it was by about that very figure—700 votes—that McCabe, the organization candidate, was defeated by Daniel V. Barnes, the Republican candidate. Arens, the organization substitute for Fry, was defeated by a large majority—about 2,000—by Frederick W. Singleton, Republican.

In the Twenty-third Assembly District of Brooklyn the Democratic Assemblyman Louis Goldstein, whose renomination was generally believed to have been forced on the Democratic organization by the popularity he won as counsel for the State Banking Department in the Union Bank investigation, was defeated by 1,000 votes by William F. Mathewson, the Republican candidate. His friends were loud in their charges of "knifing" at the hands of the Democratic organization.

Queens, which had four Democratic Assemblymen at this year's session, will be evenly divided in the next House. The Republicans elected their candidates from the Third and Fourth Assembly Districts in Queens. One of the Democrats reelected, A. J. Kennedy, from the Second, is a red-hot insurgent who at the last session heeded neither the demands of Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy or those of his local boss in Queens, Joseph Cassidy.

Richmond remains Democratic.

In the rural section the Republicans gained the following districts which elected Democratic Assemblymen a year ago: Columbia, Dutchess, 1; three districts in Erie County, Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Montgomery, Nassau, Niagara, 1; Otsego, Saratoga, Suffolk, Schnectady, Tioga, Yates, Clinton, Ulster, 1.

The only up-State Republican districts won over by the Democrats were Rensselaer, 1; Broome and Westchester, 1.

The only districts won by the Democrats away from the Republicans in the last election which they will hold in the next Assembly are Chemung, Greene, Tompkins, Rockland, Schuyler, and Sullivan and Steuben, 2.

The insurgent Democrats, who led a forlorn hope a year ago in ordinarily Republican districts and pulled victory out of defeat for their party, were led to the slaughter in the present election. In some instances Tammany Leader Murphy, who dominates the Democratic State organization, made every effort to aid the Republicans in bringing about the defeat of the Democratic members who had caused him so much worry at the time of the Senatorial election and since. The roll of martyred insurgents includes Assemblymen Drummond of Cayuga, Brace of Montgomery, Martin of Saratoga, Brodenbecker of Herkimer, Saunders of Columbia, Beach of Tioga, Gregg of Lewis, Hoyt of Dutchess, and Holman of Nassau.

At midnight the fate of former Lieut. Gov. Lewis Stuyvesant Canler, who was running for re-election to the Assembly from the First District in Dutchess, was in doubt. Latest returns show only about 50 plurality.

One surprise was furnished by Albany County, where William Barnes, Jr., carried all three Assembly districts, despite the heavy pounding he has received through the legislative investigation into Albany affairs which is in progress.

Barnes elected his Assemblymen with increased majorities in each of the three districts.

One Republican insurgent victory is represented by the election of Theodore Douglas Robinson, who won in Herkimer County against the opposition of both the Democrats and the Republican machine, which had another candidate re-nominated and accepted Mr. Robinson only after the courts had delivered a ruling compelling that course. Mr. Robinson is a nephew of Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

The result in many of the up-State districts was exceedingly close.

WESTCHESTER IS REPUBLICAN.

Democratic Mayors in New Rochelle, Yonkers, and Mount Vernon.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 7.—According to late returns, the Republicans elected their full county ticket by about 4,000 majority, but in the cities of Mount Vernon, Yonkers, and New Rochelle the Democrats carried many of the city offices. Republicans elect their Assemblymen, while the Democrats elect one Member of Assembly from the First District, the City of Yonkers.

Mayor Edwin W. Fiske of Mount Vernon was re-elected for a sixth term as chief executive of that city by over 400 votes. It was an avalanche for Fiske, as the city is normally Republican by about 500. He defeated George H. Taylor, Jr., Republican. George C. Appell was chosen for City Judge over Joseph Henry Esser, while John H. Cordes was probably elected City Controller. The returns were late in Mount Vernon, and the balance of the city ticket is in doubt.

Frederick Waldorf, Democrat, of New Rochelle, was chosen Mayor of that city over Harry E. Colwell, the present Republican incumbent.

In Yonkers Daniel Cashin, Republican, was defeated by Mayor James T. Lennon, who was seeking re-election.

In New Rochelle the Republicans elected four Aldermen and two Supervisors.

In White Plains Farrington Thompson, Democrat, was again chosen Mayor over John J. Thompson, Republican, but the balance of the town ticket is Republican.

The Westchester County Board of Supervisors is again Republican, standing 20 to 18.

William S. Doyle of White Plains was elected Sheriff of Westchester County on the Republican ticket by over 4,000, and George T. Burling was elected Treasurer by a still greater vote.

Isaac H. Smith of Peekskill, former Supreme Court stenographer and a Republican, was elected County Register. Alfred H. Iles of Yonkers and W. H. Livingston of New Rochelle will be the next Coroners.

National Committeeman William L. Ward of Port Chester, the Republican leader of the county, received returns at headquarters, at White Plains. He said:

"The Republican county ticket is elected by a big majority, but the cities of Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, and Yonkers have gone Democratic. That is due to the work of Tammany men. In Yonkers I understand that the Democrats corralled all the men employed on the reservoir and the aqueduct work, which caused the Democratic victory. The next Assembly will be Republican, according to the latest returns I have received."

SAN FRANCISCO FUSION WINS.

Returns Indicate Defeat of Union Labor Candidates.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Scattered returns of the municipal election to-day indicate a victory for the municipal conference candidates for Supervisors over the Union Labor candidates. The conference represented the Democratic, Republican, and Good Government Parties. This coalition was victorious on Sept. 26, when a direct primary elected James Rolph for the Mayoralty over P. H. McCarthy, Union Labor, by a majority vote.

Greatest interest to-day centred in the fight between Hawthorne, conference candidate, and Charles M. Fickert, Union Labor incumbent, for District Attorney. Fickert had led in the primaries, but tonight's returns showed the result in doubt.

New Mexico Goes Republican.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 7.—Today's first State election brought out a very large, probably a record, vote. Early this morning strings of voters were at the polls. This city polled 300 more votes than ever before, and telegrams to The Evening Herald indicate heavy voting all over the State. At the Republican headquarters victory by a majority of at least 1,500 is asserted.

H. O. Bursum, Republican candidate, over the telephone from Socorro, said he would win by a majority of 7,000. Bursum is likely to run ahead of the ticket. The main fight was on the head of the ticket, and it is believed W. C. McDonald, the Democratic candidate, will lose even his own county. Indications are that the flood amendment will be lost.

Eight Socialist Mayors Elected.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Eight Ohio cities elected Socialist Mayors today. These are Lorain, St. Marys, Martins Ferry, Fostoria, Mt. Vernon, Barberton, Salem, and Cuyahoga Falls.

In Canton it will take the official count to decide whether the Socialist candidate or Turnbull, (Democrat,) is elected. Unofficially, Turnbull wins by 3 votes.

Republican Mayor in Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 7.—Clifford B. Wilson, Republican, was elected Mayor of this city to-day by a majority of 303.

Democratic Mayor in Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 7.—Indications are that Beard, Democrat, has been re-elected Mayor by a large plurality over Stuart, Socialist, who seems to be running ahead of Sutliff, Republican.

O'Loughlin for Brooklyn Register.

Register, Kings.—The returns, with 18 election districts missing, give: Lundy, D., 85,818; O'Loughlin, R. & F., 106,156.

Bostwick Wins Richmond County Clerk

Bostwick, the Republican-Fusion candidate for County Clerk of Richmond, was elected over O'Grady, the Democratic candidate, by a majority of 964. Complete returns give O'Grady, 6,604; Bostwick, 7,568.

Hearst Appears Pleased.

William R. Hearst got the returns at his home, Riverside Drive and Eighty-sixth Street. He seemed well pleased at the outcome, and although he did not say so, he did not appear to have expected so many successes.

Richmond Elects Tiernan Judge.

In the contest for Surrogate and County Judge of Richmond County Tiernan, Democrat, received 7,600 votes to 6,687 for Handy, Republican and Fusion nominee.

MURPHY CALLS IT A SIGNAL TRIUMPH

And He Means That for Tammany, the People, He Says, Not Being Blinded.

GLOOM, HOWEVER, IN WIGWAM

Yellow Journals and Hypocrisy Downed, Says the Leader When He Finds Tammany Pulled Through.

From joy to gloom and finally to be glad again that they really had saved anything at all were the mutations through which the Tammany leaders passed in the Wigwam in Fourteenth Street, where they gathered to hear the returns. Leader Charles F. Murphy, Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, Julius Harburger, and twoscore more prominent Tammanyites dropped in early in the evening, and the first returns that came in over the ticker were so encouraging that every one seemed delighted. Mr. Murphy's smile was particularly ingratiating. The derby hat set over his left eye and the black cigar uptilted in his mouth seemed to tell a tale of victory.

That was about 7:30 o'clock. From then until about 10 o'clock the smile gradually faded, the cigar drooped. The returns came in slowly, but they told of hopes fast fading and possible defeat. When the 40,000 or so fancied pluralities dwindled remorselessly down to near the danger mark with a possibility that Justice Cohalan and even Julius Harburger, Tammany's candidate for Sheriff, might be defeated, Mr. Murphy's face was a study.

When the announcement finally came at 10 o'clock that Justice Cohalan had won by between 2,000 and 3,000 plurality and that Harburger had slipped through by only a few hundred more, Mr. Murphy left the room and went into his private office, where after a short conference with Mr. Cohalan he gave out the following statement:

> The result is a signal triumph for the people over the combined forces of yellow journalism and canting hypocrisy by which we were assailed. It shows conclusively that the people did their own thinking and are not blinded to actual conditions by the shrieks and cries of those who, for their own selfish purposes, are willing to assail and slander the fame of New York City.
> It is the strongest evidence that can be given that the yellow press does not represent the opinion or sentiment of the people, and that no alliance which they may make with the mercenary self-seekers of politics can defeat the will of the people. It shows a decided drift to the Democracy and indicates that we shall enter the National fight of 1912 with unbroken ranks and the certainty of carrying New York State for the Democratic ticket.

Justice Cohalan's confident attitude of the early evening also underwent a complete transformation. It seemed such an absolute certainty when the first few districts were heard from that he would win by a good, safe margin that neither he nor any of Mr. Murphy's friends were prepared for what followed. When the announcement came that he had barely pulled through Mr. Cohala was visibly affected. His friends clustered about him, and wrung his hands while others cheered. Asked if he had any statement to make, he shook his head and said:

"The result speaks for itself."

Later, after a consultation with Mr. Murphy, Justice Cohalan amplified this to: "I regard the outcome under all the circumstances as entirely satisfactory, and thank the people for their fairness in judging me by my record."

Unlike former years, the returns were not received at the Wigwam last night over a telegraph wire. The regular ticker was depended upon. Upstairs, on the second floor of the main hall, the returns were announced from the stage to a large crowd of the general public.

When Justice Cohalan arrived every one in the room stood up and cheered for several minutes. That was when it looked as if the Tammany ticket would have a walkover. A few minutes later Candidate Harburger came in and his welcome was equally [illegible] and rubbed his hands gleefully. Mingling in the crowd were Supreme Court Justice McCall, Judge Warren W. Foster, Commissioner John F. Galvin of the Board of Water Supply, George Loft, Robert L. Luce, Bartow S. Weeks, John F. McIntyre, George Gordon Battle, and Assemblyman James Foley.

Secretary Smith aroused the first laugh early in the evening by announcing that The New York American conceded the election of Justice Scott.

Mr. Smith was frank to say that there had not been such a slump in Tammany figures in years. As the returns showing heavy Fusion gains kept coming in all interest seemed to centre around the vote which Cohalan and Harburger were receiving. Both are extremely popular in Tammany Hall, and the crowd wanted them to win. When Cohalan's election seemed assured three cheers were given for him, and every one gathered around to congratulate him.

Leader Murphy as well as the others gave u all hope of the Assembly or Aldermen. About 10:30 o'clock they left the room without waiting for the full returns.

BARNES TELLS WHAT REPUBLICANS WILL DO

They Will Block Any Attempt to Pass the Charter or Amend the Levy Law

AND CHECK ALL EXCESSES

State Chairman Doesn't Expect Republican Assembly to Do Much More, with a Hostile Senate and Governor.

Republican State Headquarters was jubilant last night when it was learned that the Assembly of 1912 would be safely Republican. The Republican County Committee, which has offices on the second floor of the same building, also appeared gratified over the vote cast in this city for the county ticket.

When Chairman William Barnes of the Republican State Committee heard that the next Assembly would be Republican he said:

"This is a complete revival of the intelligence of the people in this State."

In a statement given out he added:

"The returns from Albany and throughout the State are most gratifying. I am informed that we have practically carried everything, that it is a Republican landslide. The Republicans have elected fully ninety Assemblymen, with some districts missing, which will give a Republican majority of thirty in any event.

"Republican Mayors have been elected in many of the large cities with the exception of Schenectady, where for the first time in the history of the State a Socialist will be Mayor. But the election there was largely a personal matter.

"The results throughout the State indicate a revival of confidence in the Republican Party and a positive rebuke to the Legislative record of 1911 and Gov. Dix.

"Grave responsibilities now rest on the new elected Republican Assembly to show the people of this State its capacity of intelligent and conscientious treatment of important matters which must come before it for determination. It may not be able to accomplish great achievements, owing to the Democratic majority in the Senate and Gov. Dix, but it will serve as an absolute check upon any further excesses of the character enacted or attempted at the session of 1911."

Chairman Barnes said that any attempt to pass the Charter or to make any amendments to the Levy Election law would blocked by the Republican Assembly.

With Mr. Barnes were ex-Senator William Tulley, John S. Kennedy of the Public Service Commission at Albany, William Leary, formerly State Superintendent of Elections; William H. Bender, Treasurer of the Republican State Committee; Lafe Gleason, Secretary of the State Committee, and Nathan Ottinger, the judiciary candidate.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, would not concede a Tammany victory on the county ticket up to late last night, when a large Republican majority was shown in several of the outlying districts cutting Tammany's plurality to a bare 2,000.

"For an off year the vote for the Fusion ticket was highly encouraging," said Mr. Koenig. In any event it is a defeat for Murphy. He has lost his Assembly and his Board of Aldermen, which is the cruelest blow of all.

"We are glad to see that New York has put a stumbling block in the way of Murphy, and that any effort upon his part to pass the charter or make any amendments to the Levy bill will be frustrated.

"The vote, not only in this county, but throughout the State shows that the citizenship opposed to Murphy is united, and the result of it all is very gratifying to us.

"I think seventeen out of thirty-five Assemblymen in Manhattan and the Bronx is a splendid showing for New York County, which is as a rule Democratic, to make for the Fusionists."

Barnes Carries Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Mayor James B. McEwan, Republican, was re-elected by 4,928 majority. The Board of Supervisors stands 30 Republicans and 8 Democrats, a Republican gain of 2. Col. Charles E. Davis, the Democratic candidate for Mayor against McEwan, requested Gov. Dix to empanel a special Grand Jury to take up violations of the election law, should any occur. The election proceeded quietly. Scores of detectives from New York City watched the polls.

Gov. Dix motored three miles over very muddy roads from his Summer home at Thomson, Washington County, to the polling place where he cast Ballot 32 before 8 o'clock. After casting his ballot the Governor, with Mrs. Dix, drove to Saratoga, where they boarded a train for this city.

Utica Elects Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The city of Utica, after a very warm election, changed its political complexion completely and elected a Republican Mayor and Council. A Democrat was elected Treasurer.

James K. O'Connor, Independent nominee for City Judge, received almost as many votes as were given to both the Democratic and Republican nominees.

First Democrat in Sixteen Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Wellsville, Allegany County, elected Leonard J. Rogenmoser, the first Democratic Supervisor in sixteen years.

Republicans Carry Suffolk County.

The figures so far obtainable in Suffolk County, Long Island, show a Republican victory, with these majorities: Towns of Southold, 300 majority for the Republican county ticket; Riverhead, 300 majority; Shelter Island, 50 majority; East Hampton, 100; Southampton, 510; Brookhaven, 600; Babylon, 150; Islip, 350; Smithtown, 150, and Huntington, 350.

Rochester Rejects Six Amendments.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 7.—Amendments 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 were defeated in this city by pluralities ranging from a few votes to 2,000. Amendment 7 was carried by 900 votes. The canal terminal vote was 7,012 for to 2,823 against. The Republican Assemblymen were elected by pluralities of 1,300 to 3,200. The Democrats gain one seat in the Common Council.

Canal Terminals Approved.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 7.—From scattering returns received from several counties in all parts of the State, Howard D. Hadley of this city, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Barge Canal Terminal Conference estimates at 7:30 o'clock that "Proposition No. 1," for $19,800,000 for canal terminals, has been approved by a majority of at least 300,000.

Jamestown Opposes Canal Plans.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The constitutional amendments and canal proposition were all overwhelmingly defeated in the city. The Republican county ticket is elected.

SCHENECTADY ELECTS SOCIALIST TICKET

Upheaval Due to Failure of Republicans and Democrats to Carry Out Reforms.

OTHER NEW YORK RESULTS

Republicans Carry Rochester and Buffalo—Amsterdam, Elmira, and Port Jervis Democratic.

Special to The New York Times.

SCENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Rev. Dr. George R. Lunn, pastor of the First Congregational Church and editor of The Citizen, a Socialist weekly, was to-day elected Socialist Mayor of this city by a plurality of 1,999 votes, or practically two-thirds of the vote cast. The Socialists also won a sweeping victory in the Common Council, having a majority of at least two Aldermen, and probably a majority in the Board of Supervisors, which has been strongly Republican for a number of years.

The only city or county offices that the Socialists did not carry are thought to be City Judge, which went Republican by a small plurality, and possibly County Superintendent of the Poor, which is thought to have resulted in the re-election of a Democrat.

It now looks as though the Socialists would have Herbert M. Merrill as Assemblyman in this county. This is the first time in the history of the county that the Socialists have played any part in an election. Their vote in former years generally compared with the Prohibitionists and never reached a danger point. However, the landslide of the Socialists is not surprising, as the people have shown during the campaign that they were disgusted with the way the Republicans and Democrats have conducted the affairs of the city in the last few years.

Four years ago the Republicans gave a most unsatisfactory administration, and the Democrats carried the city, but they have failed to carry out any reforms, thus giving an exceptional opportunity for the Socialists.

Dr. Lunn's platform has stood for reform, his chief arguments being in favor of a municipal street-paving plant to defeat the so-called Paving Trust, in the city, which has controlled all the work and maintained a fixed price on pavements since the streets were first improved; a reduction in the gas price, which now stands at $1.50, and a cut in the city payrolls. He has brought about reforms in two respects, for the Mohawk Gas Company filed a reduction in price only ten days ago, and he induced Warren Brothers of Boston to come here with a pavement, which they will lay at a price cheaper than the local concerns.

When interviewed to-night at his home Dr. Lunn made this statement:

"The Socialist Party naturally feels elated over the victory. We shall give to Schenectady such an administration as will cause every citizen to have no regret for having elected the Socialists to office."

Dr. Lunn further said that the tremendous sweep was as much a surprise to him as it was to everybody else, and he was especially pleased that the whole ticket was elected.

"I would have preferred to have been defeated rather than be elected alone," he said.

Herbert M. Merrill, Socialist member of Assembly from Schenectady County, made but a brief statement to-night. He said:

"As I have advocated in all my campaign speeches, I shall endeavor to represent the interests of the working class in the State Legislature."

Mr. Merrill was born in Campton, N. H., on Sept. 13, 1871. He was educated in Plymouth, N. H., and Boston, Mass., and came to this city in September, 1900. Since then he has been employed as an armature winder in the local plant of the General Electric Company. He was a charter member of the local Schenectady Socialist Party, and is now Secretary of that organization. He has been interested in the Socialist movement for some twenty years, and has been a candidate on the city ticket here many times, being selected as nominee for Mayor four years ago.

Milwaukee was the first large city in the United States to elect a Socialist Mayor and Common Council. The election, which was held on April 5, 1910, was a clean sweep for the Socialist Party. Emil Seidel, who was opposed by strong candidates in both the Republican and Democratic Parties, was chosen Mayor by about 7,000 plurality, and his victory turned the whole City Government over to the new party. The success of the Socialist Party in Milwaukee was largely due to Victor Berger, known as the "Socialist Czar of Milwaukee." It was he who built up the party, nursed it, and got an occasional official elected through it. Berger was elected to Congress on Nov. 9, 1910.

The Milwaukee Socialists met a defeat on April 4, 1911, when their candidates for the School Board were beaten by a Catholic ticket, aided by a non-partisan movement to oppose the Socialists in their efforts to capture a Circuit Judge and gain membership in the School Board.

In Illinois, on April 18, 1911, the Socialists were successful in three cities. Grant City, elected Marshall E. Kirkpatrick, Mayor, and also elected two Aldermen. A month previous another Socialist was elected Alderman. At Canton, Ill., the Socialists elected six Aldermen, while at Grafton, Ill., J. J. Keon, known as the "Socialist Martyr," was defeated for Mayor by only 39 votes. O'Fallon, Ill., elected a Socialist Mayor, City Marshal, Street Superintendent, and two Aldermen.

Dealy Wins in Amsterdam.

Special to The New York Times.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Jacob H. Dealy, Democrat, was elected Mayor by a majority of 98. His Republican opponent was Debaum Van Aken. The Common Council will stand a tie, 4 Republicans and 4 Democrats.

Rochester Is Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Mayor Hiram H. Edgerton, Republican, was re-elected by a plurality of more than 6,000, and the entire city and county Republican tickets were returned by good pluralities in to-day's election.

Republicans Carry Gloversville.

Special to The New York Times.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Edward C. Whitmeyer of Schenectady, Republican, received a plurality of upward of 1,000 for Justice of the Supreme Court in this county over J. A. Kellogg, the Democratic candidate and present incumbent.

The Republicans carried the City of Gloversville by a big plurality.

Johnstown re-elected its Democratic Mayor, Abram Harrison, and a Democratic Supervisor and two Aldermen by very narrow margins. The balance of the city and county tickets went Republican.

Buffalo Goes Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Republicans, with Francis G. Ward at the head of the city ticket for Superintendent of Public Works, carried Buffalo to-day. A bitter fight by the best element of the city was made against Ward, but he beat Jerge, the Democrat, by 3,817.

William Burnet Wright, Jr., Democratic candidate for District Attorney, in whose behalf Joseph Folk of Missouri and other National Democrats appeared, was badly beaten. Dudley, Republican, got a plurality of 10,045 over Wright. The defeat was due mainly to the personal unpopularity of Wright.

The Republicans carried the County of Erie by substantial pluralities.

Republicans Win in Watertown.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Francis M. Hugo, Republican, was re-elected Mayor over Kieff, Democrat, by 192 majority.

In the contest for Supreme Court Justice in Jefferson County, 31 districts out of 77 in the county give Purcell, Democrat, 400; Emerson, Republican, 4,614, and Hubbs, Republican, 2,748.

Syracuse Republicans Win.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Edward Schoeneck, Republican, was re-elected Mayor of Syracuse over Ludington, Democratic, by 14,790 votes to 10,578, a plurality of 4,212.

Thomas M. Osborne Beaten in Auburn.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Thomas H. O'Neill, Republican, was re-elected Mayor of Auburn, defeating Thomas M. Osborne, Democrat. The Socialists made remarkable gains and elected an Alderman and a member of the Board of Supervisors.

Democratic Mayor for Troy.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Cornelius F. Burns Democrat, defeated Elias P. Mann, Republican, and candidate for fourth term, for Mayor of Troy, by 1,500 majority.

Binghamton Has Democratic Mayor.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 7.—John J. Irving, Democrat, carried the city of Binghamton for Mayor.

Corning Is Democratic.

CORNING, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Corning City reelected Frederick Ellison, Democrat, over Rettig, Republican, for Mayor by 302 plurality. The entire Democratic city ticket also was elected.

Plattsburg Re-elects a Democrat.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Andrew G. Senecal, Democrat, was re-elected Mayor of Plattsburg by 300 plurality. All of the six Democratic Aldermen were elected.

Port Jervis Elects Democrats.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Nov. 7.—W. H. Nearpass, Democrat, was elected Mayor of this city by a majority of 333. The next Common Council will be Democratic, supplanting a Republican administration.

Ithaca Democrats Win.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—John Reamer, Democrat, was elected Mayor. The Common Council is Democratic, 6 to 4.

his headquarters all day for the purpose of receiving complaint of violations of the Geran corrupt practices, and general election laws, said that the laws were well observed throughout the county. Several complaints, he said, were made that money was being used for fraudulent purposes, but while investigations were made, these complaints could not be verified. The five Assemblymen elected were all Republicans and the county ticket elected was all Republican, with the probable exception of the Register of Deeds. Mayor McBride, Democrat, was re-elected for a third term.

The Democrats made a clean sweep, apparently, in Hudson County. Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City was re-elected by a majority which his friends claim will go to 12,000, but which was certainly half that amount.

In Jersey City, Wodin, (Democrat,) for Sheriff, was running behind Wittpenn, but he was running strong enough to carry the county. It was also pretty certian that all of the Democratic candidates for Assembly, twelve in all, were elected. This is as it was a year ago. Mark Fagan, former Mayor of Jersey City, running for Sheriff of the county against Wodin, (Democrat,) polled a big vote, but did not cut into the regular Democratic vote enough to be elected, according to the first estimate based on the first 100 votes cast in each election district.

The Democrats carried the City of Hoboken, Martin Cooke being elected Mayor with a majority of 3,500. This re-establishes Democratic rule, which, until George Gonzales, the present Mayor, was elected two years ago, had been unbroken for twenty-two years. All the Democrats on the county ticket were elected by a majority ranging from 1,500 to 3,500. Not a single Republican was elected in Hoboken.

Matthew Cronin, the Democratic leader of Bayonne, N. J., was elected Mayor there yesterday by a majority of 9,000 over Charles E. Annett, the Republican candidate, and Mayor John J. Cain, who was renominated as an independent Democrat. The regular Democrats carried all the important places on the ticket.

At Atlantic City the indications are that the Republicans will have sure victory by a safe majority, though not as large as in other years. Godfrey will be elected without doubt as Assemblyman, but it may be that Judge Thompson, (Democrat,) will be elected also. Bacharach, (Republican,) will be elected Mayor.

FOSS WINS BY 7,734 IN MASSACHUSETTS

Except for Frothingham, Republicans Elect Their Entire State Ticket.

LUCE'S PLURALITY IS 6,750

Gov. Foss Calls It "Second Great Victory Over Machine Rule," Despite "Most Scandalous Boodle Campaign."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7.—As bitter a campaign as Massachusetts has seen in a decade closed to-night with the re-election by a plurality of 7,734 of Gov. Eugene N. Foss, the Democratic candidate. So close was the vote that the actual result was not within sight until nearly midnight. This was how the vote stood:

| | |
|---|---|
| Foss, Democrat | 210,622 |
| Frothingham, Republican | 202,888 |
| Plurality for Foss | 7,34 |

The returns showed a Democratic loss of about 8 per cent. and a Republican ratio of gain of a little more than 4 per cent.

For Lieutenant Governor, Luce, the Republican candidate, was elected by a narrow margin. The complete count follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Luce, Republican | 208,700 |
| Walsh, Democratic | 201,950 |
| Plurality for Luce | 6,750 |

From a National point of view the result may not unfairly be taken to mean that a majority of Massachusetts voters are not content to wait with President Taft for the report of the Tariff Board on the textile schedules. The campaign has been largely fought on this issue, although local topics have been discussed throughout on both sides.

The fact that Gov. Foss lost heavily in the cities, 6,300 in Boston, 1,000 in Lynn, 700 in Fall River, 500 in Taunton, &c., is ascribed to belief that his acts have not squared with his promises on labor matters and to the fact that his expenditures, though they have totaled only $16,000, have been, except $5,000, of benefit to himself rather than to the "workers."

His veto of the Ellis Pure Milk bill won him many friends in the towns from which the milk supply of the metropolis is drawn, and contributed not a little to swell his vote. On the other hand the popularity of Frothingham, the Republican candidate, was due in large measure to the reduction of Foss's plurality. Boston fell from 27,000 last year to 21,000 to-day, more enthusiasm being displayed by the Republicans than the Democrats.

The Republicans made much of the Governor's costly and unsuccessful attempt to prove that money had been wasted or stolen by Republican State officials; of his delay in filling vacant offices, and of what they termed his insincerity, although they used language less mild. His oft repeated assertion that he alone was responsible for the "progressive legislation" of the last year, aroused a storm of criticism from opposition orators, who pointed out the fact that both branches of the Legislature were overwhemingly Republican.

The Governor has spoken slightingly, almost sneeringly of the Lieutenant Governor, and the latter has retorted with little less elegance, and the canvass has been marked by a bitterness which was reflected by the immense crowds which thronged about the Boston newspaper offices to-night.

Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Senators Lodge and Crane, and Chairman Hatfield of the Republican State Committee received the returns in a hotel room, while Gov. Foss sat at a wire in his office in the State House. The early returns were all favorable to the former party, and there was great joy as the extra editions of the newspapers proclaimed Frothingham's election—some of them said by 40,000.

Early in the afternoon Senator Lodge, who had taken no actual part in the campaign, had predicted a Republican plurality of 15,000, and he was particularly gratified by these early returns. Before 9 o'clock, however, the area of joy had shifted up Beacon Hill, and Gov. Foss, although never losing confidence in the result, burst out in glee. An hour later he gave out that his plurality would be 12,000, and this appeared to satisfy him.

Gov. Foss issued this statement before midnight:

"The people have won this second great victory over machine rule, in spite of the most scandalous boodle campaign ever waged in this State. I shall secure a law forbidding the employment of paid workers at the polls, and compelling the pre-election statement of all expenses.

"I am grateful to my party and to the thousands of loyal independents who have worked hard and honestly for this victory. Massachusetts has spoken unmistakably for an honest revision of the tariff, and for a business administration of the commonwealth. The National significance of this election is inestimable, the rest of the country will follow the lead of Massachusetts."

Legislative returns tabulated up to midnight indicated also that the Republicans had lost one seat in the State Senate, but gained ten places in the House. It was expected that because it was an off year the total vote would fall off considerably, but the average was well maintained.

MACK OPTIMISTIC FOR 1912.

Democratic Chairman Says His Party Will Present United Front.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Norman E. Mack, Chairman of the Democratic State and National Committees, received the election returns at his home here tonight. Commenting on the turnover in the State Assembly, Mr. Mack said:

"The Republicans were in control of the Legislature for many years, and gerrymandered the Assembly districts until assured of a hold upon the lower house, except in a year when some great State or National issue was before the people. The returns indicate that the Democratic losses have been general, New York and Erie County contributing eleven. Columbia, Herkimer, Montgomery, Oneida, Saratoga, Yates, Ulster, and Queens also failed to return Democrats who were elected at the last election. The results in other States indicate that the Democracy will present a united front in 1912."

offices was injury to the Republican cause. It is not outside the bounds of probability that the votes cast for that ticket, coming entirely from Republicans, have defeated some of the Republican candidates. Undoubtedly Judge Bode suffered considerably from this third ticket. What vote the Socialists received has not been determined.

President Taft's intervention in the political situation is believed to have had a detrimental effect on to-day's municipal election, just as his speech at Akron, Ohio, in 1905, is conceded to have then affected the State election. The decided switch in the President's view relative to the merits of Boss Cox's municipal ticket, moreover, is far from being understood by the people of Cincinnati.

Here is the letter which President Taft sent to former Mayor Julius Fleischman in answer to Mr. Fleischman's request for an expression from the President as to his attitude on the municipal campaign and made public on Nov. 4:

> I expect to be in Cincinnati on Election Day, and unless my registration is defective, to cast my vote for the Republican municipal ticket, because I believe the candidates thereon to be competent and worthy. * * * I shall vote the Republican ticket because I think the conditions under which I made my Akron speech have substantially changed. I write this only because of the statement of which you advise me in your letter.
>
> WILLIAM H. TAFT.

The asterisks indicate a paragraph which was omitted from the published version of the letter at Mr. Taft's request.

In his Akron speech of Oct. 21, 1905, the President denounced Boss Cox vehemently. Although six years had elapsed since the President made this speech, it was still fresh in the memory of Ohioans, and the President's reversal of his attitude, therefore, not only came as a surprise, but to many as a decided shock.

The so-called Independent Republicans, who oppose Cox were so indignant when they heard of the President's recent letter to Julius Fleischman, the leader of the Republican forces in the city, that a letter from prominent Republicans and 100 Independents, was sent to the President denouncing his sanction of Boss Cox and informing him that he must have been misinformed as to the true conditions of affairs. In addition an advertisement, signed by 102 prominent Republicans, was printed in the daily newspapers, advising all Republicans to vote for Henry T. Hunt, the Democratic candidate for Mayor.

Democrats Sweep Cleveland.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 7.—After two years of Republican administration the people of Cleveland to-day returned to the tenets of Tom L. Johnson, electing Newton D. Baker, a political pupil of his, Mayor by a plurality that may reach 15,000. Democratic leaders say he will have 25,000. It is the most overwhelming defeat the Republicans have had in a decade, Baker probably carrying the entire Democratic ticket to victory with him, and a City Council that will be largely Democratic.

Mr. Baker, a young lawyer whom Tom Johnson put into his cabinet eight years ago, was with the dead Mayor in his long street railway fight, and pledged himself during the campaign to carry out the ideals that Mr. Johnson gave his life to promulgate. He will at once start a fight to give Cleveland three-cent electric light as Johnson gave the city a three-cent fare. Long before Tom Johnson died the people of Cleveland realized that they had made a mistake by defeating him two years ago, and this was the biggest factor in giving the Democrats so large a plurality.

One strange development of the election was the defeat of James R. Garfield, who was a candidate for constitutional delegate in his home county of Lake. Garfield, though once the leader of Ohio insurgents, refused to pledge himself to the initiative and referendum and was beaten by over 400 votes, a strong progressive being named. Indications are that the Ohio constitutional convention will be radically progresive. The Democratic victories in the big cities of Ohio to-day are taken as a hard blow to President Taft.

Democratic Mayor for Columbus.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 7.—The Democrats have carried Columbus. Returns from two-thirds of the precincts in this city show the election of George J. Karb, Democrat, for Mayor, by a plurality of 5,000 to 7,000. Mr. Eby, Socialist candidate, is running even with Mayor Marshall, the Republican candidate, for second place. The vote is the largest polled in many years.

A big parade and demonstration of the Socialists on Saturday night caused consternation among the voters. The red flag was waved and incendiary speeches made.

The Karb managers had meetings in every part of the city last night, the speakers declaring that if the voters did not want the Socialists to rule the city they must vote for Karb, instead of Marshall, who, they alleged, had given the Socialists great strength by his actions in the street railway strike last year. The tide turned to Karb and the Marshall managers could not stem it.

Two years ago the Socialist candidate for Mayor received less than 1,000 votes. At the county election five months previous the Socialist candidate for Congress received over 12,000 votes, two-thirds of which were cast in the city. The Socialists have a strong organization in the factories and the railroad shops.

Mr. Karb has been Mayor twice and Sheriff of the county once.

Toledo Re-elects Whitlock.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Mayor Whitlock was re-elected in the election here to-day. He has already served three terms, and now enters upon a fourth as the city's executive.

Mayor Whitlock's majority was cut down from about 5,000 two years ago to about 3,600, according to an estimate based on the returns before a complete count could be made. Nearly the whole city ticket is elected with him. He has always led his ticket, but he may run behind some of his colleagues to-day because of the hard fight made against him.

It will be the fourth entirely independent administration, opposed by both party organizations and by the Socialists. There is a heavier Socialist vote than ever before. Indications show it will approach [illegible] in the campaign against Mayor Whitlock two years ago the Socialists polled only about 700 votes.

The results of the election indicate that the people of Toledo are determined to have a settlement of the street railway problem on a three-cent basis. Mayor Whitlock has made his campaign on this issue, as he did before, and all the independent candidates to the City Council are pledged to it.

Concord Re-elects Stonemason Mayor.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7.—Charles J. French, a granite cutter, was to-day elected Mayor for the third time, receiving 2,269 votes to 1,460 for Elmer H. Farrar. Under the present city charter municipal elections are non-partisan, no party designations appearing on the official ballot.

Town of Bethel Votes "Wet."

Special to The New York Times.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Democrats have a majority in the Board of Supervisors. The Republicans elected Frank Kinne Sheriff and George D. Pelston County Clerk.

Towns that voted on local option voted wet. The town of Bethel, in which is located the White Lake Summer resort, voted wet for the first time in nearly fifty years.

In the Municipal Court election in the Sixth District, Brooklyn, Shanahan received 14,267 votes, and Callaghan 24,127.

MARYLAND SWINGS TO REPUBLICANS

Returns Indicate Election of Goldsborough for Governor and State Ticket.

IMMENSE VOTE POLLED

Democrats Disfranchise Negroes by Making Ballots Too Complicated for Them to Understand.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 7.—For the second time in over thirty years Maryland has elected a Republican State ticket. Scattered returns from all over the State and Baltimore City show steady Republican gains, indicating the election of Phillips Lee Goldsborough by a majority of 3,000 or more. At 1 A. M. the Republican State Chairman said his party had won by 8,000 and over. The usual Democratic majorities in the Eastern shore counties have been heavily cut down, while the Republican majorities in the Western counties have been largely increased.

The Democratic managers do not yet concede a Republican victory, but they are anxious and depressed over the slowly increasnig Republican gains in Baltimore City. The last Republican Governor of Maryland was the late Lloyd Lowndes, who was elected in 1895 by about the same majority that Chairman Hanna asserts Goldborough will have. The Republican majority in the State ticket in Baltimore City is likely to reach 2,000 to 3,000 unless returns from some of the Democratic strongholds overcome some of the Republican gains. The precincts in which the independent element resides have gone strongly for Goldsborough, and the Republicans gain in most of the Democratic precincts so far counted.

In the negro wards the Republican vote fell off because the colored voters could either not mark their ballots, which were made too complicated by the Democrats, or they were bought by the Democrats to stay away from the polls. The Legislature will be Democratic, the House by 10 to 12 majority, and the Senate by 4. The Republican Governor will therefore be unable to carry out promised reforms, particularly in changing the election laws, as the Democratic machine will absolutely control the General Assembly.

No United Senator is to be elected. The independent Democratic leaders say that the election of Goldsborough and the turning over of Maryland to the Republicans means the death blow to the old Democratic machine, of which the late United States Senator Gorman was the ruling power for a quarter of a century, and which sought to perpetuate its control by the election of his son to the Governorship. The Digges constitutional amendment for disfranchizing the negroes has been defeated by a heavy vote.

Owing to the recent popular storm of protest against ballot frauds. Republicans are assured of at least a comparatively fair count and are cheerful over the apparent election of their State ticket for the first time since 1895, which is proof of the often-reiterated claim that Maryland, on an honest vote, is Republican.

In the Spring election Mayor Preston, a Democrat, carried the city by 700.

Gorman, the Democratic candidate for Governor, has carried his own county.

The independents and the Republicans made honest elections and the repeal of the Wilson ballot law the issues. The Democrats made their fight for the continuance in power on the slogan of the "White Man's Party" and the indorsement of a constitutional amendment to disfranchise the negroes by the "Grandfather's clause." The amendment voted on to-day is far more sweeping than the Poe and Straus amendments, which were defeated in previous State elections by overwhelming majorities.

Strong efforts were made in Baltimore to hold the business men's vote in line for the Democratic ticket on the ground that Democratic victory woud assure the holding in Baltimore next year of the Democratic National Convention.

A guarantee fund of $100,000 for the convention has been raised, and Chairman Mack of the Democratic National Committee came out in a statement the other day, which was utilized by the politicians for all it was worth, to the effect that if Maryland went Democratic Baltimore would be likely to get the convention. The independents lined up strongly for the Republican ticket, because they believed the success of the Democratic State ticket meant the perpetuation of the old Gorman ring régime by the election of Arthur Pue Gorman as Governor.

Owing to the fact that frauds were discovered in forty-four precincts in Baltimore and 250 Judges and clerks of elections were summoned by the Grand Jury after the recount of the ballots cast in the primary election in August, at which were nominated the Democratic candidates voted for to-day, the Reform League, composed of leading professional and business men, had watchers at every one of the 331 polling precincts. The count to-night is also being closely watched to prevent any attempts at fraud.

AND ZELTNER LOST.

He Won't Be an Alderman This Time, Not by 806 Votes.

Louis Zeltner will not be an Alderman after all—not even by wireless. The pushcart peddler's friend went down to defeat in the Fourth District yesterday before the Tammany candidate despite the Republican vote and the Hearst League indorsement. His successful opponent's name is Smith—Christian name, John.

Louis loses by 806 plurality. The vote was: Smith, (Tam.,) 2,615; Zeltner, (Rep. and I. L.,) 1,809. Zeltner accepted the figures with more philosophy on the whole than might have been expected.

"Never mind, boys," said he. "The next time, maybe perhaps."

He had promised three-cent carfares and the restoration of the Grand Street ferry among other things. The east side won't get them now.

Voter Dies at Polling Booth.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Watervliet's election was marked by the sudden death of John O'Brien, 60 years of age. He had voted in the first ward and turned to leave the polling place when he sank to the ground and died before a doctor could be summoned.

ELECTION CROWDS THRONG BROADWAY

They Made More Noise Than Ever, but Gave the Police Little Trouble.

TIMES SQUARE WAS PACKED

Paraders Rang Bells and Threw Confetti—Ten Thousand Out in the Bronx, and Harlem Turned Out, Too.

The people who came out this year to see how the election was going were not so numerous as the Broadway traffic policemen have come to expect on election nights. They seemed for the most part to get all they wished of the election news early in the evening, and after that they went in to make something of a Coney Island Mardi Gras or a Broadway New Year's Eve out of the occasion.

They were mostly young people who swung down Broadway on the west side from Fifty-ninth to Twenty-third Street in couples and back again on the east side, ringing bells and throwing confetti as they went.

Traffic policemen had little to do to control them. The policemen most in evidence bore the insignia of the Bridge Squad, and seemed perfectly at home amid the din and clangor. There were two principal stopping places where the crowds banked up against the police reserves and stopped to read the election bulletins. One of these was in Times Square, where the crowd banked back all the way to Forty-seventh Street and at intervals cheered as bulletins were displayed on the large bulletin board especially arranged on the north front of The Times Building.

The other centre for those who were intent on reading the returns was at Thirty-fourth Street, where the intersection of Sixth Avenue and Broadway was closed at intervals to all but street car traffic on account of the throngs.

The character of an election evening was given to Broadway almost before nightfall by the appearance at intervals of not more than fifty feet apart all the way from Twenty-third Street to Columbus Circle of whistle, bell, confetti, and rattler hawkers.

Some of the hawkers were old women and some were old men. They seemed to include all of the Bowery's "panhandler" brigade, and even the cripples who usually have shoe strings and chewing gum to offer. But instead of the appealing voices of their usual trade days they were in holiday spirit, with the alert manner of the business getter, who is confident of the market for his wares. The hawkers started all their instruments to work at full blast, and this brought on the first general chorus of noise of the night.

After the hawkers came the police. There were hundreds of them, not marched from the near-by station houses as heretofore, but from Headquarters, in charge of Inspectors especially designated to handle them. Bridge men and traffic squad men found themselves marching club to club with plain patrolmen from many precincts, all reorganized for the night into an emergency police army.

At Times Square the police had some trouble in keeping the crowds free of the Subway exits and entrances and in providing free passageway across Forty-third Street for the vehicular traffic. The crowds which swept against The Times Building from the west and east sides of Broadway and from Seventh Avenue seemed disposed at first to press close to the building to read the bulletins. They soon learned that it was just as easy to see from a distance and yielded a space sufficient for the Forty-third Street traffic and for the vehicular traffic on Broadway. On the usual bulletin boards on the east side of The Times Building the electric bulletin machines duplicated the news as published in larger letters to the north. Crowds in sections of Broadway reserved for their use read the news on the electric bulletins at close range.

In Forty-third Street, just opposite The Times bulletin board Inspector McCluskey took his position as commanding officer of the police from Twenty-third to Fifty-ninth Street. He had less mounted men than formerly, nearly all of his men from the mounted squads being out among the crowds afoot.

"I think it's the best-behaved election crowd I ever saw," McCluskey said in a moment of quiet between the arrival and departure of police squads as part of a general process of constant readjustment to meet the points of greatest tension.

"I'm thinking of sending about half my reserves home," he said at 10:30 o'clock. "These people haven't got the real election fever and they're not likely to run to the usual election excesses."

A little girl stepped up very close to the Inspector and rang a bell loudly in his ear. It was the season's one new contribution to the noise-making contraptions. Instead of having one gong, it had three, and they made a chime that seemed musical in comparison to the chorus of discords from the horns and rattlers. The little girl smiled and the Inspector smiled back at her. "That's the way of them," he remarked. "The young folk just want to make a noise and that's all there is to the crowd this year."

Inspector McClusky released 200 of his reserves shortly after 10:30 o'clock, and let another hundred go an hour later. At midnight the sidewalks on Broadway were still crowded, but the overflow into the streets had almost ceased.

Trouble with bonfires, which it was especially determined to prevent this year, occurred in a few instances on the lower east side. At Chrystie and Stanton Streets a fair-sized crowd set several packing boxes to blazing. Policemen from the Eldridge Street Station came to put out the fire, and some of the onlookers thought the policemen were speaking out of their turn when they ordered their companions at the fire hose to turn the stream into the crowd. Those who were drenched were sure the police were out of order, and started to advance in something approaching an angry mood.

The man at the fire plug loosened his lever another notch or two, and at that the crowd decided to abandon their idea of a reprisal programme. They watched the flames spaked out of their packing boxes from positions around convenient corners.

Downtown, where the greatest crowds used to centre, the mute testimony of a deserted City Hall Park and a deserted lower Broadway was that the folks have followed the white lights up to Forty-second Street. In the new centre, as compared to the old, there were more people in any half block in the Times Square section than in the entire district south of Chambers Street.

On the Bowery, where Big Tim Sullivan's clansmen were wont to range free on the nights of important elections, there was only a meagre turnout. It made the Democratic headquarters at 207 Bowery its rendezvous, and when it was announced that Harburger had won for the Sheriff there was cheering in which men, women, and children joined. It seemed the one out-from-the-heart cheer of the evening in that section.

Election night brought out a good-sized crowd in Harlem, although old citizens say that it was not so large as in some former years. Notwithstanding that view of it, the fact remains that the sidewalks on both sides of 125th Street, from Lenox to Eighth Avenue, were crowded with a steady marching throng. There was the usual amount of noise, but of rowdyism there was scarcely any.

Patrolmen were stationed twenty feet apart in charge of two Lieutenants and a Sergeant, while Capt. Sweeney had out his staff of detectives to keep order. The people walked from Lenox to Eighth Avenue and, crossing the street, walked back, tracing and retracing the sides of this rectangle. There were few automobiles on 125th Street, most motorists turning off the avenues at 124th or 126th Street to avoid the crowded thoroughfare. The principal restaurants drove a thriving trade.

The platform of the elevated railroad at Eighth Avenue and 125th Street was spoiled for a reviewing stand by the railroad company. A temporary "blind" had been constructed during the day, which cut off the view of the street in both directions. There was nothing to do but board a train after reaching the platform, which had been found too popular on other election nights.

In the Bronx, interest in the results of the election brought out more people than is usual on election night in that Borough. The centre of interest was 149th Street and Bergen Avenue, where two bulletin boards told the story of the returns. Vehicular traffic on both these streets was stopped within a block of their intersection. People leaving the Subway for the elevated at 149th Street and Third Avenue, or going in the opposite direction from elevated to Subway, went to Bergen Avenue in great numbers. The crowd was estimated at 10,000. Here, too, there was plenty of noise of horns and rattlers, but the police kept good order and there were no arrests.

A crowd of Italian marchers created a small disturbance at several points along Willis Avenue before the police put a stop to their celebration. From the shouts of the Italians and their outbursts of enthusiasm it could not be learned whether they were out for Tammany or in honor of Italian victories in North Africa. They used horns and flour to annoy people on the sidewalks. Between 143d and 144th Streets, one of their number shot off a pistol and two of them got mixed up in a fight. When the shots were fired, several policemen put in an appearance and they dispersed.

THROW BOTTLES AT POLICE.

Gangs Who Start Bonfires Flee to Tenement Roofs.

A gang fight in East Twenty-fifth Street kept policemen from the East Twenty-second Street Station busy for an hour before midnight. Men and boys had built a large bonfire from Third Avenue to the East River in Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets, and when the police turned a stream upon the fires the gangs retreated to the roofs of tenement houses, from where they hurled empty beer bottles and stones at the policemen.

Capt. Morris of the East Twenty-second Street Station turned out his own reserves, and then telephoned to nearby station houses for more. He sent squads of men through the tenement houses, clearing the roofs as they went, until it was possible to work without danger in the streets below. After that a score of fires were extinguished.

VOORHIS DEFENDS MURPHY.

Never Tried to Influence Election Commissioner's Office, He Says.

John R. Voorhis, State Superintendent of Elections, said late yesterday afternoon that he had been unjustly subjected to criticism because of the belief that he was under the direct influence of the man who exercises "arbitrary control" of the Democratic Party.

"This is also a criticism of Charles F. Murphy," said Mr. Voorhis, "and it is unwarranted. In view of my experience with former leaders of the party I feel that Mr. Murphy must be acquitted of any desire to control the office I hold through me. He has said to me many times during my career as an office holder that if any persons were recommended to me whom I deemed unfit they should not be employed.

"The office of State Commissioner of Elections has been put to a severe test throughout the State. In fifty-two counties Boards of Election have assumed control for the first time, and they have depended upon us for instructions how to proceed. In addition, we have had to extend our own organization throughout the State, and believe that for the first time voters understand that election laws were made to be enforced."

GADSKI SNUBBED CLAQUER.

Singer Hung Up Her 'Phone When Applause-Seller Called Her Up.

Professional claquers have no friend in either Mme. Gadski or Mme. Fornia. Both prima donnas said yesterday that they knew of the existence of a claque at the Metropolitan Opera House, but each declared that the paid applauders were not strong enough here to dictate to singers.

"I have never paid to be applauded in my life," said Mme. Gadski. "But I know that a claque exists because a man once called me up on the telephone and asked me if I could enlist his services. I at once hung up the receiver. I should never think of such a thing. Any triumph achieved in such a manner would mean nothing to me."

"Some time ago a man," Mme. Fornia said, "visited me and asked me if I would hire him to act as my claque leader. He showed me a book with a list of other singers in it who paid certain sums to be applauded, and asked me if I would add my name. Of course I refused."

NO WORK FOR JUDGES ON ELECTION CASES

Even in the Worst Precinct of Old Not a Single Prisoner Was Before the Court.

INDICTED MEN DISCHARGED

Only One Out of Six Held in General Sessions for False Registration—A Record Day.

Supreme Court Justices who sat to hear election cases yesterday said they found it the quietest election in the history of the county. Justice Giegerich, who sat in the old Union Market Court above the Seventeenth Precinct Police Station, at Sheriff and East Houston Streets where the majority of cases usually develop, had no cases whatever before him. There were no cases brought before the Justices of the Supreme Court sitting at the County Court House, and only one case before Justice Brady in the Bronx.

Justice Brady issued an order allowing Policeman Shaw, attached to Police Headquarters, to vote from 2,262 Loring Place, the Bronx. The objection to Shaw's vote was based on a duplicate registration.

Samuel Koenig, former Secretary of State on the Republican ticket, was one of the luncheon guests of Supreme Court Justice Giegerich, who turned his session of the Supreme Court on the east side into a social function.

In comparison with previous years very few cases were brought into the Magistrates' courts. None of the prisoners arrested on challenges were held. In one case, a voter was arested for registering twice under his own name from the same address, and was released on the plea that he believed it was necessary for him to register once to vote this year and for the second time to vote next year. In one of the other cases it was shown that the prisoner had registered in good faith from an address which he had intended to occupy within the thirty-day period.

Both parties reported a generally clean election. The absence of cases before the Justices of the Supreme Court, who were sitting at three different places, indicated that the names of few persons regularly entitled to vote had been voted on by floaters or repeaters.

In the last municipal election the Supreme Court Justices were busy issuing mandamuses against boards of election in the last few minutes. The polls were opened for citizens whose names had been voted on by guerrillas, this fact being discovered in the last quarter hour before the polls closed. The fact that there were no applications of this kind yesterday indicated, the politicians said, that there was little or no work of the kind at yesterday's election.

Only one person out of the six arrested yesterday and arraigned before Judges Rosalsky and Crain in General Sessions on indictments charging them with violating the Election Laws was held for trial. One other was paroled in the custody of George Gordon Battle until next Friday, when he will be called upon to defend himself on the charge of false registration.

District Attorney Whitman said last night that the fact that only six of the persons who were indicted by the Grand Jury appeared at the polls to vote showed beyond all doubt that the great majority of indictments handed down Monday were for persons who were really guilty.

All of District Attorney Whitman's staff were at the Criminal Court Building yesterday to assist in the prosecution of offenders against the law governing elections, and they expressed considerable surprise when only six of the warrants issued by Judge Rosalsky on Monday were served. George Gordon Battle, Augustine Devery, and Edward Carpell appeared in General Sessions to look after the interests of the Democrats who might be arrested, and former Assistant District Attorney John Hart appeared as a representative from the Republican County Committee.

The first case before Judges Crain and Rosalsky was that of Connie Sledge, a negro who registered as living at 342 West Fifty-ninth Street. He was arrested as he entered the Third Election District of the Twenty-ninth Assembly and at once brought to the Criminal Court Building. He said he lived at 342 West Fifty-ninth Street when he registered, but moved to 318 West Fifty-ninth Street shortly after. Mrs. Sarah Bennet, the landlady of the house at 342 West Fifty-ninth Street, said that Sledge never lived there, and he was paroled in the custody of George Gordon Battle at the request of Assistant District Attorney Stryker, who represented the District Attorney's office, with Assistant District Attorneys Nott, Demming, and Willmont.

George Halliday was arrested shortly after Sledge and held in default of $1,000 bail for trial in General Sessions. He was arrested as he attempted to enter the Fifth Election District of the Third Assembly on a charge of false registration.

He registered as living in a lodging house at 125 Bowery, but investigation disclosed that no man by that name ever lived there. When arraigned before Judge Crain and Judge Rosalsky he said his name was George Buckley, and that he was an actor. Both the day and night clerks of the lodging house testified that they had never seen him in the place, and after a short consultation he was held for trial.

John J. Durnen of 408 West Forty-ninth Street was arraigned on an indictment charging him with false registration. He was able to show that the Board of Elections in his district had made a mistake when they said he lived at 412 West Forty-ninth Street.

Frank Smith and John Sullivan, the former of 85 Bowery and the latter of 73 Bowery, were arraigned, but it was discovered that they were not the persons named in the indictments, and they were discharged.

David Silverstein of 495 East 140th Street was the last man brought into court. He was arrested in the Eleventh Election District of the Thirty-second Assembly District. It was charged that he registered as living at 495 East 141st Street. It was shown that a clerical error had been made, but that he would have lost his vote anyway, as he had registered in the wrong election district.

KILLED IN A STREET DUEL.

Italians Whip Out Revolvers, the Survivor Receiving Four Wounds.

Two young Italians had a revolver duel in Richards Street, in the Red Hook Point section of Brooklyn, last night, at 7 o'clock. One of the men died of a bullet wound in his breast, and the other is under arrest, charged with homicide. He has four wounds in his thighs.

Three watchmen for a manufacturing company at Richards and Delevan Streets saw the two men walking along together, and to all appearances they were friendly. Suddenly they both stopped, whipped out revolvers and began firing at each other. One of the men ran along Delevan Street for a short distance, and then fell to the sidewalk. He was dead when the ambulance reached him.

The second man started to run, and was caught by Detectives Manning and O'Day. He gave his name as Matice Robino. He told the police that he knew nothing of a pistol duel, and that the shot fired at the man he was with came out of the dark. He had no weapon when arrested, but the police later found two revolvers near the scene of the shooting. The identity of the dead man was not established.

JURY GETS UNION'S BOOKS.

Trust Company Gives Them Up Despite Court's Order Not To.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—When Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States District Court was advised to-day that the Federal Grand Jury had been denied access to books of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers he ordered the United States Marshal to go to the trust company where the books were deposited and take possession of them.

The books were turned over to the Marshal by the trust company, and the Grand Jury this afternoon proceeded with its investigation as to whether or not John J. McNamara, James B. McNamara, and Orgtie E. McManigal had violated a Federal statute governing inter-State transportation of explosives.

Judge Anderson's action followed a report by the Grand Jury that the trust company refused to give up the books on the ground that Judge Joseph T. Markey of the Criminal Court of this county had ordered them withheld, pending an appeal to the Indiana Supreme Court in the dispute as to who should possess them.

LOCOMOTIVE DROPS A TIRE.

Passengers for Philadelphia Shaken Up at Wayne Junction—None Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The dropping of a tire from a locomotive as it was getting up speed resulted in the severe shaking up of 400 passengers and tied up traffic on the Reading Railway for forty minutes to-day shortly after the Bethlehem local pulled out of Wayne Junction.

The train was due at the Reading Terminal at 9:42 this morning, but was fifteen minutes late getting to Wayne Junction. Pulling out the engineer opened the throttle to make up time, when the tire fell from the forward driver and the flange of the wheel caught in a switch. The emergency brake was applied and the train stopped with a jolt, throwing passengers from their seats, but none was injured.

Two Women Hurt as Horse Shies.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Lincoln Taylor of this city and Mrs. Lewis Raymond of Rowayton were seriously injured this afternoon when Mrs. Taylor's horse shied on a steep turn in the road at Trinity Lake. Both were thrown out and Mrs. Taylor's skull probably was fractured.

For half an hour the women lay unconscious in the road. Then Mrs. Raymond recovered and walked half a mile to a house, where she got assistance for Mrs. Taylor.

FUSION MEN CHARGE REPUBLICAN 'KNIFING'

Sacrificed Hearst Candidates to Carry Assembly, They Declare.

BUT THE LEADERS DENY IT

Agree That It Was a Moral Victory, and That "Boss" Murphy Was Severely Rebuked.

As early as 8 o'clock last night the faces of all at the Fusion headquarters, but not the lips, gloomily conceded Tammany's victory in this county. The victory of the Republicans in winning the Assembly but slightly comforted them, and everywhere among the Independence Leaguers there were loud, but unofficial murmurings that the Republicans had "knifed" the League, refusing honestly to fuse, and using the Independence League merely as a satspaw with which to draw the Assembly chestnuts out of the fire.

Later, toward 11 o'clock, there began to be an improvement in the votes for the Fusion ticket, especially for its candidate for Sheriff, John J. Hopper, and those in charge at the headquarters refused to make any concessions or to give any figures as to the results. Mr. Hopper himself, however, who said he was then running only about 2,000 behind Harburger and 4,000 ahead of his own ticket, was the only one that still seemed hopeful of success.

So deep was the early gloom in the Fusion camp that L. J. O'Reilly, who was in charge at the Press Committee room, requested reporters in search of the returns to clear out on the ground that they were impeding the work. About the same time moving pictures began to replace the election returns flashed on the bulletin screens, and finally there followed as to election flashes a period that seemed as long and as dark as the Middle Ages.

Nobody was happy. The earliest of the candidates to arrive there, and the only one to stay throughout the evening, was Mr. Hopper. Others present, but downcast and uncommunicative, were Robert Grier Monroe, Montgomery Hare, Melvin G. Palliser, John Purroy Mitchel, William de Ford, and Henry De Forest Baldwin, one of the defeated judicial candidates. A few weak cheers were awakened at 9:15 o'clock by the announcement:

"All Fusion candidates for the Assembly have been elected in the Borough of Bronx. The Fusion ticket wins in Kings and Queens. Fifteen Assemblymen have been elected, making a gain of eight."

L. C. Ferguson of the Executive Committee of the Independence League County Committee, and B. A. Rosenthal, a member of the County Committee, expressed jointly the suspicions of Republican foul play that had robbed the victory in the Assembly of its pleasantness to the Leaguers:

"The Republicans have consistently cut the Hearst men," they said. "An example in point is the case of Mr. Shearn, who ran twenty or twenty-five votes behind even Hopper in each election district of the Fifteenth Assembly District. In the campaign we found the Republican speakers refusing even to mention the Hearst men. We protested, suspicious of just such a knifing as we have witnessed to-night. The Republicans did not fuse honestly. They simply refused to vote for Hearst men whenever affiliated with them. They used the League as a cat's-paw to draw out of the fire their Republican Assemblymen, and then let the Fusion county ticket go by the board."

Henry De Forest Baldwin and Mr. Hopper were unwilling to discuss this phase of the matter, and those in charge of the Fusion headquarters denied that it was true.

"It may be that some silk-stocking Republicans did knife Shearn," said Assistant District Attorney De Ford, who has had charge of the Willett investigation in Queens, "because Shearn was a Hearst man. Maybe they were interested in getting their State ticket more than the Fusion county ticket. At the same time, the falling off in the Fusion vote in the judicial ticket may be due to the fact that the personnel of the Tammany ticket was, in fact, as good as that of the Fusion ticket; and a reform ticket must always be much stronger than the other side to win.

"But I consider this a remarkable showing, and a moral victory even if Tammany's majority in Manhattan should be reduced to 10,000 or 12,000. It shows that the people wanted to rebuke the Tammany Legislature for the Tammany charter."

Mr. Hopper, at about 11 o'clock, seeing encouraging returns from the upper part of the city and the Bronx, was unwilling to concede his defeat, although he did not claim victory.

"The returns are at this moment so close," he said, "that it is impossible to talk with any certainty about the result, and absurd to concede or claim anything. But, win or lose, with regard to my candidacy and that of some of my associates, Murphy has been rebuked; he has lost the Assembly; he has lost many offices throughout Manhattan and the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond, and he will not be able to put any of his bills through the Legislature. To this extent at least his power has been curbed, and when the full and corrected returns are in it is possible he may be more severely rebuked still."

Mr. Shearn did not appear at the Fusion headquarters, nor did William Randolph Hearst.

The Story of an American Business Success

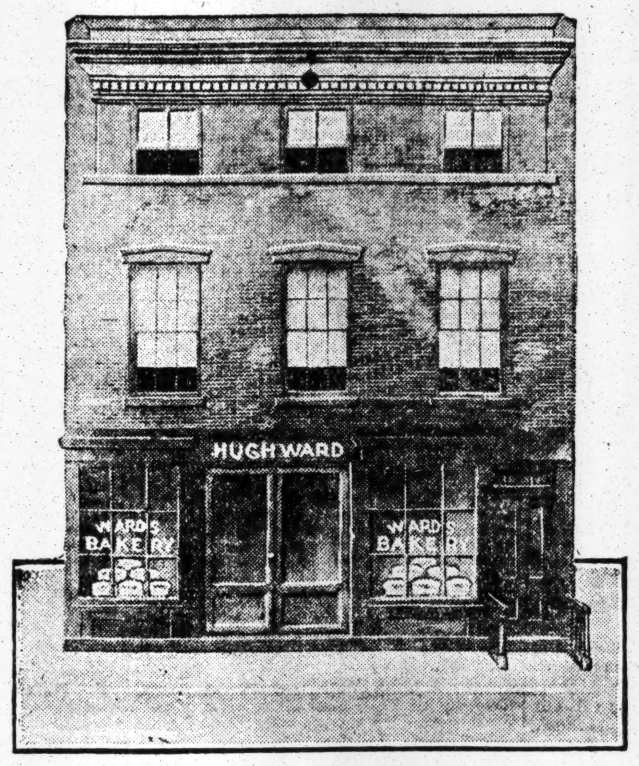
The baking industry of the Ward family really began in New York City about 60 years ago when Hugh Ward came to New York from Belfast, Ireland. Hugh Ward was a baker. He opened a modest bakery in Broome Street and for a few years conducted a successful business in what was then a quiet residential centre of old New York.

Attracted, however, by the opportunities of the west, Hugh Ward moved a few years before the outbreak of the Civil War to Allegheny City, where he opened his second American Bakery.

It was here that Mr. R. B. Ward the organizer and founder of the Ward Bread Company began to work in the bakery as a mere boy. He grew up in the business and by alert industry forced it to grow faster than himself.

In 1878 Mr. R. B. Ward went into business on his own account, starting a bakery in the city of Pittsburgh, just across the river from Allegheny; in 1890 he associated with himself his younger brother, George S. Ward, under the firm name of R. B. Ward & Company.



In 1898 the expansion of the business compelled the introduction of more capital, and the Ward-Mackey concern was incorporated. This Company built what was at that time the largest exclusive bread bakery in America.

The Ward Brothers were exceptionally alert in keeping abreast of the times in the great improvements then being discovered in the process of making bread. The purity and deliciousness of their product and the sanitary excellence of their plant helped to make their business one of phenomenal growth. For many years they have operated by far the best and most favorably known bakery in the Pittsburgh field.

Having won for themselves a place in the very front rank of the baking industry, the Wards conceived the idea of coming back to New York, where their name was first introduced in the business.

Two magnificent plants have recently been completed in New York City. These great Snow-white Temples of Industrial Cleanliness mark the triumphant return to New York of an American family which has "made good."

Wonder Bakeries

These two bakeries are without a question the greatest in the whole world. They have floor space of more than 600,000 square feet; a capacity for producing more than 800,000 loaves of bread a day. They required 18 months to build and equip. They cost $2,000,000. Each of the Ward Bakeries is on a railroad. They receive their flour in train load quantities, having a capacity for storing 250 car loads.

Delivery of Bread

Bread will be delivered all over Greater New York by means of more than 200 Ward Electric Automobiles. Prompt and frequent deliveries insure fresh bread for every customer. There will be no hour of the day when your grocer can not give you a fresh loaf of Ward's Tip-Top Bread. Salesmen who operate these autos wear white uniforms and gloves.

at the Ward Bakeries. Only people in perfect health work there. Shower baths, uniforms, lockers, recreation rooms—every modern device to promote health and comfort, is provided.

The Human Hand Never Touches Dough or Bread at the Ward Bakeries

The human hand never touches the bread at the Ward Bakeries. A series of wonderful machines carry the materials from one process to another. It is a fascinating study to watch this modern way of making bread:—how these big machines sift and blend the flour; how the scales apportion all the ingredients; how the very air is washed, controlled and measured—passed through tempering devices. Under the watchful care of the bakers the bread seems almost to make itself.

You May See All This

Here's an invitation—at the same time a reminder: you may call at one of these bakeries any afternoon—except Saturday or Sunday—and you may see every process of the making of Ward's Tip-Top Bread. A guide will conduct visitors and explain the operation of the machines to you. That is the invitation. The reminder is—

You Were Never Invited Inside a Bread Bakery Before!

And yet—isn't this true? You are more interested in bread than in any other food. You eat more bread than any other food—you eat it at every meal. You are vitally interested in bread then, aren't you?

Read the advertisements of Ward's Tip-Top Bread that follow this one—telling all about the making of bread.

Visit one of the Ward Bakeries. You will feel that you are repaid by the interesting things you see.

JUST A SINGLE FIGHT IN A QUIET ELECTION

Row In One District and a Mix of Ballots in Two Others Were the Only Breaks in the Routine.

MURPHY AT WORK ALL DAY

More Interest In Voting In the Second Judicial, Where Willett Ran, Than Anywhere Else.

Election morning dawned damp and muggy, but a brisk wind soon swept away the clouds and mist and gave the sun a chance to shine upon the earth. It remained bright throughout the morning, and for a while in the afternoon the sky was threatening again. But it was an ideal Election Day and offered no valid excuse for any registered voter to remain away from the polls.

It was the sort of day that Republican candidates in the farming districts hope for, and that Republican candidates in the big cities despair of. This is because for some reason or other the opinion prevails that only Republican voters of the city belong to country clubs, where they spend the day playing golf to the neglect of all other duties.

But at least one-third of those in this city who intended to vote were astir early, and had cast their ballots before noon. In nearly every one of the congested districts the polling places were crowded in the early morning, and lines were formed that stretched half a block away. These lines moved slowly, which convinced those who make a study of political conditions that few "straight" votes were being cast. This condition alarmed both parties equally, and industrious workers sought to discover which candidates were suffering the most by the division.

Early in the afternoon the polls were practically deserted, but as sunset neared they filled again and remained active until the close. Supt. of Elections Voorhis said that it was the quietest Election Day in fifteen years. There were fewer watchers employed, he said, because of the lack of money and because there was really little need of the usual number of Election Day workers.

"The issues are clearly defined," he said, "and the voters know just who they intend to vote for when they go to the polls."

There were a number of arrests during the day on warrants issued on Monday. Many of the arrested men were discharged in court because it was shown that they were the victims of clerical mistakes by poll clerks.

Police Commissioner Waldo made the usual shift of policemen, so that they might serve in districts where they were not known.

Interest in the election was chiefly confined to the vote cast in the Second Judicial District for the accused candidate, Willett. There were more questions asked about Mr. Willett than about any other candidate.

In many of the polling places detectives detailed by District Attorney Whitman kept a close watch on the votes. This was especially the case in the lower east and the upper west side.

The first alarm of the day came to the Board of Elections from the Thirty-sixth Election District of the Thirty-second Assembly District at 6:45 A. M. After sixty ballots had been cast the Inspectors discovered that the ballots they were using were intended for the Forty-fifth Election District. Voting was stopped until the proper ballots were received. This muddle had just been straightened out when it was learned that the ballots of the Forty-sixth Election District of the Thirty-second Assembly District were being used in the Forty-seventh Election District. More than 100 ballots had been cast before the discovery was made.

Instantly there was a row. The rival political factions accused each other of trying to invalidate the vote. Threats of personal violence were made. Finally it was learned that the votes cast could be counted because the candidates on all the mixed tickets were the same. John L. Burgoyne, who represents the Board of Elections in the Bronx, made this decision, and it was afterward confirmed by Michael T. Daly, Chief Clerk of the board. The Inspectors blamed the police for the blunder and the police blamed the official printers, but Mr. Daly said:

"The mistake was made by the policeman who distributed the ballots. He didn't take enough care."

There was considerable anxiety among Tammany men in the Twelfth District because of the large number of Italians, Poles, and Swedes, who have replaced many of the old residents. Leader Charles F. Murphy lives in this district. He voted in the morning in a butcher shop at Seventeenth Street and First Avenue. Afterward he kept a close watch on the entire district. He warned the election district Captains of the need of getting every Democratic vote to the polls.

John J. Hopper, the Fusion candidate for Sheriff, was at work in his district, the Thirty-first, before 7 o'clock. He voted at the polling place at 2,277 Eighth Avenue.

"A big vote is being polled," said Mr. Hopper, "and that is a sure indication that the entire Fusion ticket will be elected. I have visited many of the polling places and the seriousness of the voters greatly impressed me. They understand the true state of affairs and they intend to register their disapproval of the methods of Tammany Hall."

In the Thirty-sixth Aldermanic District, where the Republican candidate for Alderman, Robert Wallace, died on Monday night, the Republican voters pasted the name of Thomas Mulligan, the independent candidate over Wallace's name. Mulligan had been indorsed by the Republican organization of the district shortly after the death of Wallace was announced.

"Happy Jack" Riordan, who is the Tammany candidate for Alderman in the Ninth District, was the third voter at the polls in his election district. Behind him was a long line of men waiting to vote.

Voters on Blackwell's Island to the number of 376 cast their ballots in the Nineteenth Election District of the Sixteenth Assembly District. Forty of them had voted before 7 o'clock and the others were coming over in bunches and getting into line. All of these men are employes of the city.

The only fight of the day occurred in the polling place of the First Election District of the Third Assembly District. Two men in the room were accused of instructing and intimidating voters. Several men attacked them. The police stopped the row.

WOULD ARBITRATE LIABILITY.

Gompers Against Courts' Appointing Boards in Railroad Cases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor took issue with members of the Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Commission to-day regarding the awarding tribunal to be created. Mr. Gompers indorsed the commission's plan for insuring railroad employes, but insisted that the tribunal should consist of three members, one to represent the employer, another the employe, while the third should be a physician chosen by the other two.

The commission has not covered this point, but Senator Sutherland and Representative Moon favored the selection of boards by the Federal courts. Mr. Sutherland pointed out that Mr. Gompers's plan would be in effect a system of arbitration, the third man being the arbitrator, while the other two would be mere attorneys for the two sides. Mr. Gompers would not agree that any one man should have the selection of the arbitrators.

"To confer this authority on the courts is equivalent to saying that the courts are not governed by politics, and I am not sure that this is always the case," he said. He said he did not believe that as a rule the courts were prompted by improper motives, but held that the environment and education of most Judges would render them incapable of correctly determining questions pertaining to industrial life.

YOUTH STABS A FIREMAN.

Member of Gang Wounds Him While Another Holds Him by the Throat.

Fireman John J. Falls, Jr., of Truck 78, stationed at 143d Street and Seventh Avenue, was assigned last night to patrol the streets in plain clothes and put out election bonfires. Another fireman drove an old tender with a line of hose in it behind him.

Falls tried to put out a blaze at 141st Street, between Edgecombe and Eighth Avenues. There was a crowd of about sixty young men around the blaze, and they protested. Suddenly one of them grabbed Falls from behind and began to choke him.

The fireman broke away. His companion was still a block behind with the truck, and Falls began to fight. A youth of about 17 drew a penknife and stabbed him in the chest. Then the gang ran. Falls went to a near-by drug store and Policeman Lies of the West 125th Street Station called Dr. Martin from Harlem Hospital. He took Falls there, saying the knife nearly penetrated his lung and might have caused a severe wound. Falls said he knew his assailant, but did not know his name.

POLICE CLEAR THEATRE.

Confederacy Daughters' Meeting Delayed by People Overflowing It.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 7.—The efforts of 5,000 people, mostly women, to force their way into a theatre, which would seat one-fourth of that number, delayed the preliminary session of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to-night for two hours, while police were doing their best to clear the building.

Under the city law persons are not permitted to stand in the aisles of a theatre, but the crowd surged in when the doors were opened, completely filling the passageways. In the face of these conditions the house management refused to allow the curtain to rise, while Chief of Police Warner, assisted by a squad of men, strove to clear the aisles and lobbies.

Speaking from one of the boxes, a delegate to the convention requested the people to leave so that the Daughters might attend the welcoming ceremony held in their honor. Immediately the Richmond Light Infantry Blues and the Richmond Howitzers, two military organizations invited to receive special war flags, arose and finally managed to reach the street. The meeting was eventually proceeded with.

$8,000 TO BEAT RODGERS.

Flier's Backers Offer Prizes for Faster Continent Crossing.

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 7.—A gold cup and bonuses up to $8,000 have been offered by the backers of C. P. Rodgers to any airman who breaks his transcontinental record of forty-nine days. This was announced to-day by Edward Merritt, one of Rodgers's business representatives.

One hundred dollars a day, it was stated, would be given for each day cut from the forty-nine-day record; $500 for each day under forty days; $1,000 for each day under thirty-five. Details will be arranged to-morrow in Chicago, Merritt said.

Rodgers spent to-day visiting schools and talking to the children about his record-breaking flight.

Arrangements have been made for Rodgers to fly to Long Beach, a suburb of Los Angeles, on Sunday.

Triangle Fire Protest Parade.

The Triangle Waist Company Fire Protest Conference reported yesterday that it had arranged for a parade next Monday afternoon of the relatives and friends of the victims of the fire, followed by a meeting in the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth Street. The parade and meeting are intended as a protest against the conditions which made such a disaster possible. Secretary Ellner of the conference said that the marchers would be dressed in black and that black mourning flags would be carried.

CUVILLIER WINS; SUFFRAGISTS SAD

Woman's Political Union Worked in Vain to Defeat Democratic Assemblyman.

15,000 SUFFRAGE FLAGS

Sent Flying Feminine Squadron Through Harlem to Gather Votes for His Opponent.

One of the gloomiest spots in Harlem last night was the headquarters of the Woman's Political Union at 1945 Madison Avenue, where the returns coming in fast showed that Louis A. Cuvillier, the Democratic candidate for the Assembly from the Thirtieth District, against whom the Union had trained its guns, was elected by a big majority. At no time during the night did the women have a chance to cheer, for all the returns showed that Cuvillier was running strong, and that he stood a good show of equalling his plurality of last year.

Cuvillier's opponent, Herman Kolker, had the support of the Union, and up to the closing of the polls the women had an idea that Kolker stood a chance of winning. The reason of the opposition to Cuvillier was his voting against woman suffrage at the last session of the Assembly.

"We are not discouraged," said Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, the President, "for the returns indicate that Mr. Cuvillier has been returned by a reduced plurality, and we will continue our fight against him as long as he stands for the Assembly in the elections to come."

One source of rejoicing to the women was the defeat in the Twentieth District of Brooklyn of George F. Carew, the Democratic candidate, by Frank Bennett. Carew, like Cuvillier, opposed woman suffrage in the last session of the Assembly.

The women of the union closed their campaign to defeat Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier for re-election on Monday night and devoted yesterday to a general effort to influence the vote.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning 15,000 flags bearing the inscription "Votes for Women," were displayed on staffs, in windows, and elsewhere throughout the entire city. This was a good deal to do and was expensive, but the union also did these things:

Sent out fifty women to distribute copies of the Woman Voter, the party organ, and to see that it was displayed on newsstands where it had never been displayed before. Also sent out flying squadrons of women to carry on the work in the outlying districts.

Arranged to have a rummage sale at the union's campaign headquarters at 1,955 Madison Avenue next Saturday night. Contributions from everybody interested in the work and from those who are not are assured of welcome.

A banquet for the campaign workers on Nov. 17 at Pabst's Harlem Casino. There are a large number of campaign workers, too, so the banquet will be worth taking notice of.

Miss Elizabeth Ellsmor, the cook of the union, is heartily ashamed, she says, of some things the men have done. Once they sent out a lot of fliers cartooning Mr. Cuvillier and it had the union label on it, of course. But on last Saturday night there were a lot of these fliers around the Thirtieth Assembly District without the union label. This was a trick of the enemy. So there!

Also they paid money for stickers saying "Votes for women," "Votes for women," "Down with Cuvillier," and then later appeared stickers reading "Votes for men," and "Up with Cuvillier."

RETURNS BABY'S PICTURE.

Burglar Who Stole It Mails It Back to Mother, as She Asked.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 7.—On Sunday last burglars entered the home of Judge Frederick A. Hubbard in Mason Street, this city, and among the articles, valued all told at $2,000, that were stolen was a miniature of Drexel L. Hubbard, his son, then a baby, but now in business in Seattle. This portrait was in a gold frame set with diamonds, and its loss almost broke Mrs. Hubbard's heart. She appealed to the thief to send back the picture and keep the frame.

To-day she received a package by special delivery, and on opening it found the miniature, unharmed, still in the frame, from which the diamonds had been removed. The package was postmarked in New York City.

Judge Hubbard and his wife both expressed gratitude that the thief had answered her appeal, both saying they were sure the man who took it could not be entirely bad.

SAW MAN IN KNABE FLAT.

Lecturer Says Two Women Were There Also on Night She Was Killed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Constantinos Paleologos, a lecturer, who was in Indianapolis at the time of the death of Dr. Helen Knabe, was questioned to-day by the Chicago police at the request of Indianapolis officials.

"About 10:30 o'clock the night that Dr. Knabe was killed," he said, "I was mailing a letter across the street from her apartment. I saw two women in the apartment and what appeared to be the form of a man leaning back in a chair with his back toward the window. I could not identify any one."

LAD'S FIRST ESCAPADE FATAL

Five-Year-Old Jacob Schelling Fell Upon a Live Wire.

Five-year-old Jacob Schelling of 1,980 Atlantic Avenue, East New York, had insisted upon being "a big boy" since his mother dressed him up a few months ago in his first pair of rompers. He refused to play any longer with the neighbors' little girls. Yesterday afternoon found him running along after a number of the "big fellows."

They went to a partly inclosed lot at the southeast corner of Atlantic and Ralph Avenues, into which runs a spur from the Ralph Avenue surface line of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The lads found a piece of broken-off trolley wire twenty feet long, and they started to amuse themselves by attempting to throw it across one of the charged overhead wires. They bent one end of it into a hook so that it would catch. Then one of the lads swung the wire around his head and shot it upward. It slid across the overhead wire, caught, and held. The other end dropped into a large pool of water.

There followed a number of sharp reports and the end of the wire sizzled in the water and blue flames shot from the pool. The youngsters shouted with glee. Little Jacob danced, too. He was one of the "big fellows." Suddenly he tripped and fell prone into the little pond. He shrieked with agony. Electric flames shot from about him. His wet clothes smoked. He rolled over in nearly a foot of water, in contact with the wire. He writhed. The older boys tried to pull him out. One or two sustained shocks when they tried to grasp his clothing. The child's father, Joseph Schelling, ran over from his home and jumped into the pool. As he grasped the little form he shouted with pain, staggered and dropped the child. Policeman Wagg of the Brownsville Station had now run up and he knocked away the deadly wire with his club and drew the child and half stunned father aside. Dr. Flemming of St. Mary's Hospital said the little fellow had been instantly killed. With the little body in his arms the weeping father went homeward.

Turkeys Cheap and Plenty This Year.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Plenty of turkeys at the old-time prices is the forecast for the Thanksgiving dinner table by local merchants. The supply is the greatest in a decade, and best quality is 17 to 18 cents, with a prospect of prices becoming lower. The only drawback that the merchants can see is the shortage of cranberries.

BOYS ACCUSE A WOMAN.

Get a Summons for Her Because She Throws Rubbish in the Street.

Two small boys entered Essex Market Court yesterday and, pointing at a large badge upon their breasts, brushed by the gatemen, and addressed Magistrate House.

"We want a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Silverman at 48 First Street," declared the elder of the two.

"What do you wish to charge her with?" queried the Magistrate.

"With filling the streets with swill and rubbish," answered the boy.

"Well, what badge is that you have on you?"

"This is the badge of the 'Society for Bettering Street Conditions,' and it is our duty to see that people are punished for throwing things in the street."

"Well, I admire your public-spiritedness, and if you will swear you saw Mrs. Silverman throwing rubbish into the street I will give you a summons for her—returnable on Saturday morning."

The boys, who described themselves as John Jahn, 11 years old, of 54 First Street, and Solomon Goldberg, 9 years old, of 47 First Street, hurriedly left the courtroom, the summons in hand. Less than an hour later they returned and excitedly informed the court that they had served the summons and would see that she appears on Saturday, saying that they would "arrest her if she didn't come of her own accord."

SURE STRIKE WILL SPREAD.

More Railroad Men Will Go Out, Union Leader Says.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Spread of the railroad shop men's strike to the Central of Georgia Railway and the calling of a strike on the Rock Island lines are matters of only a few days, according to J. W. Kline, President of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers, to-day.

"I am going to Macon, Ga., to-morrow for a final effort to adjust Central of Georgia matters," he said, "but it is doubtful if the men can be kept from walking out until I get there.

"Matters on the Rock Island are near a crisis. The votes of the various crafts have been against the company's terms, and this amounts to a strike vote."

ECONOMY in a piano purchase will plainly lead the careful buyer to a selection of

The Knabe

The KNABE will cost a little more to begin with—probably a hundred dollars more than a good piano of some other make—but it's the most economical in the long run. You simply cannot wear the KNABE out—and the reason is easy to explain: It's because of the exacting care taken in selecting the materials and infinite pains used in putting them together. It takes months longer to build a KNABE than it does the average piano—and that fact means years added to its life.

Quite frequently we run across old KNABE pianos 25 to 30 years old, any one of which would be a big bargain today at $150 to $200. Do you realize what that means? It means that the owners of such pianos have paid less than $15 a year for usage—and this is what we call getting one's piano investment down to a fine point.

$500,000 CHECK FORGERIES OUT

Police Capture Three Men Charged with Swindling Many City Banks.

HUNTING FOR AN ARTIST

Master with Brush and Pen, Friend of Opera Singer, Made Checks for the Gang.

SHADOWING THE VOCALIST

Detectives Confident of Catching the Painter-Forger with the Metropolitan Opera Member.

Three men, two of them not yet 30 years old, the third somewhat older, were locked up at Police Headquarters last night. They were charged with forgery, and in them Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty boasted that the police had captured the leadre and two of the principal members of a band of forgers which has operated throughout the United States for the last ten years and has obtained between $500,000 and $600,000.

There are other members of the band for whom the police are still looking. Most of them are unimportant in the scheme of the forgers' operations. They are simply confederates who attended to the passing of the forged checks. One man, still at liberty, is the one most wanted next to the leader himself.

This man is an artist, a curly haired, dark-complexioned Italian with a fancy for ultra effects in dress and a fondness for the companionship of a young Italian opera singer, frequently heard in small parts at the Metropolitan Opera House, which, the police think, will soon lead to his capture.

The young opera singer is constantly shadowed by detectives armed with a good description of the man they seek. He it is who has made the wholesale forgeries possible, for it is he who has provided the checks, counterfeiting the slips of paper, even to the engraving of a bank's name, the date line, and the other usual printing on a check.

It is the first time the police have had to deal not only with forgeries but with actual counterfeit checks as well. Not a piece of paper which the police hold as evidence is an original check issued by the bank whose name it bears. Each is a counterfeit.

An Artist at Forgery.

Without this artist the operations of the gang would have been difficult, if not impossible. But with a camel's hair brush and the proper ink he could copy a bank's engraving so that no bank officer detected the difference, and to him the task of forging a signature was simplicity itself.

It was the fineness of his work, coupled with the executive skill of the gang leader, which protected the forgers for a decade. Now the leader is captured, say the police, and without him they believe the artist would be powerless to profit by his skill with the brush and pen.

Not for an instant, however, will the surveillance of the young opera singer be lifted until their watchfulness over her has led the detectives to this artist, whom they would know on sight but who has disappeared.

Against those whom they have arrested the police say their case is perfect. Of the many banks and business firms and men who have been victimized by the swindlers, the police issued a partial list last night, announcing that only such names were included as had been connected beyond doubt with the operations of the two younger prisoners.

The indorsements on the checks in these cases furnished the names which the Deputy Commissioner had the first two men arrested write when he was examining their handwriting last night.

The Three Captives.

The names of the youths who, the police say, perpetrated these swindles are William J. Schutzberger of 1,260 Thirty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, and Isidore Weiss of 220 East Seventy-eighth Street. Schutberger is 26 years old and Weiss two years older. They were arrested at their homes within a few moments of each other last night, Schutzberger by Detectives Riley, Foy, and Woolbridge and Weiss by Detectives McKenna, Cassassa, and Finan.

Together they were being submitted to a rapid fire of questioning in Deputy Commisioner Dougherty's private office at Police Headquarters when the telephone bell rang. Commisisoner Dougherty answered the ring. It was Detective Riley at the other end of the wire, and Mr. Dougherty's face was wreathed in smiles as he announced, after hanging up the receiver:

"It's Riley. He's got Carlesi."

Presently the detective reached Headquarters and ushered into the examination room a short Sicilian, whose eyes were concealed by heavy glasses and whose curly hair and general demeanor gave him the appearance more of a French artist or singer than a Sicilian Black Hand leader as the police say he is, and the head of a successful and daring gang of forgers. Charles Carlesi, he calls himself, and he keeps a saloon at Fifteenth Street and Avenue B. He runs this business openly to the point of ostentation, say the police, for behind it he shields his real activities, and these, the police say, are as varied as they are unsavory.

It is Carlesi whom the police most have wanted to get, with the exception perhaps of the artist, for whom they are still hunting. It is Carlesi, they say, who originated the scheme by which he and his companions have made fortunes, and it was he, they believe, who furnished the capital which made the operation of his schemes possible.

Five Years on the Case.

It is five years now since the police first had their attention directed to Carlesi. It is a matter of scarcely more than days since their investigations reached a point where they dared visit Carlesi's wine room, order the proprietor from behind his counter, and take him a prisoner to headquarters.

Schutzberger and Weiss the police look on as confederates and perhaps students of Carlesi, yet for two years they have trailed Schutzberger from place to place. There has been scarcely a moment when he was awake and out of his home when a detective from headquarters has not been at his heels.

Time and time again they have believed that the evidence necessary to warrant Schutzberger's arrest was at hand. Time and time again he has completed his operations and slipped away, leaving behind him no one tangible fact on which the police could act. Frequently they have been morally sure, but never have they felt legally justified in accusing him of a crime. Nor did they want much to arrest Schutzberger unless his capture should result in a revelation of his connection with Carlesi. It was Carlesi they most wanted.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, in the days when he was Superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective Agency in this city, was busy trying to connect Carlesi with the forgeries which continually were reported to the bureau by banks which had suffered. Even at that time he suspected him, and, independent of the police, he tried continually but vainly to gather evidence against the Sicilian.

The evidence which Mr. Dougherty and Detectives Armstrong and Wilbur, who had worked for years on the case, finally gathered was revealed to them practically by Carlesi himself, for it was the only apparent weak point in his system which resulted in his capture.

Weak Point in the Scheme.

This was his method of obtaining sample checks from the firms he had concluded to victimize. It was the weak point in his scheme that he should require these checks, but to make his operations plausible to the point where they offered a fair degree of safety it was necessary that his counterfeit checks should bear the signatures of real firms or business men of standing sufficiently high to insure the presence in their banks of sums sufficient to cover Carlesi's counterfeits.

Equipped with a real check from some business house or individual of wealth, Carlesi would go to his artist friend, say the police, with instructions for the manufacture of a counterfeit check signed with the forged signature of the original check and made to such name and in such sum as Carlesi determined. So perfect was the work of this artist that the cashier of every bank to which one of the counterfeits was presented readily certified the check, and all that remained then was to arrange for cashing it.

It is here, say the police, that Schutzberger, Weiss, and others as yet only suspected by the detectives, played their part. It was a part which called, above everything else, say the police, for the ability to pose as an honest manufacturer, a man of some capital, addicted to stock market and real estate speculation or some other one of a dozen different characters which the police say Schutzberger and Weiss assumed at times.

Accordingly, the police say, Schultzberger is a one-time actor of small parts and a mimic on the lower east side. His training fitted him perfectly for his share in the general scheme which originated in the mind of Carlesi and to the successful operation of which he brought his mind to bear.

Had to Be Actors.

How Carlesi met Schutzberger and Weiss or his artist or the others whom the police suspect, the detectives admit they do not know. They say they know, however, that the work of Schutzberger and Weiss and of the others, except Carlesi and the artist, consisted of posing as haberdasher, maker of neckties, dealer in leather, silk, ribbons, cigars, as tailor, milliner, shoe man, or a dealer in butter and eggs. All these parts, say the police, have been played by Carlesi's assistants.

Their character determined, these men found a vacant loft or store, the nature of the business chosen settling this, and rented it, putting in office furniture, employing an office boy and stenographer, and generally giving the impression of a man about to start in business.

The next step was to get an introduction at a near-by bank. According to the police, Carelsi's operatives generally obtained this through the agency of the Superintendent of the building which they had rented. Then some money, perhaps as much as $1,500 or $2,000 would be deposited, pleasant relations would be cultivated with the bank officers, and presently the suggestion would be made that, owing to real estate or stock transactions, the new depositor, posing under any name that suited his fancy, probably soon would make large deposits by check.

These deposits would be made as scheduled, one of Carlesi's counterfeit and indorsed checks thus finding its way into a bank in the early part of a month, or certainly not much later than the middle of the month. With its certification it would pass, and presently the new depositor would check against it, drawing out all but a small part of his account. Next the business he had started would close. The manufacturer or dealer, whatever the character Schutzberger or Weiss had selected, would disappear, and no more would be heard of him.

How the Plot Was Worked.

Most business men and firms balance their accounts on the first of the month. There was, therefore, a few days for an escape to be effected, but by the early part of the following month some bank invariably discovered that it had certified a forged check. The man or firm whose name had been signed to it would repudiate the check and another victim would be left to appeal to the Pinkertons or the Bankers' Association.

For ten years, said Mr. Dougherty last night, this system had been worked successfuly by Carlesi and his colleagues. New York became too small for their operations, and they began to spread, first to near-by cities and finally to nearly every large city in the United States. The Deputy Commissioner gave out a partial list of the cities from which he had received complaints. It included Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New Haven, Bridgeport, Lowell, Boston, and Cincinnati. Mr. Dougherty admitted that the gang probably had operated in many other towns.

But the gaining of the original check from which the counterfeits were copied is what resulted in the downfall of the scheme. These checks were obtained in various ways, a popular one being for the gang to send a money order to a broker with orders that certain stock be bought or sold. Always a mistake was made in the amount of his order, so that some balance was due the gang, and generally this was refunded in the form of a check from the brokers. Whenever brokers were to be used in the swindle this system was employed, though the police say the gang had dozens of others.

Some of these small checks, seldom for more than a dollar or so, were traced to Carlesi.

Carlesi Explained It.

It was noticed that these checks were often held for extended periods before finding their way back to the original account as vouchers, and the detectives investigating the forgeries were constrained to demand an explanation from Carlesi. He gave it readily. He cashed many checks in his business as saloon keeper, and did not know where all his checks came from. Those which had been held might have been held by those who eventually gave them to him, or perhaps he had held them himself. He did not know. He was well-to-do. There was no need of rushing to the bank each day. He went when it suited his convenience. That was all.

It was enough, though, to set the detectives thinking, and, though that was five years ago, Carlesi has been watched ever since. The watching was without result, however, until the police got on Schutzberger's trail. That was two years ago, and they caught him, though he didn't know it, when he went to Newark to be married.

Before that Mr. Dougherty, Pinkerton operatives, and city detectives had escorted bankers, business men, office boys, and stenographers all over New York, taking them to theatres and fashionable restaurants, to church and to lectures, to every public place of gathering in the hope that they might get on the trail of Schutzberger or Weiss. They did not know their names. The police had never seen them, but from every swindled bank came a description which, in the majority of cases, applied to one of two men.

When Schutzberger was discovered a watch was put on him which was never lifted. How they got the rest of the evidence necessary to warrant a descent on Carlesi's place the police did not reveal last night, but when Carlesi, Schutzberger, and Weiss reached Headquarters they found about twenty-five boys and young women awaiting them.

A Squad of Witnesses.

They were office boys and stenographers who had been employed, the police say, at one time or another by Schutzberger and Weiss. Both men were picked out from a line of policemen and sleuths in plain clothes, as men, who, under various names had employed one or more of the boys and young women.

Schutzberger was identified as "A. Azella," a manufacturer of neckties, and his prosecution will rest on this case. Under this name, the police say, he rented a loft at 506 Broome Street on May 10, 1909, and deposited $900 with the Italian-American, now the Savoy, Trust Company. Ten days later he deposited a check certified to A. Azella for 06,600 drawn on the Hanover National Bank by Eugene Meyer, Jr., & Co., care of Charles J. Theurner of Wall Street.

On May 24 he deposited a similar check for $9,200, and before the end of the month he withdrew all but a small balance and disappeared. On June 1 the bank discovered that the certified checks were forgeries and put the case in the hands of the Pinkertons.

Weiss probably will be sent to New Haven for prosecution, as he was identified last night, the police say, by an office boy who worked for him there. What name he used the police did not reveal, but they say he swindled Price & Whiteley, bankers and brokers there. Or he may be tried in Boston, where the police say he swindled the Shawmut National Bank.

Carlesi, who, the police say, is a Black Hand leader as well as the head of the forger band, will be prosecuted there. Mr. Dougherty said he had no doubt Carlesi had got most of the $500,000 or $600,000 collected by the band. He said Schutzberger and Weiss received only a small part of the sums they obtained from banks, while he believed the artist also worked for small fees.

According to the police, Schutzberger and Weiss acknowledged their part in the swindles and gave testimony which will be sufficient to convict Carlesi.

THE PRESIDENT VOTES AND MEETS HARMON

Links Arms with Ohio's Governor and ex-Senator Foraker at Commercial Club Luncheon.

WON'T DISCUSS ELECTIONS

Taft Spends Seven Minutes in Polling Booth Marking Nine Ballots—Starts South To-day.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7.—President Taft's second day in Cincinnati saw him to the polls, a luncheon guest of the local Manufacturers' Club, and gave him an opportunity to speak in the Music Hall on "Peace and Arbitration" to the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes. This evening he was a guest at the dinner of the Commercial Club.

President Taft had no comment to make to-night on the result of the election in the various States. He scanned the bulletins with interest, but refused to make a statement.

When the President arose to address the Commercial Club at the banquet to-night those around the table who had any idea that he would refer to the election were disappointed. He ignored politics completely and launched into a talk regarding the fortification of the Panama Canal.

At the conclusion of this speech Mr. Taft retired to his private car, and early to-morrow morning will leave this city for Frankfort and Louisville, Ky.

At the entrance of the Business Men's Club, where the Commercial Club gave its luncheon, the President met Gov. Harmon and Senator Foraker. The three chatted for a moment, and then Mr. Taft, linking one arm in one of Gov. Harmon's, and putting the other over the shoulder of Senator Foraker, entered the building.

The President was in a happy vein when he spoke to the manufacturers. President Robertson introduced him with the shortest introductory speech of his entire trip. "Gentlemen, the President," said Mr. Robertson, and the lunchers applauded.

"I am glad to se that you lawyers still are a necessary evil," said the President. "I am coming back here myself some day to become a necessary evil. I see a good many well-fed lawyers and have no fear of the future. I am coming back to compete for business with Gov. Harmon and Senator Foraker."

In the Music Hall Mr. Taft spoke in behalf of the proposed arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France.

"We ought to use common sense in everything," said the President. "We ought to fortify the Panama Canal to keep it for ourselves and to prevent it falling into the hands of an enemy."

The President voted at 2,008 Madison Road in Ward 3, Precinct M, two blocks from where he used to live.

The President had to wait for several minutes after receiving his ballots for the camera battery to fire. He was in the booth for seven minutes and supposedly marked all of the nine ballots.

The Woman Who Is Distinctively Gowned Selects Her Costumes in GIMBELS

The other day a woman's curiosity was responsible for her acquiring fortunate information. She came from San Francisco, and while at tea at the Plaza met a friend from this city. The New York woman was so beautifully gowned that the San Franciscan could not refrain from asking her the name of her dressmaker. "I have none—between you and me, I select all my clothes ready-made at Gimbels." "Never—they don't look ready-made!"

"But that is the very reason I go to Gimbels—their gowns are as distinctive and as beautifully made as any I have ever had from the finest dressmaking establishments."

Mrs. ————, from San Francisco, selected her gowns at Gimbels, too.

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

The Personality of a Rug

It is not the fact alone that good Orientals are HAND MADE that gives them charm.

Many of them have a personality acquired in a way that few people know about.

The UNMARRIED WOMEN of Persia—the young maidens who are just approaching the marriageable age—are frequently responsible for this delightful personal touch in the weaving.

There is a strong family feeling among the Persians. The daughters do much of the actual weaving of the smaller rugs, under the mother's guidance — while the father sells the rugs.

The money realized from the sale of a rug woven by the daughter is saved for her dowry.

So she EXPRESSES HER FEELING in the tieing of knots, as the American girl does in her hand embroidery—putting little artistic touches in which the designer has not put there.

She weaves the romance of her naturally artistic nature into the rug.

The atmosphere which such an Oriental—appropriately chosen—gives a room is not imaginary.

It colors the room with its warmth and geniality—unanalyzed by the average man, but real.

Such a rug must be chosen with deliberate judgment.

The touch of commercialism—the evidence of quick weaving for equally quick selling—is fatal to the charm of individuality.

To select rugs that have this PERSONALITY and to fit them properly in their relation to the American room, is a work requiring intelligent handling.

WILD'S ORIENTALS are CHOSEN SLOWLY, with the particular merit of each particular rug well weighed.

That you may purchase them at prices NO HIGHER than hastily selected rugs is due to the large and steady patronage they command.

SAY MOTION-PICTURE CENSORSHIP IS LAX

Board Which Passes on Films Paid by Manufacturers, Women Investigators Declare.

WANT MUNICIPAL CENSORS

Board's Verdict on Objectionable Films Cannot Be Enforced—Secretary Storey Denies the Charges.

Declaring that moving-picture films are by no means all censored by the National Board of Censorship, that suggestions for the elimination of objectionable films are not always obeyed, and cannot be enforced, and, finally, that the secretaries of the Board of Censors are paid in part, at least, by the very corporation whose products they must pass, the Motion Picture Committee of the Woman's Municipal League has recommended that the league withdraw from membership and representation in the board.

The report of the Woman's League committee, written by its Chairman, Mrs. Gilbert H. Montague, is a severe criticism of what it describes as the inefficiency of the Censorship Board, and says the time has come when a board, which is not subsidized by the film manufacturers, should be named to pass on the films to be exhibited in this city, one which can require the manufacturers to destroy the films which it condemns.

The charge that the Motion-Picture Patents Company, usually called the Film Trust, through its Treasurer, J. J. Kennedy, does contribute to the support of the Censorship Board, is now admitted and defended by the secretaries of that body, whose salaries are in part paid from that contribution, according to Mrs. Montague's report, but it was learned yesterday that there was a time when earnest efforts were made to keep this connection between the censors and the film-makers a secret.

Gilbert H. Montague, a lawyer of 55 Liberty Street, who has been counsel for the Woman's League, has in his possession a letter signed by the late Charles Sprague Smith, then Secretary of the People's Institute, which was instrumental in the organization of the Censorship Board, in which he not only admitted the fact of contributions from the film manufacturers, and advised that that fact should be kept secret, but intimated that the soft pedal should be used in reviewing films for use in this city. After describing the failure of another organization to censor the films, Mr. Smith wrote:

> Speedily thereafter at an interview held by Mr. Collier, John Collier, now Secretary of the Censorship Board, and myself, with representatives of the manufacturers, an agreement was entered into whereby the People's Institute, on the one side, promised to reorganize the work, placing behind it a body of men who would command the confidence of the entire country, and the manufacturers, on their part, agreed to submit for a period their films to our censorship, and also to contribute to the institute for this purpose a definite sum, the fact of the contribution, however, to be kept secret.

In the same letter Mr. Smith intimated that the censors had better not deal harshly with the manufacturers, or the arrangement would fall through. This is his language:

> But this very relationship to the manufacturers limits in the nature of things the action of the Board of Censors within the local field. We cannot play the part of police and prosecutor and still maintain our cordial, co-operative relations with the manufacturers.
> That lies with the very nature of trade relations. Just so soon as the Censorship Board, as such, or individual members of the board proceed to police and prosecute, just so soon complaints will go up from showmen to manufacturers, and in self-defense they will be compelled to abrogate the censorship. This condition has been recognized clearly by those who are in the most responsible active relations in the work, and has been affirmed in so many words by Mr. Kennedy, as representative of the manufacturers.

This Mr. Kennedy was then, and still is, Treasurer of the Motion-Picture Patents Company, and in his name the money for the Censorship Board is given. Mrs. Montague finds that between June 8, 1909, and April 1, 1911, Mr. Kennedy gave the board $9,900, and she adds:

> Throughout this period this has been the only contribution for the expenses of the board, and for the salaries of its paid secretaries for their services to the board, excepting that the People's Institute has contributed part of the time of several of its staff for administrative service to the board. What are the practical results? We find that:
>
> 1. Not all films come before the National Board of Censorship.
>
> (a) The "special release" films, which are not submitted to censorship, and which, it is insisted, comprise only travel, historical, and Biblical pictures, or prizefights, are pretty generally understood to include a number of other subjects which should be amenable to censorship.
>
> (b) While imported films normally come before the board through their authorized New York agents, it appears there is nothing to prevent an exhibitor from privately importing films, objectionable or otherwise, which he may wish to show.
>
> (c) As the agreement between the board and the manufacturers is purely oral, and not legally enforcible, nothing prevents a manufacturer from submitting some, but not all, of his films or withdrawing at any time when he dislikes the rulings of the board. Such a case recently occurred.
>
> 2. Not all censored films are amended before being shown in public.
>
> Owing perhaps to the fact that films are often advertised in trade journals before being censored and that trouble and expense are involved in cutting out objectionable parts of films, the decisions of the board are not always carried out, since the films are often not seen again by the committee after correction. One of the secretaries is, in fact, supposed to keep track of the films when released, but this is an almost hopeless task, particularly in a city like New York. A certain film, very properly censored last season, was subsequently shown in its original form in several places.
>
> 3. Catering to trade interests is a constant temptation to the board, which meets in rooms provided by the trade, whose expenses are chiefly met by the trade, and which is frequently reminded of the heavy loss entailed in case of adverse censoring. This makes lenient judgment easy.
>
> The situation just described confirms your committee in the feeling that the time has come for New York to have a censorship with authority. The magnitude of the task confronting any board trying to be National in its scope is one outside the capability of any voluntary and informal committee. The fact that whenever the other members happen to be absent, and generally throughout the Summer months the paid secretaries, whose salaries are paid in the manner above described, are compelled to do the censoring, is in itself enough to condemn the present arrangement. Moreover, no oral agreement is adequate in any matter involving such moral interests as the motion-picture business at the present time.

Replying to Mrs. Montague's report yesterday Walter Storey, General Secretary of the Censorship Board, characterized all the charges contained therein as either false or misrepresentations.

"The report of the Woman's Municipal League," said he, "greatly misrepresents the work and status of the National Board of Censorship. Taking up their statements specifically, let me say:

"Their report gives the impression of unknown numbers of 'special release' pictures being put upon the market without being censored. As a matter of fact in addition to over 4,500 regular films viewed by the board during the last eighteen months there have been three of four 'special release' films issued, most of them being submitted to the board. Such pictures do not get into the small show houses with which the board is mainly concerned, but are generally shown in regular theatres.

"As the motion-picture amusement at large is greatly benefited by the work of the censorship there seems no sensible reason why the manufacturers should not be allowed to contribute toward the clerical and office expenses. The censoring of the pictures is done by the members of the board, who volunteer their time to this work, receiving no compensation. The two secretaries, who have no vote, alone being paid.

"In regard to a municipal censorship, the board has at no time opposed such a plan. It should be remembered that the work the board is doing is national in its scope and could not be legally constituted except by an act of Congress, which action is hardly possible. The board would heartily co-operate with any municipal censorship that would be appointed."

DR. ELIOT BEGINS LONG TRIP.

Takes Parting Fling at Football, and Didn't Mind Harvard's Defeat.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, and Mrs. Eliot began their trip around the world on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm yesterday. Before the vessel sailed Dr. Eliot talked with the reporters, and in the course of the chat he once more paid his respects to football.

Dr. Eliot will visit India, and probably China and Japan. He will deliver lectures in India on the movement for international peace. Before attacking football Dr. Eliot spoke of popular education in this and other countries. He said that popular education is always uncertain in the United States, sometimes advancing and at other times receding. At present he said the greatest advance is being made in the Southern States. He referred to the work of the Rockefeller Commission for the eradication of the hookworm, and said that the commission was doing a remarkable work.

"Germany," said Dr. Eliot, "is ahead of America in popular, technical, and university education. Japan is also ahead of us in popular education, and in proportion to her population the Island Empire has more children in school than we have here.

"How about football?" he was asked.

"Football," he replied, "is more dangerous than prizefighting, or any other sport for that matter, except aviation. The game should not be played in its present form. Association football would be much more sensible."

Dr. Eliot said he was not at all grieved over the result of the Princeton game last Saturday, which resulted in an unexpected victory for the Princetonians. While he considers aviation a very dangerous occupation, Dr. Eliot said he thought it would prove useful to the army. He said he had not made a contract with any magazine to write up his travels. He expects to be back in America next July.

FELLOWSHIP IN ST. GEORGE'S

Rector Appeals for It, Finding It Hard to Unite Congregation.

St. George's in Stuyvesant Square reports last year 13,000 making their communions. The rector, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Birckhead, seems to find difficulty in getting various elements in his large parish to unite, for in the preface to his Year Book, issued yesterday, he has much to say about alien elements that come in, and the aristocratic and wealthy elements that are already in. St. George's is J. Pierpont Morgan's church. The rector feels, he says, that the parish is at the dawn of a new era in its life, and mentions the opening of the new St. George's Chapel, adjoining the church, and costing $100,000. It is to be opened on the occasion of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the parish, taking place one week from next Sunday.

"The Declaration of Independence," observes Mr. Birckhead, "added a new chapter to the Gospel, in that it dared to assert that if men were free they would be brothers. It makes little difference that the present population of the country was undreamed of by men who framed the Constitution. The principle remains the same—the hope of the country has not changed. The God who inspired it is the Father of all. It is the Church's business primarily to make this Fatherhood real, for without it brotherhood is impossible."

POULTRYMAN KILLS A CHICKEN THIEF

Fires on Him at Close Range When He Catches Him in His Yard.

HELD ON HOMICIDE CHARGE

Police Also Say He Had No License to Keep Firearms in His House.

For several weeks chicken thieves have been at work on the small farms and country places at New Springville, S. I. Early yesterday morning Emil Shrader shot and killed one at the door of one of the coops on his property in that section of Richmond Borough.

Shrader is a prosperous florist whose little farm at New Springville produces many a rare chrysanthemum, to appear later in Fifth Avenue, and his son, William, is a chicken fancier. Young Shrader devotes his time and energies to raising a fine breed of White Wyandottes, and in the family there was some concern for these, as each day's talk with the neighbors over the fences, on the trolley, or down at Bull's Head, would bring stories of fresh plundering of coops at New Springville. Forty chickens disappeared in a night, and then fifty were stolen, while still another farmer woke one morning recently to find that several of his fat pigs had been killed and carried off.

Mr. Shrader decided to install a burglar alarm, and last Wednesday his friend, Clarence Decker, put one in for him. The shielding of the openings to the coops by muslin curtains, according to the approved style, necessitated an elaborate system of wires connecting with a bell in the bedroom of the younger Shrader. The very next night the alarm rang, but the charge of the Shraders scared away the marauder.

It was early yesterday morning, not more than a half hour after midnight and the Shrader family had all retired, when the alarm bell rang furiously. Young Shrader shut off the ringing, and a few moments later he and his brother and father were slipping out into the grounds and making for the line of poultry houses, standing some seventy-five feet behind the house. A half hour later the police at West New Brighton were notified over the telephone that there was a dead man on the Shrader premises. This is the story of what happened in that interval, as it was told yesterday by the police and Decker:

The three men, remembering their experience of the week before, and anxious this time to lay their hands on the chicken thief, stole quietly along the shrubbery. They could hear some one moving inside one of the houses. The elder Shrader, pistol in hand, jumped forward, and as he did so a man jumped out.

"Now I've got you," said Shrader, grimly. "Throw up your hands!"

The sons, as they hurried forward, one with a shotgun in his hands, heard a scuffle. The thief had a bag filled with something that later investigation showed to be two prize Wyandottes. He threw the bag at Shrader's head with such force that it knocked him against the wall of the henhouse. As he reeled back, the bag blocking his vision, Shrader fired, and there was the sound of a body tumbling to the ground. The shot, fired almost at random, had taken effect in the man's head, killing him in his tracks.

At daylight the body was removed to the Morgue and the police took Shrader to the station at West New Brighton, where he was held under a technical charge of homicide. He was also charged with unlicensed possession of a firearm. Later in the morning Coroner Jackson paroled him in the custody of his counsel.

At a late hour last night no one had come forward to identify the dead thief, and none of the neighborhood folk recalled ever having seen him before. The peculiar feature of the dead man's description concerned the elaborate tattoo marks on his body. The figure of a woman was stamped on his right forearm, and on his left forearm the Coroner found a mermaid traced. Across his chest, and executed with considerable care and ingenuity, the tattoo represented a woman riding a horse. Beneath this figure the police made out these letters: "Gavloe Terptio."

Legal Aid for 32,449 Cases.

The Legal Aid Society at its six offices in New York has handled in the past year 32,449 cases at a cost of $30,409, which is less than $1.22 a case. Some of these cases require protracted litigation extending over a year, and this financial showing is only possible because of the economic administration of the affairs of the society, which derives its income chiefly from voluntary contributions.

FIRE DRILL SAVES 150 GIRLS.

March Quietly from Blazing Loft Building—Got First Instruction Monday.

One hundred and fifty girls and twelve men employed on the sixth floor of a loft building at 656 Broadway formed into organized groups at the word of their women overseers yesterday afternoon and marched out of the building while flames raged just below them. Some went down the elevator and stairs, others went down the fire escapes. About forty had to make their way down the fire escapes while flames shot out of the windows, but in no instance was there any panic, although they had only had their first fire drill on Monday afternoon.

The girls were employed by the millinery firm of B. G. Behrman. When the fire was discovered by Charles Boggano, the foreman, he informed his two assistants, Millie Foulks and Mary Inzerlle, and they gave the signal at which the girls formed into groups and began their exit.

As the girls reached the second floor fire escape landing two policemen helped them through the windows that they had forced open, and they were then safely conducted to the street by other policemen.

In the meantime Charles Toner, the elevator man, ran his elevator as fast as he could, taking down the employes who did not use either the stairs or the fire escape. Two girls, Minnie Lehr and Rose Lipshey, 18 years old, climbed down the fire escape from the tenth floor.

Others in the building, an eleven-story brick structure at Bond Street, running back to Jones's Alley, also made their escape. These numbered about 150, scattered all through the building, with the exception of the eleventh floor and the fifth floor. It was in the latter place the fire started.

This loft was closed up at noon, three hours before the fire was discovered. It is occupied by Harry Samuels & Brother, millinery, and it was totally destroyed. The loss was $10,000.

HAWK GETS A BRONX PIGEON.

Eats It on a Steeple While Scores Watch a Boy Strike at the Bird.

A black hawk swooped down on a lot of pigeons flying at Third and Melrose Avenues and 149th Street, the Bronx, yesterday morning, captured one, and then flew with it to one of the steeples of the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception. There it calmly ate its dinner, while a crowd of small boys with air rifles, bean shooters, and stones tried to kill it, and at least a thousand persons looked on.

Herbert Marx of 2,940 Third Avenue was flying his flock from his roof about 10 o'clock, when the big hawk put in an appearance, looking for the most convenient breakfast. The twenty-five handsome, plump pigeons circling around in fun under him seemed too good to be true. He picked out a fat white one, swooped down in a spiral like Hamilton in his aeroplane for a few seconds, and then suddenly dropped like a shot on the pigeon, which had seen its enemy, but was not as quick as the others in getting out of the way.

Several hundred persons saw the capture. Then the crowd grew quickly to a thousand. The three thoroughfares make an open place, with room for many to see what is going on, and, voters included, all stopped to watch the bird of prey. The church has three steeples, the large middle one and two smaller ones. He alighted on one of these, and the feathers of the pigeon began to fly.

Young Marx got permission from the priests to go up into the steeple to a little window, from which he reached out with a long stick. He could just reach the talons of the hawk, and once in a while could touch them enough to make the bird of prey angry enough to peck back. He would peck and bite at the stick, and then eat some pigeon, and peck at the stick again. But he finished the pigeon.

VICEROY DIES BY OWN HAND

Commits Suicide at Nanking After Getting Orders Not to Resist the Rebels.

MANCHUS MURDER GEN. WU

Forty Soldiers Enter His Tent and Shoot Him—Other Officers Slain.

THRONE'S END SEEMS NEAR

Belief That Peking Will Soon Be Surrounded by Chinese Troops—Court Preparing for Flight.

NANKING, Nov. 7.—The Viceroy here committed suicide to-night.

The situation is serious.

The Viceroy's instructions from Peking had ordered him not to resist the revolutionists by force but peacefully to surrender. The Tartar General commanding the Manchu troops refused to obey these orders.

A condition of panic prevails.

PEKING, Nov. 7.—The legations consider that the end of the Manchu dynasty is imminent. There seems no hope of saving even a nominal throne.

The provinces north of the Yang-tse are now declaring for a republic. The only force of Manchu troops large enough to cope with the local situation is in Peking, but there are indications to-night that the capital will be surrounded before many days by Chinese soldiers.

Where the Court will take refuge is a question. There are evidences that the Court intended to proceed to Chang-kia-Kau, (Kalgan.) Troops guarding the route to that town, which is in the Province of Pe-chi-Li, 125 miles northwest of Peking, were expected to dynamite a tunnel after the passage of the train bearing the Emperor and his household. Reports, however, have now been received that Chang-kia-Kau is unsafe.

A hundred carts left Peking to-night for Jehol and two hundred mounted Manchus proceeded in the same direction early in the day. The Chinese believe this advance party is preparing the way for the flight of the Court, but many Manchus are fleeing and troops are constantly moving in the vicinity of Peking. The Manchu troops here number 11,000; Imperial Guards, 7,500; police, 4,000, and banner police about 5,000. The Emperor's personal guard is an army division, numbering 10,000 men, all Manchus. A number of the officers of the Chinese First Division are likewise Manchus, and the city police are for the most part members of the same race. As for the old style troops that camp outside the city walls, they are Chinese, but are a type which are honored by the Manchu title of "bannermen" because their ancestors aided the Manchu conquerors against the Chinese. There is no question as to the loyalty of these troops.

The population of the city is without arms and therefore unable to effect any serious uprising, but Peking is so far quiet.

The Chinese report that the Kalgan Railway is in the hands of the revolutionaries, while a rebel force is proceeding apparently in the direction of Peking at a point on the railway, about seventy miles from the capital. All the railway connections with the capital are threatened.

The National Assembly is holding meetings without a quorum. Na-Tung, Vice President of the Privy Council, has taken rooms for his family in a hotel in the legation quarter. Prince Ching's Palace seems to be deserted. It is believed that the Prince is in the Forbidden City.

Rockets for Missions.

American soldiers with a supply of skyrockets were sent to each outlying mission compound to-night. The legation has advised the Americans to come into the legation quarter or seek other places of safety. A concerted attack upon the foreigners is not feared, but there are many within the city who are opposed to them.

Gen. Wu Lu-Cheng, a brilliant young military officer, who was recently appointed Governor of Shan-Si Province, was assassinated at 1 o'clock this morning. He was asleep in his tent at the military encampment at Shikia-Chunag, when forty Manchu soldiers rushed in past the guard and shot and then beheaded him. When officers of the General's Staff arrested the Manchus, the latter stated that Wu had gone over to the revolutionaries and was secretly betraying the Manchus.

The officer commanding the Sixth Division, which was a part of Gen. Wu's command at Shikia-Chuang, reports that thirty of the assailants were arrested. The officer adds: "The battalion to which they belong looks ready for fighting. We are preparing."

Consular reports state that several other officers were assassinated, and, according to foreign railroad officials, the Manchu and Chinese soldiers fought a regular engagement, in which a number of officers and men were killed.

Gen. Wu was educated in Japan, and had risen rapidly since his return to China. He was liberal in his views, and was always credited with sympathy with reform movements, although he was not an extremist. He reported to the Government a few days ago that he could persuade the Shen-Si rebels to accept the Constitution outlined by the National Assembly, but at that time a suspicion was current that the General himself was a revolutionist. His attitude had since been a matter of some concern to the Manchus. He was a native of Hu-Pe Province, and in April, 1910, was made Deputy Lieutenant General of the Border Red Mongol Banner.

It is expected that the assassination of Gen. Wu will lead to the revolt of the remainder of his old Sixth Division, which is now with Yuan Shi-Kai. The Government reports, however, that two trainloads of imperial soldiers are now on their way to Hankow, and these may be sufficient to prevent a mutiny.

Much Nervousness in Peking.

The general feeling of nervousness here was betrayed this afternoon when an accidental fire started in the quarters occupied by the Board of Ceremonies. The smoke invaded the Forbidden City, and there was great alarm among the Manchu nobles. The Chinese believed that the flames were a revolutionary signal for an uprising, and they were thrown into a panic.

Che-Foo, in Shan-Tung Province, has gone over to the revolutionaries. Prior to this one of the leaders, Wang Shao-Nien, a distinguished educationalist, informed the Consuls that everything was ready for a peaceful assumption of authority by the Chinese and that there would be no slaughter of the Manchus unless they resisted.

Gen. Chang Shao-Tsen, who was appointed by imperial edict an envoy to proceed to the Yang-tse provinces to conciliate the people, has declined the appointment, saying that he preferred to remain with his own troops at Luan-Chow.

LONDON, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—The Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says:

"The situation here to-night is far worse than ever before. The commonest prudence demands that a British regiment should be brought from Tien-Tsin to Peking.

"Prince Tsai-Tao, ex-Minister of War and a brother of the Prince Regent, is attempting to persuade the Empress Dowager to depose the Regent.

"The Chinese Foreign Board is authority for stating that a scheme for the neutralization of Shanghai is under consideration, similar to that established at the time of the Tai-Ping rebellion."

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Shanghai says that the Province of Yun-Nan has declared its independence, and that the Viceroy has disappeared.

Order Maintained at Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—The situation in Shanghai—in fact, in the entire Yang-tse delta south of Hankow—justifies the claims of the republican leaders that they can maintain order.

Almost the entire telegraph system is in the hands of the revolutionaries, including the Shanghai office, which is situated inside the settlement. The leaders informed Chief Director Tong that they wanted control, and Tong accepted service with the republican Government. The entire staff continued at work.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The prediction that Peking will fall within two weeks is made by revolutionary leaders here. They say that weapons are being secretly distributed and that the leaders within the walls are awaiting the signal to seize the city.

According to late advices Dr. Sun Yat Sen, who will, it is expected, organize the new Government, is now hurrying to China from England.

Young China publishes a dispatch from Shanghai saying that the name of the new Republic has been changed from "Chung-Hwa" to "Sin-Hon." "Chung-Hwa" literally means "The Middle Flowery Country." "Sin-Hon" is freely translated as "New China."

DR. WU NOW A REBEL.

Will Aid Republic—Strange Verification of "Spirit's" Prediction.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—Dr. Wu Ting-Fang, who has been chosen as Director of Foreign Affairs in the reform Government established by the revolutionists in the province of Kiang-Su, to-day gave a long statement to The Associated Press, in which he announced his adherence to the movement designed to establish a republican form of government in China.

Dr. Wu, who has twice occupied the office of Minister to the United States, is the most important figure that has appeared on the revolutionary stage in the last few days. Rumors that he had espoused the rebel cause were received with incredulity. When the revolutionists proclaimed a provisional Government at Shanghai he was made head of the Foreign Bureau, but the appointment was not taken seriously, and as late as yesterday he declined to acknowledge any participation in the revolutionary administration. His attitude, as formally announced to-day, will, it is expected, have a far-reaching influence.

At his handsome residence within the foreign settlement of Shanghai Dr. Wu outlined the plans and hopes of the Chinese reformers. Wen Tsung-Yao, formerly Imperial Resident at Lhasa, who has been appointed Assistant Director of Foreign Affairs in the new Government, was present when the statement was made.

Dr. Wu said that, while he was loath to accept office and hesitated because of his former close connection with the Manchu Government, he was now practically forced to aid the cause of China. He announced that Cheng Te-Chuan, the Governor at Soo-Chow, and formerly Governor at Mukden, who was the first Governor to come over to the reformers, had been elected Governor of the entire province of Kiang-Su. He said that Cheng Te-Chuan was a strong man and would be able to control the revolutionists and guarantee order and the safety of foreigners. Ninety-nine per cent. of the population, he said, was supporting the present movement. Dr. Wu continued.

"Personally I favored a limited monarchy, retaining the Emperor as a figurehead, with a strong Chinese Cabinet and a Constitution, but the prevailing sentiment appears to favor a republic.

"In each province a Governor will be selected, each city and town giving its allegiance to the new Government. The whole people of China, north and south, are united against Manchu supremacy and the Government at Peking, which is corrupt and prone to be oppressive.

"I admit that there are tremendous difficulties before us, but we must win. We guarantee adherence to foreign treaties, whether they were made unfairly or fairly. We will pay our obligations to foreign nations and open up all the ports of China to foreign trade. Thus will be guaranteed an enormous advantage to all foreigners as well as to China."

Dr. Wu said that he fully understood that the reform movement might lead in any direction, even to anarchy, but all the people of China were now prepared to show the world the real power of the Chinese for orderly conduct, self-restraint, and loyalty to a fair and honest Government.

"I believe that the institution of a republic is feasible," he said. "If I had been asked this question a month ago I would have answered that such an outcome was impossible. Now I have been surprised, but I am convinced. If the young Emperor were allowed to remain on the throne a short time perhaps it would be better, but the selection of a new dynastic head and a new Emperor would be certain to create jealousies and produce a reign of anarchy which would result in the shedding of much blood.

"The plans of the reformers have been considered for six years. We cannot hope to accomplish everything within a short time. Trade will be temporarily damaged and the people inconvenienced and frightened. If the merchants are patient and foreigners repose confidence in the sincerity of our desire to avoid bloodshed rowdyism can be put down, and we guarantee a vast increase in foreign trade and improved foreign relations. We are determined to establish a stable Government, and hope to give China extra-territorial rights and complete autonomy."

Both Dr. Wu Ting-Fang and Wen Tsung-Yao stated that there would be no reason for foreign interference, the suggestion of which they deprecated as dangerous and unpalatable to the people. They said that the reformers wished recognition as belligerents wherever a responsible local Government had been set up, as at Shanghai, Wu-Sung, and elsewhere.

In conclusion these men, notable in affairs of State, who have cast their lot with the revolutionists, declared that the trend of the world was toward a republican form of Government and that China now was only anticipating the inevitable.

Supplementing his formal statement later, Dr. Wu Ting-Fang made it plain that he was not definitely committed to the idea of a republic, though he believed that such a Government would be feasible. Personally he favored a constitutional monarchy, but he was in sympathy with the general revolutionary movement, and the majority behind that movement had set their hearts on a republic. He added:

"Whatever the outcome of the present upheaval, it will be to the advantage of China. If the revolutionists succeed, the question of whether the future Government will be a republic or a constitutional monarchy will have to be decided. If it is to be the former I anticipate a combination of the United States Constitution with the acts of the German Federation.

"In any case new China will seek the friendship of foreigners and probably a revision of her treaties will ensue. Anyhow, China will be opened to foreign trade, and the Government and people alike will do their utmost to stimulate business with the outside world and develop the natural resources of the country. Foreign advisers of administrative capacity will also be needed."

Dr. Wu declined to discuss the matter of his appointment as Director of Foreign Affairs by the Provisional Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Friends of Dr. Wu Ting-Fang when they read to-day that he had been chosen as Minister of Foreign Relations in the Chinese Republic recalled with considerable interest a spiritualistic séance in which he took part here two years ago, when the events of the past few weeks were foretold in a remarkable manner. Dr. Wu's penchant for investigation while he was accredited as Minister to the United States won for him the name of "the human interrogation mark."

During his inquiry into spiritualism he attended a séance at which the medium conveyed to him messages from the "spirit world." The striking part of the messages, which is now confirmed by the recent events in China, was that the spirits foresaw for Dr. Wu "a terrible war in the Chinese Empire." They told Dr. Wu that during this war he "would occupy a place of great importance and influence."

In connection with the prophesy a spirit purporting to be that of President McKinley conversed with Dr. Wu. Saying he hoped the prediction of war would never come true, the spirit remarked through the medium: "I am for peace, and I know you, also, are for peace. Are you not?" To this question the distinguished Chinese replied: "Yes, I am for peace always." Continuing, the spirit said: "I am sure you will do all you can to prevent this great war, my brother, and I, too, will work for peace."

FALL OF AMOY IMMINENT.

American Cruiser Albany Ordered There—Foreigners' Defense Plans.

AMOY, Nov. 7.—The fall of this city before the revolutionists appears to be imminent.

There is no foreign warship in this port, but all the Consuls have appealed to their Governments to send vessels here. In the meantime the Consuls are devising plans for the defense of foreigners if an emergency arise.

The American and British Consulates were designated to-day as the places of refuge for women and children. The locations of these Consulates are most favorable for easy embarkation on steamers in the harbor if this becomes necessary. A system of signals has been arranged to warn foreigners of the first approach of danger.

No anti-foreign sentiment had developed to-day. The Taotai, Ching, is in hiding, and the police keep out of sight. There is no local government worthy of the name in operation. The soldiers recognize no authority, but fortunately remain quiet.

Public sentiment is revolutionary, but apparently peaceably disposed. Several hundred young men of good families have banded together and assumed the responsibility of maintaining order.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—The American cruiser Albany will leave here at once for Amoy, from which city reports of a very serious state of affairs have been received.

There is said to be a panic among the inhabitants of Fu-Chow, the capital of Fo-Kien Province.

The Shanghai telegraph offices are in the hands of the revolutionists, and communication with Ching-Kiang is again interfered with.

ACTOR LE BARGY IN DUEL.

Outclasses His Opponent, a Journalist—Quarrel Due to Interview.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Immaculately attired and looking every inch the "Beau Brummel of Paris," Charles Le Bargy, the popular actor, fought a duel with swords this morning in the Parc des Princes with a journalist on the staff of Excelsior, Henri Malherbe.

The encounter was the outcome of a denial by the actor of remarks attributed to him in an interview written by Malherbe. A large crowd of journalists, photographers, and cinematographers tried to gain admission to see the fight, but had to be content with a position on a neighboring roof.

Le Bargy took up his position looking intensely dramatic and repeating the hundred little flourishes by which he is so well known in stage duels. He fought with rare skill, and outclassed his opponent, who at the end of the fifth round retired with three wounds in the forearm. Le Bargy received one scratch.

The duelists were not reconciled.

Another Increase in British Trade.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The October statement of the Board of Trade shows increases of $14,022,000 in imports and $29,275,000 in experts. The principal gains were in foodstuffs and manufactured goods.

MUCH PROVOCATION FOR ARAB SLAUGHTER

Correspondent Who Witnessed Events at Tripoli Explains How Massacre Began.

ARABIAN TOWN BOMBARDED

Turkish Gunboat Sunk at Akabah—Many Slain in an Arab-Italian Fight at Tunis.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—The special military correspondent of The Times, whose dispatches relative to the Tripoli atrocities have been marked by a more exact appreciation of the facts of the situation than some of the more lurid descriptions published in other London papers, reverts to the subject in the course of an article in this morning's Times. He writes:

"Very few, if any, of my colleagues had the same opportunity of judging of the effect which the Arab rising had upon the Italian troops as I had. Many of them during the period of panic and attacks were away upon an abortive cruise to Bengazi. Others had no horses to carry them quickly to the fighting line.

"On the morning of the 23d I found myself in the middle of the village where the Arabs first rose in arms against the Italians. They were ensconsed in a labyrinth of walled gardens, fig groves, and cactus-lined alleyways. They shot all and sundry in uniform or on horseback that came in sight. Before my very eyes they destroyed a fatigue party of Bersaglieri who were bringing rations to the outpost line.

"As every one now knows, these same Arabs, perhaps in hundreds, exterminated two companies of the Eleventh Bersaglieri, shooting them at close range in the back while the men were facing a persistent enemy on their front. A gallant little colleague of mine, who spent a whole day with another company of Bersaglieri, has remarkable photographs showing this company manning its trenches in the front and rear at the same moment.

"Then there was the panic in the town, which I have already described fully in The Times. Some of us participated in the frightful moment. The Italian Army, from its General down to the musicians, realized that there was a possibility of 10,000 rifles rising in fanatical rage upon their rear, and we can perhaps better appreciate the mental strain and fearful anxiety which developed into the blood lust I have already described than those who were absent from the cruel scene of the Arab uprising, and certainly better than those who were not in Tripoli at all."

The correspondent suggests that the Italian repression would not have attained the dimensions it did if an adequate number of officers had been employed. He says:

"So far as I could judge, the license which carried the Italian soldiery away was due to the fact that a house-to-house search for arms found small detachments operating without commissioned officers. This was where the danger crept in. The Sicilians and hot-blooded Southerners who had just seen their dead butchered, as they thought in circumstances of black treachery, were dangerous material to let loose in a suburb when the orders were that suspicion of carrying arms was justification for a summary death sentence.

"All armies require a full complement of officers to cope with all the exigencies of war."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—An Italian cruiser bombarded the town of Akabah, Arabia, on Sunday, sinking the Turkish gunboat Italij, which was lying in the port.

The second officer of the gunboat was killed, but the others of the crew escaped. Subsequently the cruiser shelled the hilly portion of the town. The extent of the damage is not stated. Before it sunk the gunboat returned the cruiser's fire.

The War Office to-day does not assert that the Turkish troops have reoccupied Derna, Tripoli. An official telegram from that quarter, however, reports that the Turks won a big victory over the Italians, 500 Italians being killed and 18 guns and large quantities of ammunition and provisions being captured.

The Porte has dispatched a protest to the powers against Italy's claim that she has annexed Tripoli and Cyrenaica, setting forth Turkey's determination to resist. The Porte declares that the annexation proclamation is void because it is contrary to the elementary principles of international law while Turkey and Italy are still in a state of war and that the Ottoman Government is resolved to persevere and fend by force of arms its sovereign rights.

Further, says the Porte, the proclamation is in violation of the engagement solemnly contracted under treaties, especially those of Paris and Berlin, as well by Italy toward the great powers as by the latter toward the Ottoman Government.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—A Tripoli dispatch from an Italian source says that the Italian advance began to-day.

A turning movement was executed and the Hamidié fort was occupied.

TUNIS, Nov. 7.—Groups of Italians and Arabs came into collision to-day and a desperate affray ensued.

It required strenuous efforts on the part of the whole police force, reinforced by detachments of troops, to restore order, and this was accomplished only after a large number had been killed or wounded on both sides.

The rioting continued for a long time in different sections of the city. Revolvers were freely used. It is even reported that at one time a mob of Arabs, several thousand strong, threatened to overpower the troops, who fired five volleys.

The number killed has not been established, but it is estimated at from 20 to 50. A police Sergeant was killed and several of his men were badly wounded.

The disorders began as a result of a decision of the municipality to revise the boundaries of the Arab cemetery. A thousand Arabs repaired to the cemetery to protest. Others fell upon the surveyors, who were Italians. The affair soon assumed the proportions of a regular battle between Arabs and Italians and spread to the different quarters of the city.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The scout cruiser Chester, which was sent from Malta to Tripoli by the State Department for the avowed purpose of ascertaining the exent of the cholera outbreak, has completed her mission and is on her way to Marseilles. American Consul Wood, at Tripoli, said he was in no need of help, and, rather than jeopardize the health of the ship's company, Commander Decker sailed for Marseilles, which is reported to be free from cholera. He will await orders there.

Although the State Department insists that the sole purpose of the Chester's visit to Tripoli was to proffer help in case the American Consul or Americans in that port were in danger from cholera, it is regarded as probable that Commander Decker acquired precise information as to the military situation in Tripoli and the vicinity notwithstanding the severe censorship imposed by the Italian Government.

Though not so stated in the dispatch from Constantinople, the town bombarded by the Italians is evidently Akabah, a fortified village of Arabia on the east side of the Gulf of Akabah, near its northern extremity.

The Gulf of Akabah is the eastern horn of the Red Sea, and the dispatch would seem to indicate that the Italians, meeting with unexpected opposition in Tripoli, have carried out their threat to attack Turkish territory elsewhere.

½ CENT FOR MRS. ATHERTON.

She Gets Nominal Verdict in Slander Case, but Must Pay Costs.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Atherton has won her suit for slander against her brother, Sir Aubrey Dean Paul, the husband being legally responsible for his wife in cases of this kind, Lady Paul having been accused of making slanderous statements, but only a farthing (half a cent) damages was awarded.

Worse than this, Mrs. Atherton will not recover her costs on the one issue on which she won a verdict, while she will have to pay the defendant's costs on the other issue, on which she lost.

A feature of to-day's hearing was a verbal duel between Sir Edward Carson and Lady Paul. The latter, who is a daughter of the late Henry Wienawski, the famous Russian pianist, quite held her own in the contest of wits.

RUN ON PENNY BANK.

Exciting Scenes at Stepney Branch of Big English Institution.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—A run by foreign small depositors on the Stepney Branch of the National Penny Bank, Limited, has been accompanied with scenes of excitement over rights for vantage points in the waiting line of those wishing to withdraw their funds. Frequently the police cordon was rushed and broken to-day, and it was some time before the crowds were under control.

So far as can be ascertained, there was no foundation for the rumors which caused the run. The depositors are being paid as rapidly as the cashiers can hand out the money.

NEW ISLAND SINKING.

Has Two Volcanoes—Belief That It Will Not Stay Above Sea Level.

PORT OF SPAIN, Nov. 7.—The mud volcano which rose with an outburst of fire and smoke between the Island of Trinidad and Venezuela, appears on closer investigation to have two craters, which have been quite active. To-day it was reported that the formation seemed to be sinking and because of the soft nature of the clay in the sea bed it is thought that the new island may not prove permanent.

AFRICANS MASSACRE WHITES.

Revolt in Angola, News of Which Portugal Has Tried to Suppress.

LISBON, (via Frontier,) Nov. 7.—Serious news is being received daily from Angola, the Portuguese possession in Western Africa.

A revolt of the natives is spreading rapidly, and they are burning and pillaging everything in their path.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the Government to conceal the situation from the public, it is known to be precarious. Tribes have attacked settlements and massacred a number of Europeans, after subjecting them to terrible tortures. The number and nationality of the victims is not known.

AWARDED TO MME. CURIE.

This Year's Nobel Prize for Chemistry Is to Go to Her.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 7.—It is announced that the Nobel prize for chemistry has been awarded to Mme. Marie Sklodowska Curie of the University of Paris.

The Nobel prize for physics has been awarded to Prof. Wilhelm Wien of Würzburg University.

It was reported that the Nobel prize for physics would probably be awarded this year to Thomas A. Edison.

Mme. Curie is the Chief Professor of Sciences in the University of Paris. She was the co-discoverer with her husband, the late Prof. Pierre Curie, of radium, and in 1903 shared with him half the Nobel prize for physics, the other half being awarded to Prof. Becquerel. Each of the five Nobel prizes, awarded annually, amounts to $40,000.

Recent announcement was made of the success of Mme. Curie in producing polonium, "a new element possessing radio-activity superior to radium."

Lew Fields' Father Critically Ill.

S. Fields, father of Lew Fields, the actor, is critically ill at his home, 600 West 150th Street, and his sons were summoned last evening at the advice of Dr. W. P. Byrne. Lew Fields was playing an engagement in "The Hen Pecks" at the Garrick Theatre, Chicago, when informed of his father's illness, and, accompanied by two of his brothers, Charles and Sol, immediately left there for New York. Another son, Nathaniel, is in the Far West. The other members of the family are here.

PROMISES ENGLAND MANHOOD SUFFRAGE

Asquith to Introduce Bill—Not to be Extended to Women Unless Parliament Desires.

GREY RAPS YELLOW PRESS

Says Recent False Reports Caused Trouble Between Britain and Germany—Free Hand for Canada.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Government intended to introduce a Manhood Suffrage bill at the next session of Parliament.

Manhood suffrage means one vote for every adult male, with the exception of aliens, the insane, and such persons as are usually disqualified by law. Under the present system, men maintaining several residences have the right to vote in each place.

A deputation composed of ninety members of Parliament waited upon Mr. Asquith this evening to memorialize him in favor of adult suffrage which would enfranchise all persons of both sexes. Arthur Henderson, M. P., pointed out that only 7,904,655 persons were now enfranchised out of 45,000,000.

The Prime Minister said that the Government was pledged to manhood suffrage, and would introduce a bill to that effect, but it would not include women. The bill, however, would be in such a form that the House could extend it to include women if the House so pleased.

The Prime Minister's unexpected announcement relative to manhood suffrage caused a great sensation on both sides of the House, and it appears likely to meet with much criticism, if not open opposition, from the Liberals as well as the Conservatives. It was understood that the next session would be devoted exclusively to Irish Home Rule and Welsh disestablishment, and the friends of these two measures feel that the introduction of another bill, over which there is bound to be great contention, will clog the legislative machine and jeopardize all three measures.

The Conservatives will oppose the bill on the ground that it ought to be accompanied by a "redistribution of seats" bill, and its passage will be further complicated by the question of woman's suffrage. The present intention of the women's party is to oppose it actively.

The Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Sir Edward Grey, took occasion in the House of Commons to-day to read the so-called sensational press a homily on the danger of spreading false news offensive to other nations. "Some of these days," he remarked, "if false news continues to be reported, public resentment and excitement will get beyond the control of the Government concerned."

The incidents which called forth Sir Edward's remarks were an alleged interview with the British Ambassador at Vienna, and an alleged passage in the speech of Home Secretary McKenna, both strongly criticising Germany. The Foreign Minister explained that neither the Ambassador nor Mr. McKenna had been guilty of the alleged indiscretions, but before this was known in Germany the incidents had been construed as a direct public international affront, which had given rise to great resentment, and called forth a request for explanations from the German Government.

Sir Edward pointed out that while these incidents had not caused real difficulty between the two Governments, there were great possibilities of danger in exaggerating and distorting facts. "There has been," he continued, "a tendency on the part of the newspapers of Great Britain and Germany to put a sinister construction upon the actions taken by the British and German Governments, respectively, in different parts of the world. I trust that, with the conclusion of the negotiations now happily reached between France and Germany on the subject of Morocco, the tension which has given rise to suspicion and distrust will disappear."

A determination to leave to Canada an entirely free hand in dealing with the United States in matters concerning the Dominion was indicated to-day by Sir Edward Grey's answer to a question regarding the naval activities of the United States on Lake Michigan.

Rowland Hunt, Unionist, suggested that the making of a naval station there might be a breach of the Rush-Bagot treaty, and wished that Ambassador Bryce be instructed to ascertain the facts. The Foreign Secretary refused to do this without communicating with the Canadian Government which, he said, was the most directly concerned. He added: "I propose to leave to the Canadian Government the initiative, and thereby show our desire to act in harmony, sympathy, and co-operation with them."

FIRE ON A FRENCH LINER.

The Louisiane, from New Orleans for Havre, Puts In at Havana.

HAVANA, Nov. 7.—The French line steamer Louisiane from New Orleans Nov. 4 for Havre put in here this afternoon with a fire in her cargo of cotton. The fire started when two and a half days out, and the Captain of the steamer headed for Havana, the nearest port, for assistance.

The Louisiane anchored in the harbor and discharged much of her cotton on lighters. Steam was then thrown into the hold. The fire is still smoldering.

The vessel is apparently not seriously damaged. The Louisiane carried only eight passengers, who were sent ashore.

South Orange Complains That Its Parents Leave Records Incomplete.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 7.—For the last fifteen years the village of South Orange has insisted on having births filed with the village clerk within five days of their occurrence. Thirty-three couples out of every hundred do not have the children's names selected, and the result is that thirty-three out of every hundred records are lacking in the handles to the names. To remedy this condition the local authorities are going to advertise surnames and dates of filing in the hope that parents will take notice and furnish the first names.

"It will cost some money to advertise them," said Dr. Alfred C. Benedict, the Health Inspector, to-day, "but it would never to to leave those records incomplete like that. Vital statistics are among the most important, and the longer they stand the more valuable they become. These records are all filed in Trenton, and it is absolutely necessary that the full names be put in where they belong. Some young people in this village will enjoy the rare treat of seeing their own births advertised."

DEATH HOUSE FOR BEATTIE.

Wife-Slayer Will Go There To-day Unless the Court Acts.

RICHMOND, Nov. 7.—Unless the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals grants a new trial for Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., before to-morrow the young man convicted of the murder of his wife will be removed from the Richmond City Jail to Murderers' Row in the death house in the penitentiary.

According to law, a man condemned to death must be lodged in the penitentiary fifteen days before the date set for his death.

The court which has under advisement Beattie's petition for a writ of error will sit to-morrow, but may not give its decision.

DIES IN A TURKISH BATH.

Physician Says the Excessive Heat Killed Constantine Sandowitz.

Constantine Sandowitz, a salesman who boarded at 75 Goerck Street, was found sitting dead yesterday with a robe around him in a Turkish bath at 274 South First Street, Williamsburg. He appeared at the bath late on Monday night and was in a happy frame of mind because he expected soon to meet his wife, who is on her way over from Russia.

After the bath Sandowitz sat down in a reclining chair. An attendant shook him yesterday morning, but failed to arouse him. An ambulance surgeon from the Williamsburg Hospital pronounced him dead, and said death had probably been due to the excessive heat in the bath.

URGING FEDERAL PENSIONS.

Appeal Made to All Civil Service Employes for Co-operation.

An appeal was sent out yesterday by the Federal Civil Society, recently formed to urge the passage of a bill by Congress, providing for an equitable retirement plan for employes of the classified civil service, to all civil service employes asking for co-operation.

William H. Russell of the Customs Service is President and H. R. Meyers of the Postal Service is the First Vice President. The other officers represent the employes in the Appraisers' Stores, Immigration Bureau, Department of Justice, Naval Office, Bureau of Animal Industry, and Foreign Mail Service. The appeal says:

> This society is composed of the employes of all branches and departments of the Government under the protection of the civil service law. The one thing that has militated against the successful enactment of such legislation as we are now endeavoring to obtain is the fact that we have never been united.

It was stated that the society is in favor of the Austin bill, providing for 15 per cent. increase in salary of the employes all around. Part of this increase, it is stated, could be withheld, at the option of the employes, as accumulated savings to their respective accounts, which could be given to them as an annuity at the time of their retirement, or, in case of their death, the money could go to their widows or families. The appeal says that this bill or a similar bill, if supported, is likely to be passed.

TO JAIL FOR 30 MINUTES.

Complainant Before Jersey Judge Sentenced for Impudence.

Miss Henrietta Janotti of Little Ferry, N. J., was committed to the Hackensack Jail for thirty minutes this morning by Judge Demarest because she insisted on "sassing" the court.

"If you insist with your impudence I'll put you in jail," said Judge Demarest.

"I just guess you won't, and I'd like to see you try it," replied Miss Janotti.

"You will now be committed for thirty minutes; officer, take her away," said the court.

Miss Janotti had come to court to appear against Abram Van Saders of Little Ferry on a charge of assault and battery. The case was dismissed.

FLORENCE BLUNDER, CHAMPION BULLDOG

Mrs. C. M. Hamilton's Entry Carries Off Premier Honors at Bulldog Club Bench Show.

Although pitted against 120 of the best bred and aristocratic bulldogs in the country, Mrs. C. M. Hamilton's champion Florence Blunder was adjudged the best canine exhibited at the annual open bench show of the Bulldog Club of America yesterday, in the McCreery Building, 112 West Forty-second Street.

Never before in the history of the club has such a high class lot of dogs been benched at a show. There was both quality and quantity, and it was well into the evening before the judge had completed his arduous task.

The entry list was a thoroughly representative one, and included champions from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, and Providence. The total number of dogs benched exceeded that of any other show ever held in this country, and the success of champion Florence Blunder places her at the head of the bulldog family in the United States.

The work of Archibald McClure Halley as judge found favor with nearly all the exhibitors, in spite of the fact that the dogs in each class were nearly evenly matched. The success of Robinswood Kennels' Robinswood Pindarus was one of the features of the show, while the same kennels' Robinswood Scrooge made a notable series of victories. The latter is a new importation by Mrs. Helen Robins of Stamford, Conn. It is a fawn colored light brindle with massive head, great finish in body, and was in excellent condition. Robinswood Scrooge defeated Mrs. C. M. Hamilton's champion Lord Chancellor, the premier bulldog in America in the last Westminster Kennel Club show. The loser had the finest turnup, but lost in massiveness of skull and was seemingly not in condition, otherwise the pair were much of the same type of dog.

In the class for American bred dogs the blue was awarded to Richard Croker, Jr.'s Mahogany brindle Blacksmith, one of the mammoth sort. The decision was favorably received, but Huck Finn's placement of second honors was decidedly lucky. In this class Robinswood Pindarus was placed third, a surprise to the experts who watched the judging. Rodney Condor, a fine brindle and half brother to Robinswood Pindarus, was easily the pick of the novice dogs, and supplemented this win by carrying off the junior and green classes for American bred dogs. The success of Gotham Lord Beresford was conspicuous, as he is the sire of Rodney Condor, Robinswood Pindarus, and Beresford Cupid, all winners in their respective classes.

Champion Kentish Lily, the first dog to beat Thomas W. Lawson's La Roche, one of the famous matrons of the breed, was defeated by Harry Rushton's Princess Merlow, a home-bred product, which made a remarkable showing. Princess Merlow is a fawn-colored bitch of many good traits, but lighter in bone and shorter in skull than champion Kentish Lily. The latter scored in sets of ribs and general character.

In the thirteenth Produce Stakes for dogs and bitches, the Robinswood Kennel scored a double victory, winning the dogs' division with Robinswood Pindarus and the bitches with Robinswood Dana. Both dogs were the class of their respective divisions. The awards:

Michigan Fears Cornell Ends.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7.—Coach Yost fears Cornell's ends and to-day much time was spent in an attempt to perfect a defense for the Michigan eleven to stop them next Saturday. The ease with which the Syracuse ends downed Michigan men on punts last Saturday showed a Michigan weakness.

Beatty to Try for Shot-Put Record.

Manager Allan H. Smith of the Columbia track team has arranged a special set of interclass games to be held this afternoon on South Field, the purpose of which will be to give R. L. Beatty, '14, another chance to break his record in the shot-put. His remarkable put of 49 feet 2¾ inches, made in the annual interclass games held on Morningside Heights two weeks ago, has been disallowed because of a slight discrepancy in the weight of the sixteen-pound shot used, and Beatty is, therefore, anxious to have one more trial this Fall, while he is in prime condition.

Hoppe Wins from Slosson Again.

Willie Hoppe, the holder of the world's championship title at 18.1 and 18.2 balk-line billiards, who is practicing at George Slosson's Billiard Academy, Thirty-first Street and Broadway, for his coming championship match with George Sutton, easily defeated Slosson at 18.2 balk line by the score of 500 to 121, last night. The contest required twelve innings, and the champion made a high run of 129 points, with an average of 41 2-3. Slosson's high run was 51, with an average of 11 points.

Avery Wins from Levy at Doyle's.

In last night's game of the amateur handicap 18.2 balk line by the score of 500 to 121 last Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy George Avery, playing at 100 points, easily defeated Sylvester Levy, handicapped at 125 points, by the score of 100 to 56 in twenty innings. The winner made a high run of 18 points, and Levy's was 12. In the continuation of the tournament this evening Charles Atherton will oppose Sam Garfunkle.

ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

By taking long chances at coming up to the net and daring to hit the ball hard, Austin Smith and Charles Blauvelt, handicapped at plus half 15, yesterday won the handicap doubles tournament on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club, 238th Street and Broadway, by defeating Harry McCallum and James A. Wilson, who had the mark of plus half 30. The winning pair scored in straight sets at 6—4, 6—3. The wind that swept the courts compelled hard and swift play. Both Smith and Blauvelt realized this, and they worked their shots with all the speed they possessed. The opposing pair attempted to lob too often or played the ball for high and slow drives, which the wind either carried astray or Smith and Blauvelt blocked by smashing. The summary:

West Side Men's Handicap Doubles.—First Round—H. H. Moore and W. D. Bourne (plus 15) defeated F. B. Washburn and J. S. Leventritt was at the top of his game and hit the ball hard, defeating Benjamin M. Phillips in straight sets by the score of 6—1, 6—4. Leventritt had a slight advantage in the handicap, as his mark was minus half 40 to the full limit of minus 40 for Phillips.

ALPERS RIDES THREE WINNERS AT BELMONT

Thrown in Steeplechase, He Comes Back and Captures Two Meadow Brook Races.

The Meadow Brook Steeplechase Association held its annual Fall race meeting yesterday at Belmont Park Terminal, when a string of seven interesting events was decided. These took the nature of hurdle, flat, and steeplechase contests, and marked the continuation of the success of Lieut. Fred Alpers, who, on Saturday last, carried off the honors in four races. Yesterday he scored three victories, two of these being achieved after he had had a nasty fall in the third race.

It was in this event that Sidney Josephthal in an evident endeavor to draw a close finish of a race he should have won by a dozen lengths took a snooze during the final fifty yards, and drew the jeers of many spectators by nearly falling out of the saddle in his ludicrous attempt to stall off the challenge of Country Guy, which came with a rush and beat Josephthal on Adjutor by a couple of lengths.

The event in which this blundering bit of riding was seen was called the Tonkaway Steeplechase, and was marked by the only real spill of the day, when Fred Alpers, on Macedonian, was thrown over his horse's head at the last jump just after Adjutor had gained the lead. Alpers was only slightly hurt, but he came back and won the sixth and seventh races.

This event marked the downfall of the strongest favorite of the meeting, and also showed some of the weirdest riding of the series, when Josephthal left the flag at almost a walking pace, trailing throughout the first two miles as though waiting for the other entrants to fall. At the top turn on the last time round Adjutor was let down, and the manner in which he mowed down opponents was inspiring.

With the last jump successfully taken almost in alignment with Macedonian, the fall of the latter left Adjutor to all but walk home. His rider took the horse "up in his lap," and although warned by the crowd to wake up proved to be so fast asleep that he, in the language of the spectators, "tossed away a cinch."

Harry Tucker was fined $25 for his attempt to get the best of the start in the Stayers' Plate, a flat race of two miles and a quarter.

The hunting set was at the meet in great numbers, and showed its apparently never-decreasing interest in the sport by trooping back and forth to the paddock between races in order to witness the grooming of the various racers.

Among those noticed in the stand were Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Bird, Miss C. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Vingut, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, W. ### K. O. Brown and Bedell at Royale A. C.

Both Knockout Brown and Joe Bedell are in the best shape for their battle at the Royale Athletic Club to-night. No two boys have ever trained more conscientiously for a boxing bout, and the club doctor, who examined them yesterday afternoon, pronounced them both to be in fine physical condition. Bedell realizes that a victory over the blond-haired fighter will mean a place for him in the front division of his class, and he has left nothing undone that might help him along in shaping himself for the contest.

SHOOTING AT CRESCENT A. C.

C. A. Lockwood Wins Feature Event, Take-Home Trophy.

Shooting for the Fall and Winter season started at the Bay Ridge traps of the Crescent Athletic Club yesterday. The conditions were anything but ideal for the sport. A strong wind swept in from the lower bay and tossed the blue rocks in every direction. Considering it was the first shoot of the year, the marksmen were in excellent form and several managed to make high scores. The field numbered twenty-five gunners, and to the satisfaction of the Shooting Committee there were many newcomers on the firing line.

The feature was a take-home trophy at 100 targets. The winner was C. A. Lockwood, who had a total of ninety-one "kills" to his credit. Each week there will be a similar trophy offered by the Shooting Committee, and it is expected that these prizes will wonderfully increase the attendance at the traps. The Holiday Cup was taken by F. S. Hyatt, who returned a full card of fifty targets. The first leg of the Stake Trophy also was decided. It was won by George Brower. The scores:

OGDEN WINS AT TRAPS.

Captures Five Out of Seven Events Contested at Travers Island.

Election Day trap shooting events of the New York A. C. at Travers Island brought out only a small number of clay pigeon shooters.

The conditions at the traps were unfavorable and the few gunners present were handicapped by a stiff wind which swept the traps and made many of the shots difficult.

The best shooting was done by W. B. Ogden, who captured the honors in five of the seven events contested. Ogden won the first leg on the Thanksgiving Day Cup Handicap with a score of 21, the Election Day Cup at 50 targets with a tally of 42, and the November Cup in which he scored 24 birds and was high gun in both the day's high score scratch and handicap shoots, with 75 and 80 targets, respectively. # R. L. SPOTTS SHOOTS BEST AT LARCHMONT

Crack Shot of Yacht Club Leads in Opening Events of the Season.

The trap shooting season of 1911-12 of the Larchmont Yacht Club opened yesterday on the club's traps with a special Election Day programme, in which fourteen gunners participated. The card consisted of five special events, and a high gun contest.

The gunners have not yet reached their best form with the rifles, but R. L. Spotts, the crack shot of the club came well up to his last season's form, and pulled down the honors for the high gun of the day with a total of 125 out of a possible 150.

The shooters were confronted with a stiff breeze, and the first real competition proved a hard task for them to sight the blue rocks, but with all conditions considered their work was worthy of praise and the season's competition promises many surprises. All but one event was decided with 25 targets, the fifth special event being at 50 birds, in which C. W. Billings and R. L. Spotts tied for the honors, each having a mark of 4, and totalling 47 targets.

Billings also captured the opening contest of the season, a special shoot at 25 targets. Billings had a handicap of 3, and totalled 25. The high gun contest was a nip and tuck affair between Spotts and Billings, in which the former was returned the victor by a one-point advantage. The scores:

J. W. Hessian, champion rifle shot of the United States, issued a challenge yesterday to any one for a match at any distance with the three weapons, rifle, shotgun, and revolver. Mr. Hessian does not claim a championship with either of the two latter weapons, but is willing to post a forfeit of $1,000 that no man can beat him with the three arms. Mr. Hessian's last feat was 56 consecutive bull's-eyes with a rifle at 800 yards, a record made at the new encampment ground at Blauvelt. At this meet he also won the New York State championship with the rifle.

Holden First in Cross-Country.

George F. Holden of Ossining High School ran away from the cross-country pack which started yesterday morning in the open interscholastic run, held at St. Peter's College, Jersey City, winning by three-quarters of a mile. In yesterday's run there was no one to keep up with him.

The course is a rugged one, extending from St. Peter's College at Warren and Grand Streets over to the Boulevard, up to County Park and return, a distance of four and a half miles. Holden's time for this distance was 28:50, the next best time being 32:26. The point score was not taken. The order of finish:

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 8, 1911.

THE SHRINKING OF TAMMANY.

The voters of the State and City of New York behaved yesterday in a way to give much comfort to the righteous. It is immensely comforting that Murphy has been cudgeled away from Albany. The Legislature at the coming session will not respond to his evil touch. Should he visit the State capital during the coming Winter he will not meet a body of cringing vassals. He will confront a Republican majority whose chief joy it will be to disoblige him in all things. There is great comfort, too, in the figures of the voting in Manhattan and the Bronx. A beggarly majority of five or six thousand for Tammany! That compares with 68,389 majority for Dix a year ago, with 47,578 majority for Gaynor in 1909. In 1908 Cohalan, the Tammany candidate for Surrogate, had a majority of 25,228, although a most determined fight was made for Beckett, the Republican candidate, who was a man of exceptional qualification for the place. And Murphy loses the Board of Aldermen.

Tammany, as Murphy manages that tough old organization, is a dwindling force in New York politics. The city grows rapidly in population, Tammany shrinks and diminishes. It cannot maintain its relative strength because it fails to control many of the new elements of the population. It is still well organized, well disciplined, it is still efficient on Election Day. But a great anti-Tammany majority is rapidly growing up around it. The time is coming, and it is not far distant, when Tammany will be overthrown, when it will be beaten and stay beaten. It will not be put down by Republican votes, for this city is not becoming Republican. Its downfall will come through the divorcement of local affairs from State and National politics through a successful union against it of anti-Tammany voters. It has in the past sometimes been beaten by Fusion movements. Yesterday's vote showed that it might have been beaten this year had Fusion been more fortunate in its organization and in its ticket. The Independence League affiliation may have brought some votes to the Fusion ticket, but certainly it drove away some.

There are thousands of Republicans and of anti-Tammany Democrats who have no liking for the principles the League has avowed in the past, for its agitations and for its leadership. The men who organized this year's Fusion movement are entitled to a candid recognition of their worthy aims, the credit of having so nearly beaten Murphy in a year when he ought to have been utterly destroyed will be frankly conceded to them. But triumphant Fusion, the Fusion that will make an end of Tammany, must be organized not on the principle of apportioning the candidates among leagues or factions or parties, but upon the demand for wise and sound administration, and it must base its appeal upon the self-evident worth and merit of its nominees and of its purposes. With candidates who will command the respect of the whole community, candidates free from all suspicion of pledges and associations that might engender distrust, in some year not far distant, we are entirely confident that a Fusion movement will reduce Tammany to that helpless condition into which it was brought and for some years kept by the County Democracy.

It is fortunate that Tammany's candidates for Judges, now elected, are men of whom the Bar Association could say that they are in respect to character and knowledge of the law qualified for the bench. It would be in every way better, better for the bench, for the bar, and for all the people in the State if our Judges were appointed by the Governor at Albany. In all the States the tendency has for many years been toward an elective judiciary, a method of choosing Judges which a great jurist once described as a "frightful solecism." We know very well that our Judges are not elected in this judicial department. They are appointed at present by Murphy, as they used to be appointed by Croker. At the polls the people merely ratify these Tammany appointments. Though allowance must be made for errors of judgment or abuses of discretion in the Executive appointment of Judges, the quality of the bench would be visibly raised if its incumbents were to be named by a Governor at Albany instead of by a boss in Tammany Hall.

In the Second Department the system of boss appointment of Judges was condemned by the people yesterday, yet we are bound to say with insufficient emphasis. It is amazing, it is disheartening, even, that the exposure of Willett's financial operations just preceding his nomination, to which they had an obvious relation, should have brought down upon him a degree of popular disfavor measured only by 10,000 fewer votes cast for him than for his judicial associates on the ticket. But he is defeated, and that must be construed as an exemplary warning. The election of Surrogate Fowler is a cause of satisfaction. It is now plain that his name upon the Fusion ticket would have made it more acceptable.

THE ASSEMBLY.

The new Assembly will have a Republican majority large enough to defeat the carrying out of Tammany's programme. Republicans throughout the State who voted or abstained from voting last year generally returned to their party in yesterday's election, and a number of independent Democrats who carried Republican districts in 1910, on the strength of their independence, and were renominated on their good records, have been voted down. Robert P. Bush, however, has been reelected in Chemung County, where the Democrats seem to have returned to power permanently, and the Democrats also hold Greene, Tompkins, and Schuyler Counties. Schenectady has elected the first Socialist member of the Assembly, Herbert M. Merrill, the City of Schenectady electing at the same time a Socialist Mayor, the first in New York State.

In Manhattan the Assembly Districts accounted normally Republican have all elected the candidates of that party, who were supported also by the Independence League and the Democratic League, while in the districts generally counted upon for Democratic majorities there have been some gratifying surprises. Thus, while the election of Mr. Crawford in the Fifteenth, Mr. Nelson in the Twenty-first, and Mr. Dana in the Twenty-seventh District was practically assured beforehand, the election of opponents of Tammany in other districts emphasizes the rebuke to Murphy. At least eight Manhattan districts will be represented in the Assembly by anti-Tammany men, while there have been encouraging gains also in the Bronx, where five anti-Tammany Assemblymen have been elected; in Kings, where the Republicans have gained seven or more, and in Queens.

A safe majority, which is likely to be swelled by later returns from close districts, has been secured, therefore, against the furtherance of the plans of Murphy to force his Charter and other obnoxious measures through the Legislature, while the rebuke thus forcibly administered will shatter Murphy's hope of controlling the State Democratic organization in the Presidential year. New York will thus be saved from the reproach of the Nation, and the Independent Democrats have a good opportunity to regain control of the organization and to send a delegation to the National Convention which will stand for Democracy in the true sense.

IN OTHER STATES.

The most significant feature in the elections in other States than New York is the re-election of Gov. Foss in Massachusetts. Gov. Foss deemed it wisest and most honest to make his campaign along the well-defined lines of last year's contest. He has adhered pretty closely to questions arising in connection with his own office, and to the dominant issue of reciprocity and tariff reduction as concerns National matters. The Democratic platform was long, wordy, full of clap-trap; and in some regards evasive. Mr. Foss has made his own platform and his own canvass. His party was inclined to ignore reciprocity as a measure that had resulted in a mortifying rebuff from Canada. Mr. Foss, believing that it involves a sound principle of vital importance, which will ultimately prevail, argued the matter with his characteristic directness and force. He treated the tariff in the same way, though, after the defeat of reciprocity, the Republican machine redoubled its efforts, and some of the Democrats were inclined not to press the question. The event shows that Mr. Foss's judgment was sound. His re-election is a serious blow to the Lodge machine and to the extreme protectionists.

When Gov. Wilson, in New Jersey, practically staked his political fortunes on the election of a Legislature friendly to him, he doubtless thought that he was safe, and that his earnest appeal would be listened to.

It has been rejected. Had he confined his attention to State matters, and to specific measures of State policy, the result might have been different. Had the result been the same, its effect would surely have been different. Mr. Wilson chose not only to make the appeal, but to embark on a long journey throughout the country almost professedly in the interest of his nomination for the Presidency, and left his fellow-citizens in his own State to draw their own conclusions. They have, in the language of the politicians, "turned him down," and with painful hardness. The influence upon his personal prestige must be considerable. Many who rejoiced in his election a year ago will endure his present check with a certain degree of philosophy, for he has greatly disappointed them. He has found it necessary for his purposes to join with dangerous elements in the political life of the Nation and to indulge in what has seemed to some of his former admirers perilously like demagogy. In regard to the financial system of the country and the vital question of the currency, he has shown either inconceivable ignorance or unaccountable perversity. If he was persuaded that he had struck a popular note, he has been deluded. His failure to secure the support in his own State which he so earnestly asked for may open his eyes to the extent and nature of his delusion, and of the disaster which yesterday befell his Presidential ambition.

There is another statesman of national reputation and aspirations for whom the election returns from his own State must carry a dolorous meaning. Neither the voice nor the vote of the President in Cincinnati has served to save Boss Cox and his machine from such castigation as Mr. Taft himself recommended not long ago. The sacrifice made in the open recantation of that recommendation was bad enough at best. It will not seem less, or less bitter, now that it is shown to have been vain.

ALFRED C. LAMBDIN.

The death of Dr. Lambdin, chief editorial writer of The Philadelphia Public Ledger, removes a man who was content to work for the public's good without the public's knowledge. He contributed, and he was thoroughly competent to contribute, to the stock of public information and to the formation of public opinion. He was well satisfied to remain in the shadow of newspaper anonymity, and that what he wrote should be known to the public only as a part of the newspaper he helped to make. Yet Dr. Lambdin had a clearer title to public fame than is possessed by many men of his calling who are much on parade.

He had the taste and the habit of the scholar, he was a diligent student of public affairs, he wrote under the guidance of intelligently formulated principles, and he was in all things faithful and conscientious. He wrote, as newspaper men must and do, upon the endless variety of themes which human interests and strifes and ambitions bring to their attention, and he wrote with notable lucidity and force and charm. In the field of music and of art he was a critic of authority, and in that relation, perhaps, he was best known personally to the community in whose interest he labored. Yet he was so modest withal that he never sought that personal distinction and repute that bring their peculiar rewards of gratification to pride or to vanity. He possessed fine qualities of heart and social accomplishments which, in the private circle, won for him high esteem and genuine affection.

ANNEXING CANADA.

We submit that it is going a little too far for a member of the British Ministry to rise in his place and say before all the world that the Speaker of the House of Representatives is not to be taken too seriously when he proposes to annex Canada over President Taft's dead political body, so to speak. Nothing prevents this burning question from entering into practical politics except the arrangement of the details. If the Democrats will adopt the annexation issue instead of those to which they are committed, and if they will nominate Mr. Clark, and if the electors will make him President over Mr. Taft, why, then Canada is as good as annexed. It is carrying British phlegm and stolidity too far when responsible statesmen decline to be agitated over this threat at the empire's integrity and when they insultingly disparage the Speaker's standing as a leader of American thought. Having done more than any other man to defeat reciprocity, and perceiving his mistake, he now seeks to rectify it in a similar single-handed manner by annexing Canada all by himself. If he should succeed it will be admitted that the joke will be on Great Britain. For the spokesmen of England to say that, as the matter stands, the joke is on the Speaker of the House of Representatives, is to show an unbecoming levity. They ought at least to pretend to be alarmed.

Our esteemed contemporary The London Morning Post, the rival of The Saturday Review as the exponent of British Bourbonism, rises nobly to the occasion, and makes amends for the official trifling with this serious subject. The Canadian press knows that Mr. Clark would die happy and immortal if he could only succeed in getting himself nominated and defeated by Mr. Taft on any issue whatever, and therefore considers his bid for fame not worth discussion. But it procures the views of The Post to be telegraphed regardless of expense, and gives prominence to The Post's assurance to Canadians that they have a grievance and cause of complaint. Because The Post dislikes Mr. Clark's sort of humor, therefore it thinks Canadians ought to resent it in a maner fit to compare with their resentment of the predatory designs of the American manufacturers' conspiracy to seduce them from their allegiance to the King by selling them goods cheaper than they could buy them elsewhere. In the words of The Post:

> Such speeches should serve to remind us that the Canadian position is imperiled owing to the systematic contravention of the Rush-Bagot treaty by the United States, which persists in maintaining a formidable fleet of armed vessels upon waters regarding which limitation of armaments was long since agreed upon.

That is truly rising to the occasion, and no American would be so discourteous as to say in the manner of British statesmen regarding Mr. Clark that it is of no particular consequence. It is most important, because The Post lugs out this scarecrow whenever any business is pending between Canada and the United States, and argues that there should be no trade or truck with a nation capable of such perfidy. It matters not that there is an excellent understanding between Washington and Ottawa regarding these same "warships," and that Canada's reasonable request has been complied with in the ordinary routine. The fact that the United States "is in position to sever the internal communications of Canada" and maintains a "standing menace to the independence of Canada" is an argument successively against the arrangement of arbitration with England, or reciprocity with Canada, or making any other neighborly bargain. Englishmen may laugh at Speaker Clark, but Americans will not laugh at The Post. They will leave that for the Canadians to do. They know their business at least as well as it is known in London.

MORE ABOUT THE CLAQUE.

Revelations published since Sunday confirm the reports of the existence of a person named Arlock, who has been a leader of an opera house claque. The tale from Philadelphia Sunday morning was doubtless received with incredulity by most operagoers, not because the quantity and quality of the applause at operatic performances do not frequently suggest the presence of hired claquers, but because the press agents of singers are known to be inventive and tireless. But the fame of singers is not likely to be increased by statements that they hire people to applaud their singing. Mme. Gerville-Reache, in a letter to The Times, and Mr. Van Hoose, one of Mr. Dippel's tenors, have since testified to the existence of Arlock and his calling.

It now appears that Arlock is so well known by all persons connected with operatic enterprise, and his activities have been so widely extended, that the trap laid for him in Philadelphia seems unaccountable. He was not "discovered" last week, nor was he then warned for the first time to keep away from the singers. Many have paid him for services of very dubious value. Now that his traffic has been publicly exposed its suppression should be a very easy matter. Bogus applause can never enhance a singer's reputation in this country; quite the reverse. There is a great deal of applause at the opera which is perfectly spontaneous and well meant, but which is nevertheless detrimental to artistic effect. Mr. Gatti-Casazza, the Director of the Metropolitan Opera, was not, it seems, aware of Arlock until Monday. Now that he knows about him, Arlock will probably find it prudent for him to seek new fields of activity so far as this city is concerned. There may be openings here for a skillful organizer of applause, with a well-trained band of hard-handed employés, but not at the opera.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Accidents Are Too Numerous.

Dr. W. T. Hornaday, who is, among many other things, a real hunter and sportsman, has, like all his class, contempt as well as anger for the men and boys who at the beginning of every "open season" for deer fill the woods with wildly flying bullets and in their reckless inexperience kill or wound about as many human beings as animals. The remedy, he says, for this evil, which is one rapidly growing and already serious, is to prohibit entirely the killing of does, to penalize heavily any hunter who fires before he has clearly seen the buck's horns, to ban the use of buckshot, and to punish accidental homicide, thus committed, by both a five-hundred-dollar fine and imprisonment for a year.

These are all sensible suggestions, and nobody fit to carry a gun through the woods and fields would object to the passage and stern enforcement of laws to make them effective. Unless something of the kind is done the increasing dissatisfaction with the protection of deer in thickly settled agricultural regions will force its abandonment, for the constantly recurring accidents lend force to the demand of the farmers, tired of having their young orchards ruined.

Yet the disappearance of the deer from all except the remote wilderness would be a cause of real regret. The harm they do is not very great, and they should be preserved as long as possible.

Why Arabs Have Been Massacred.

There is still excuse for hoping, if not very much reason for believing, that in the accounts which have filtered through the censorship on dispatches from Tripoli in regard to the treatment of the Arabs by the Italian soldiers there has been not a little of exaggeration. Correspondents familiar with what may be called the ordinary or inevitable horrors of war are fortunately not as numerous as they once were, and it is at least possible that the new men do not make sufficient allowance for the peculiar difficulties which the Italians have encountered in dealing with a foe at once fearless and fanatical, and itself by no means noted for scrupulousness in observing the restrictions and amenities of regularized warfare.

After the exercise of all one's available charity, however, and giving due weight to the Italian denials, there still remains the fact, clear and indubitable, that much killing not in actual battle has been done by the invaders, and that whatever claim Italy had at the beginning of her latest African adventure to be considered a power carrying civilization where it was needed is now much weakened.

To understand what has happened, one must remember, first of all, perhaps, that the men in conflict are widely dissimilar—that one side feels itself superior to "barbarians," the other to "infidels." It is one of the most often-repeated lessons of history that a special irritation, causing a special severity, is created when confident expectations of easy triumph are deceived and an enemy supposed to be helpless makes a desperate and effective resistance. In such cases the higher nation usually proceeds to exterminate the lower with what later is seen to be ruthless cruelty. Massacres of Indians have a place in our own annals, and would appear more frequently in them if the annals had not been a good deal expurgated.

Just how "treacherous" the Arabs have been is a matter of opinion, and others are more likely to remember than the Italians that even rigid moralists hardly demand the keeping of faith with a public enemy, particularly in resistance to invasion. Few armies would deal gently with foes who fight till they die and hardly know what the word "surrender" means. This characteristic of the Arabs has been repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches as explanatory of the Italian harshness, and it does explain to some extent why few opportunities to get rid of such foes have been neglected. The killing of women and children has unquestionably been accidental, and perhaps often the result of the Arab dress.

Conventions Injurious, Not Helpful.

New York is about the only city in the country that does not show a quivering eagerness to have as many conventions of every kind held within its limits as it can attract by promises of generous hospitality or secure by dark plottings with officials who have the power to decide the question of where a meeting of political delegates or society members shall assemble. The desire to get conventions is, of course, purely selfish, for, abstractly considered, every convention is a nuisance to any town not too large for it to make an appreciable strain upon the municipal resources, but the inconveniences of unaccustomed crowds are willingly endured, chiefly for the sake of the money that the visitors bring and spend, and a little from a belief that a town profits by the advertisement of its advantages or beauties which the strangers give it after they get home.

Among the towns that have been particularly diligent in seeking, often with success, to secure these gatherings is Rochester, this State, and it has become rather fond of calling itself "the Convention City." Its pride in this title, however, has just been denounced with severity in a public lecture by Dr. A. S. Crapsey, once an Episcopalian clergyman of much local eminence and still a man who, though now out of the fold, can still command when he speaks in Rochester the attention his ability and character deserve.

According to Dr. Crapsey, Rochester would be a better city and have a better record if it had been less successful in getting conventions. More than once, he declared, it had been "shamelessly debauched" by the demand for vicious pleasures and amusements which the presence of a throng of politicians created—a demand which the purveyors of such pleasures and amusements flocked from far to meet, and the local authorities, suspending their wonted rigors for the time, allowed these naughty ones to satisfy it.

This is a phase of the convention question that has received little or no attention in the past, so far as we can remember. Nobody who has attended a political convention can deny that there is any, or even a good deal, of basis for Dr. Crapsey's criticism. That conventions really pay, that they really help a town, is at least dubious, and still more dubious are the advantages derived from great fairs. While both serve certain private interests, not all innocent, the chances are that the higher public interests and permanent welfare are injured by both.

"RUTHLESS EXTRAVAGANCE."

Is It Not the Way of Nature and of Life?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I ask space in your paper to reply to the last paragraph of Alfred Mosely's letter to The Times. I refer to his sentence, "The ruthless extravagance that one sees all around here is perfectly appalling, and one is led to ask the question, 'What will be the end of all this, and can the present peace last?'"

I would suggest that Mr. Mosely take the opportunity to observe that there are many thousands in the City of New York alone that do not have the necessaries of life, and that extravagance of living to them is myth. The great prosperity of this country, of which he speaks, is a fact, and what appears to some people as extravagance is simply a decent standard of living for a great number of people. This is a very natural state of affairs, as we have an educated populace; and, naturally, when we know that there is more than bread and water in the world for us we demand it; we strive for it, and eventually acquire it.

A man surely is of small faith who does not understand that the scheme of things entire is a plenty for all. It has been my humble observation that a grain of wheat produces more grains than are necessary to replenish itself; that an apple tree produces more apples than are "necessary." I believe the argument may be extended, and that the present peace can last if a few greedy people who have so much would not object if the masses had a little more.

C. R. CORBIN.

New York, Nov. 6, 1911.

YOUNG MAN WHO NEVER KISSED.

He May Still Have Committed Crimes That Invite Retribution.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Amid the whirl of politics, the prosecution of the trusts, and the terror of the coming tax budget there appeared in the columns of the issue of yesterday the report of a phenomenon in a Massachusetts town. It is that of a young man of 21, to whom a watch and chain were presented on his declaration that he has never smoked, used liquor or profane language, or kissed a girl.

But are the girls to go unrewarded? Few of them indulge in the first three absurdities or have kissed a young man, although many have suffered or enjoyed such from the venturesome and successful, hence the merit of abstention belongs also to them, and they should in a body demand from the donor some recompense.

The same claim was made to the writer some forty years ago by one prodigiously noted for sinuosities of narratives—in fact, when in company with his friends and conversation flagged, he would be blithely asked to "tell a few lies" for their entertainment.

The acts which were omitted by the Massachusetts youth cannot be considered as sins, but merely errors. One guiltless of them may habitually advise his father, deposit his shoes with a crash on the hardwood floor of his bedroom when nervous ones are asleep beneath and all around. He may discharge a revolver at the midnight hour of New Years or ring cow bells on election night. In city cars he may chew gum, whistle, cross legs, yawn, put his feet on the opposite seat, and spread his newspaper in the faces of suffering humanity—all of which are crimes which incur the hatred of his fellows and invite an awful retribution in the life to come.

While abstaining himself from profanity, those annoyed by his crimes may be excused in exercise when even the modern so-called unabridged dictionaries neither contain words to describe him nor those of sufficient force to express their emotions or opinions.

DENIAL FROM MR. FROHMAN

That He Has Been Asked to Become the Head of the New Theatre.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I want to thank you for the complimentary article Monday, and editorial Tuesday, on my supposed connection with The New Theatre; but the information supplied you on the subject was inaccurate as well as unauthoritative, for it is not true. There has been no negotiation between the Directors of The New Theatre and myself on the subject of my management of the house.

I cannot feel other than gratified at the distinction which you accord me by the suggestion of my qualifications for such a post, but my activities are confined entirely to my interests in the Lyceum Theatre and my general personal theatrical work.

DANIEL FROHMAN.

REFEREE COLEMAN EXPLAINS

That Court's Refusal to Confirm His Report Was Not a Reproof.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a paragraph published in this morning's Times relative to the refusal of Mr. Justice Greenbaum to confirm a report made by me as referee in favor of the plaintiff in the divorce suit of Michel against Michel, it is possible that the language might be construed to reflect upon my conduct as referee.

That Justice Greenbaum had no such thought in mind is evidenced by the language of his decision as printed in The Law Journal of yesterday, wherein he specifically says that he does not "in any respect" reflect upon my action.

As a matter of fact, upon the reference I directed that proof of service upon the attorney for the defendant of the notice of hearing before me be filed as a part of the record, and prior to my making a report that notice of all proceedings and a copy of the testimony be sent to him, so that he might appear and cross-examine the witnesses if he so desired.

JOHN C. COLEMAN.

THE PROGRESSIVE TEACHERS.

Men and Women, Burying the Hatchet, Will Work for a Higher Equality.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial "Upside Down," touchin' on an' appertainin' to the assignment of teachers, seems to show a decidedly critical attitude toward the only really necessary profession to-day. Yesterday a real estate dealer gave vent to similar ululations in regard to our profession and the equal pay enactment.

Permit me to assure all concerned that we have only made a beginning—we now constitute a progressive profession, we know our rights and, knowing, dare maintain. We are not to be blinded, either, by the "equal" pay bill—its maximums are 'way below the maximums of the schedules it supersedes, and the men as well as the women teachers have concluded to bury the hatchet as between themselves, to the end that they will now demand the restoration of the maximums now in force as the basis of the equality to come.

The tax payers have been getting our professional services too cheap to let them appreciate their value; all the men teachers are now debating how to extend the scope of the more "efficient female of the species," i. e., the Interborough Association, and are petitioning the lady President of it to permit them to join. We may even demand the maximums with a 10 per cent. increase. What could you, O, taxpayers, do about it?

EDUCATOR.

Manhattan's Billions to Burn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The spenders and taxeaters could go a step further in the effort to give something to everybody at the cost of some other person, and by a method as simple as it is effective.

This entire gold mine known as the Island of Manhattan once sold for $24, and is now worth some billions. Just let us assess for taxation purposes at its value twenty or thirty years hence, figuring its value at the rate of increase from $24 to the present billions. The total is staggering.

There would then be billions to burn, and we could oblige the gentlemen who want "the people" entertained with moving pictures and everything else, and the others who want parks and playgrounds on alternate blocks, and schools for various kinds of numskulls and defectives just around the corner from the residences of the aforesaid incapables. Just why, in a progressive age, there should be any hesitation about spending public money according to people's need, I cannot see. If a principle is at stake, blank the taxpayer, let's go ahead.

R. P. GREEN.

More Escalators Needed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The need of escalators is an established fact, and the practicability of the present invention has been proved. It is owing to this certainty of getting manufacturers to produce this apparatus for effecting the ends desired, and the pressing need of preserving the public's energy, and the injustice of the practice in dumping the public under the ground or up in the air, whereas they are entitled to street level landing—that gave us the courage and inclination to undertake such a campaign. We knew we were right in the principles presented, hence not only hope for success, but intend to obtain it.

The Banishing of Sleep.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From the beginning of the world until the year 1911 the one unopposed monopoly of mankind has been Sleep. So that this blessing should be undisturbed, the Lord hushed the voices of all animals during the dark hours of night and man slumbered peacefully. The year 1911 marked a change. Suddenly in the dead of night a new thing came to pass over cobble pavements—the ashcart. Each night now it goes on its errand of din and racket, against all laws of nature and against all reason, disturbing sleep everywhere and doing God knows what injury to the sick.

The Monopolizers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to a communication in The Times of Nov. 4, wherein your correspondent portrays, in verse, the blessings of co-operation experienced by two hunters in primitive days:

And now, Mr. Poet, I rise for to say,
Had these same two hunters lived till our day,
They'd not have been satisfied each with one cub;
And so comes the trouble, and likewise the rub.
Imbued with our civilization and push,
They'd have gotten control of all game in the bush;
Quite likely, have wanted a tribute unfair
From other good men who would like to hunt there.
There's another side, too; in our civilized day
We are pushing and breaking down all in the way
Of straight, honest business, that's open and free,
To establish a "Live and Let Live" policy.
When God says "Let Plenty Abound on the Earth,"
How wicked to "corner" and bring on a dearth.
We are after the wicked who practice this thing,
And insist they shall feel the law's sharpest sting.
No honest man need have a fear for his skin,
Because a big rascal's been caught and "run in."
Now, who will contend that a bluecoat "makes war"
When he nabs, by the neck, a transgressor of law,
And who wouldn't fume and flare up, like a rocket,
On finding another man's hand in his pocket?

HAVANA IN, DAMAGED.

Ward Liner's Engines Broke Down, Passengers Say—To be Drydocked.

The steamship Havana of the Ward Line docked at Pier 15, East River, late last night, several hours overdue from Havana, having left there last Saturday.

According to passengers on the liner one of the engines broke down shortly after leaving port, and the vessel finished her trip to New York in a partially disabled condition. Half-way up the coast the ship, they said, was stopped for about two hours until some repairs could be made upon the engine.

Capt. Knight, commander of the Havana, denied that there had been any engine trouble on the trip, but acknowledged that his vessel would be drydocked at the Erie Basin as soon as he could discharge his cargo. He said that rough weather encountered on the last two days of the voyage had delayed his arrival. There were eighty-six passengers on board the Havana, twelve of them being Chinamen.

A Dickens Costume Ball.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In order to commemorate in a delightful and suitable manner the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens, which will occur on the 7th day of February next, might I suggest the holding of a great Dickens Costume Ball in Madison Square Garden or some other building suited to the purpose? In London such a ball is to be held in the Albert Hall, the originator of the idea and chief worker being Mrs. George Cornwallis West, an American. I would like to see the leaders of society in this country follow the excellent example set by their countrywoman and arrange such a ball in New York, for it would not only afford an immense amount of pleasure to those taking part but also help to swell the Dickens Testimonial Fund, which has been so woefully neglected over here.

A Shakespearean ball was held in London early in the year, and it was magnificent in every way. It is proposed to make the Dickens Costume Ball one of even greater novelty and beauty. The Dolly Vardens, the Little Nells, the Kate Nicklebys, the Lizzie Hexhams, the Captain Cuttles, the Mr. Pecksniffs, the David Copperfields, and the hundreds of other dear familiar characters would render the gathering the most interesting and the most wonderful ever held in New York. I trust that through the publication of this letter the idea will be taken up by those best equipped to bring it to a successful issue. As a lover of Dickens and every word he ever wrote, I should count it a privilege to assist in any way toward the success of the Dickens Costume Ball.

Joseph Barondess.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An item appeared in the Sunday Times regarding the recent appointment of Joseph Barondess as a member of the Board of Education by the Mayor. Attention was called to the fact that Mr. Barondess was convicted in 1891 in a case growing out of labor troubles. Public opinion, then, as now, has been with Mr. Barondess, whose conviction was held to be a miscarriage of justice. Such was the temper of the press and public at that time that Gov. Flower, after a thorough examination of the merits of the case and upon the recommendation of some of the foremost members of the community, pardoned Mr. Barondess two weeks after his sentence and before its actual commencement.

Many of our conservative citizens have looked upon Mr. Barondess's indictment as a martyrdom for a cause to which he has given twenty-five of his best years.

An Ill-Fed Family.

The wife of a tailor, long unemployed, has been retarding her progress in her fight against tuberculosis by denying herself food that the five children might have more. Now that her husband has found work and the 14-year-old girl her first position, their combined earnings do not cover the cost of the extra nourishment needed to make the mother's stay at the day camp mean restored health. A pension of $3 a week is necessary to give her this chance for recovery and to safeguard the health of husband and children.

The Charity Organization Society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, asks for $78 to make possible the payment of this amount during the coming Winter.

The Charity Organization Society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions received in answer to previous appeals in The Times:

"M. S.," $2; Anonymous, $5; "A. C.," $1; "J. H. Y.," $1; "M. E. H.," $1; "W. C. B.," $5; Enrique Domenech, $1; Mrs. "S. H.," $2; "H. J. H.," $10; Anonymous, $2; Gerard S. Wittson, $2; A Friend, $1; "A. B. X.," $5; in memory of "C. W. M.," $20; Anonymous, $5; "F. M. S.," $5; Mrs. George P. Slade, $10; Cash, $10; Baby Jack, $1.

Champ Clark on Annexation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If Speaker Champ Clark is correctly reported in your issue of the 3d inst. as having said at Fremont, Neb., that "nine-tenths of the peopeople of this country favor the annexation of Canada," he has assisted in setting back commercial reciprocity between this country and Canada indefinitely. It was partly the fear of annexation which caused the Canadian people to vote down reciprocity. That fear was declared groundless in your editorial articles. Yet the Speaker of the House openly expresses his desire in that very direction. Incidentally he is rash to the verge of folly in assuming, or in pretending to assume, that "nine-tenths" of the people of this country support his view.

It is just such foolish, ill-considered remarks by men in high office in this country that convey to sister nations a false impression of this country's aims. How can Champ Clark know that the people of this country desire the annexation of Canada?

Size of Army and Navy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial remarks on the army and navy are very proper and wise. Whatever army and navy we have should be kept up to the highest state of efficiency, but do you not think there is too much attention devoted to militarism in the country? Should not the strength of the army and navy be kept within strict bounds? Should not the strength of each be reduced, not enlarged? Do everything that is possible for full equipment and perfection in every way, but reduce the size.

AN AFTERMATH.

All is over but the shouting.
There is nothing more to say.
Some there were who got a clouting
At the polls on yesterday.
Though they're feeling melancholy
At the way the race was run,
They should smile and say, "By golly,
It's all right—the best team won!"

All is over but the shouting.
Some are in, and some are out.
Those who lost should not be pouting
Just 'cause they were put to rout;
Let them be good sports and take it
In a spirit of real fun.
In good nature (though they fake it)
Let them say, "The best team won!"

All is over but the shouting.
Come! Be game! Cheer up! Rejoice!
Never for an instant doubting
That the people made their choice
In a free, unfettered manner.
Thoughts of treachery now shun.
Vanquished, cheer your victor's banner,
And exclaim, "The best team won!"

POSTSCRIPT.

All is over but the shouting.
In these lines pray take no stock,
For this wheeze that I've been spouting
Is a lot of poppycock.
And my ethical suggestion,
Just 'twixt us, is very thin.
For, O losers, here's the question:
Really, DID the best team win?

DR. A. C. LAMBDIN DIES IN PHILADELPHIA

Chief Editorial Writer of The Public Ledger and Noted Music and Art Critic.

FOUGHT IN CIVIL WAR

Was One of the Editors of the Philadelphia Times During Its Entire Career—Prominent in City's Life.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Dr. Alfred Cochran Lambdin, chief editorial writer of The Public Ledger, and one of the best-known connoisseurs and authorities in music and art in Philadelphia, died suddenly this morning in the Warwick, where he had resided for the last two years. He had been indisposed for a few days, and was absent from his desk only since Friday of last week. The immediate cause of his death was an affection of the heart following a serious illness several years ago from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He died literally in harness, and up to the last moment took an active interest in public affairs, even carrying details of his work to his home.

Dr. Lambdin was born in Philadelphia Jan. 29, 1846, the son of James Reid and Mary Cochran Lambdin. His father was a well-known portrait painter and was intimately associated with the social and intellectual life of this city. Among his sitters were the foremost men of the city, State, and Nation, and from him Dr. Lambdin inherited his natural taste for art, and from him acquired that intimate knowledge of the technique of painting and that nice perception which later distinguished his work as a critic of the fine arts.

Dr. Lambdin was prepared in private schools for his career at the University of Pennsylvania, and was graduated from the Medical School in 1866. Like other patriotic Philadelphians of that time, his educational life was interrupted by the menace of Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania. Though but a boy he enlisted in one of the hastily formed regiments for the defense of the Commonwealth and saw service at the battle of Gettysburg.

After the usual period of training in hospital service Dr. Lambdin entered upon the practice of his profession in Germantown, with which suburb his early life was identified and in which he never lost interest. His literary tastes and aptitude for antiquarian research found full scope in the historic traditions clustering around that part of the city, and his studies in the history of the battle of Germantown later bore fruit in a monograph on the subject which is to-day accepted as authoritative.

But Dr. Lambdin's knowledge of Philadelphia history was not confined to Germantown. Few Philadelphians were more thoroughly saturated with the history of the city, and his recollections of details of tradition and personalities connected with Philadelphia were remarkably accurate. He knew Philadelphia and its people, its laws and the progress of its development so thoroughly that in his later work as a journalist he spoke with a force and authority that was unquestioned.

Although it was not until 1870 that Dr. Lambdin entered journalism, his natural aptitude was early demonstrated, and his first actual labor in that field was as editor of The Germantown Chronicle. In 1875, when The Philadelphia Times was started, he was enlisted as its first managing editor, and he was identified with that newspaper throughout its entire career. Directly associated with Col. McClure in the management of the paper, he was closely identified with the political and municipal life of the community, guiding and directing the paper which revolutionized journalistic methods of Philadelphia and which attained a power and influence over public affairs which has not since been exceeded.

His work was not confined, however, to politics, and his contributions to literary, artistic, and dramatic criticism gave a tone and character to The Times which is still remembered by discerning readers. His own taste was a widely cultured one, and his critiques on musical matters were universally recognized as informing and authoritative.

Dr. Lambdin remained in the service of The Times throughout its existence, and when The Times and The Public Ledger consolidated in 1902 he became associate editor of The Public Ledger, succeeding to the post of chief editorial writer on the death of L. Clarke Davis on Dec. 14, 1904. Since that date his editorial service was interrupted only by a Summer visit to Europe. His varied and onerous duties as editor and critic did not prevent his taking an active part in the social, educational, and artistic movements of the day. He was a member of the Musical Fund Society, one of the first members of the Art Club, and founder and President of the Nameless Club, a dining organization within the membership of the Art Club; a member of the Penn Club and of the Franklin Inn Club; a Trustee of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art; a Trustee of the Forrest Home, and one of the founders and Vice President of the Musical Art Club.

Dr. Lambdin married in 1872 Katharine L. McIlvaine, who survives him, together with one son, John Oldmixon Lambdin. Dr. Lambdin was a life-long member of the Episcopal Church, for many years a communicant and vestryman of St. Clement's Church, at Twentieth and Cherry Streets. His body was transferred to the crypt of that church to-night, and will be buried on Thursday in the cemetery connected with St. Luke's Church, Germantown.

Julia Marlowe Pays Tribute.

Miss Julia Marlowe, the actress, paid this tribute to Dr. Lambdin:

"The death of Dr. Lambdin comes to me as a great personal loss. He was a kind, courteous, scholarly gentleman. I have no fitting words to express the gratitude I have long felt for the encouragement he gave me during the early beginnings of my stage career. During the second month of my first season as Parthenia in 'Ingomar,' the better-class theatres of Philadelphia not being open to me, I appeared at Hermann's Theatre. We opened to $60 and after the performance Dr. Lambdin, George W. Childs, and Col. A. K. McClure came behind the scenes to offer their encouragement and appreciation.

"I recall that Dr. Lambdin said to me: 'Don't worry, Miss Marlowe, before the week is out the theatre will not be able to hold the crowds.' Singularly enough, Dr. Lambdin was right. Such encouraging words as these, spoken at such a critical time in one's career, can never be forgotten. During the years that have followed Dr. Lambdin had never ceased in his kindly offices. When such friends are taken out of our lives, it is too much to expect that we should be able to voice the hurt that we feel."

Mrs. Albert H. Chaffee's Art Talks.

Mrs. Albert H. Chaffee will start her fifth annual series of Wednesday morning art talks this morning at 11 o'clock at her studio, 6 East Thirty-seventh Street. The subject of the first lecture is to be "Costume in Art." The lectures are to be illustrated with the stereopticon.

MME. GADSKI'S RECITAL.

Sings at Carnegie Hall Before a Large Audience.

Mme. Gadski appeared in what may be regarded as her annual song recital yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. The auditorium was crowded with the soprano's friends and admirers, and so many numbers were repeated and so many added that the original programme was almost doubled in length. The stage was banked with palms, and later, when the ushers had brought up bundle after bundle of chrysanthemums and other Autumn blooms, it suggested that Mme. Gadski was going to sing "Im Treibhaus," which, it may be added, she sings extremely well, a fact which yesterday's audience had no means of judging.

The programme in its make-up was rather unusual, and somewhat monotonous. Instead of the classic group which ordinarily opens a song recital Mme. Gadski elected to sing modern songs with a touch of Liszt, and Mendelssohn for a recall number. The middle group was orthodox, being composed of the romantics, Schubert, Schumann, and the later Brahms. The final group was again modern, and with the exception of the first number, Jensen's "Murmelndes Lüftchen," was sung entirely in English.

The heighth of artistic enjoyment in the concert was reached early in the afternoon with MacDowell's "Midsummer Lullaby." Mme. Gadski did not sing anything else better during the course of the concert. She did not, in fact, sing anything else so well. Her dreamy half-voice interpretation of this lyric was really exquisite and quite in the proper mood. Kurt Schindler's "Frühlingslied," which followed, had an interesting melodic line, and was repeated. The third number was a composition by Edwin Schneider, the accompanist, and proved to be conventional and not of any great value.

Liszt's "Loreley" and Jugendglück" closed the group, but when recalled Mme. Gadski added Mendelssohn's "Auf Flügeln des Gesanges."

The songs of Schubert in the second group were "Nacht und Träume" and the familiar "Haiden Röslein"; of Schumann, "Meine Rose" and "Schneeglöcklein," which had to be repeated. Brahms contributed four songs—the "Mädchenlied," "Das Mädchen Spricht," "Auf Dem Kirchhof," which the soprano sang very beautifully, and "Frühlingstrost." Two extra numbers were added to this group.

The songs in the final set were almost all trivial. Jensen's beautiful "Murmelndes Lüftchen" was an exception, but this was interrupted by a loud burst of applause quite in the middle. Alvin S. Wiggers's "Meine Liebe" and Leo Smith's "A Laughing Song" were not very stern stuff. Mary Turner Salter's "Last Night I Heard the Nightingale" was repeated and so was d'Albert's "The Maiden and the Butterfly." The last song of the printed programme, "Love Is the Wind," disclosed the loveliness of the singer's low voice.

Afterward there was the usual rush to the platform and demands for more appearances. Mme. Gadski added "Der Erlkönig," "Hark, Hark, the Lark!" "The Year's at the Spring," and the "Walküre" call; probably several others.

The singer was in splendid voice, and save for occasional slips of intonation, she sang with beauty of tone. Her purpose is evidently so serious that it is difficult to quarrel with her about her interpretations, and yet more variety of style, more color in her voice, would add greatly to the effect of her singing.

Motion Pictures of Raising the Maine.

Mayor Gaynor, Admiral Lutz, Gen. Grant, and other prominent officials who composed the committee for the raising of the Maine have been invited to witness the first motion-picture production showing the progress in lifting the sunken battleship, to be exhibited at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre this morning at 10:30 o'clock. The pictures, to be shown in two reels, are the result of nine months' tedious work, and they will be shown first, according to the agreement between the Government and the motion-picture company, to the members of the committee which prosecuted the work of raising the Maine.

George Arliss Gives a Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Arliss gave a supper last night at Martin's to Lewis Waller, now playing in "The Garden of Allah;" Louis N. Parker, the author of "Disraeli;" Mary Mannering, and Annie Russell. Mr. Parker, it was said later, announced his intention during the course of the dinner of writing another play in which George Arliss would have the leading rôle.

PROF. JOHN MEIGS DEAD.

Principal of the Hill School Was a Prominent Educator.

John Meigs, Principal of The Hill School, Pottstown, Penn., one of the leading preparatory schools, died of heart disease Monday night, at Pottstown. He was born Aug. 31, 1852, the son of the Rev. Matthew Meigs and May Gould Meigs. He was a graduate of Lafayette College, in the class of 1870, and was a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity. He received the honorary degree of Ph. D. from Lafayette and M. A. from Yale.

In 1882 Prof. Meigs was married to Miss Marion Butler, the daughter of Cyrus Butler of New York. His wife, one son, and two daughters survive him; also two sisters, Mrs. H. P. Hitner and Miss Elizabeth Meigs, and a brother, H. T. L. Meigs.

Immediately upon graduation, Prof. Meigs became an instructor at Lafayette. Very soon thereafter he took charge of The Hill School. This institution had been established in 1851 by Prof. Meigs's father, formerly President of Delaware College, and at this time was a small boarding school with ten pupils. From this modest beginning the school, under his leadership, grew steadily.

John Meigs was among the foremost educators of his time, along the more conservative lines of mental discipline and exact scholarship.

In his own way he was the same kind of master of boys that Arnold of Rugby was. Dr. Meigs had the boys' point of view, saw life as they saw it, and shared their feelings about it, and at the same time was looked up to by them with a reverence that made loyalty to him and obedience of him easy and natural to them.

N. Y. U.'S DEFENSE CHECKS TRINITY

Hartford Eleven Speedy, but Neither Team Is Able to Score on Ohio Field.

The New York University football team battled desperately with Trinity College of Hartford at Ohio Field yesterday, and after nearly an hour of play neither team was able to cross the other's goal line, and the contest resulted in a 0 to 0 tie. The stubborn defense of New York against the fast, open play of Trinity saved the New York University from defeat. Trinity had several fine chances to score, but each time when the New Yorkers confronted the Hartford collegians on their five-yard line the purple line of forwards banded together compactly and pushed back the Trinity backs as they hurled themselves into the breach.

It was a good game to watch and a large gathering of New York and Trinity followers witnessed the struggle. A number of undergraduates from Trinity were there with the New York alumni of the institution, augmented by groups of pretty girls from Hartford who cheered and yelled with the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors every time a Trinity man broke away with the ball. The visitors were in the minority, but they displayed plenty of enthusiasm and confidence in the team they were cheering.

The whole student body of the New York University turned out to support the team and expected it to win. Of course, after all their loud cheering and encouragement, it was somewhat disappointing because the New York eleven did not win, nevertheless, the crowd was with the team until the very last, waiting patiently and sometimes breathlessly for some New York University player to break through and dispel the deadlock with a dazzling run. But the Trinity players were too alert and active to allow the New York players to threaten their goal line. Each team got within striking distance of the other's goal line, and yet, when a goal from placement or a field goal would have won the game these measures were not resorted to. Both quarter backs seemed to have the idea that the backs could plow through with straight football tactics, but this proved to be poor calculation. At the threshold of its goal, the New York University's defense was magnificent. The line of forwards charged in unison and drove back the Trinity players when victory seemed within their grasp. New York's defense was much better than their attack, and they held the Trinity rushes back at crucial moments, but when they had the ball themselves, trending toward the Trinity goal line, they found the defense stubborn and stiff and couldn't break through.

Moore at right half back played a great game for the New York University. In the fourth period of the game he tore through the Trinity line for gains of 10 and 15 yards at a rush, and the Trinity tacklers seemed unable to stop him. Moore was used in play after play in this session of the game until he was almost completely worn out and his dives into the Trinity line came to a sudden stop.

Cook of Trinity outpunted Cumfort of the New York University at almost every kick. Capt. Brennan of the New Yorkers, who played at full back and does the kicking, was out of the game because of injuries received in the Yale game. As a kicker, Cumfort could not measure up to Brennan, and some of his kicks were feeble efforts of not more than 15 or 20 yards.

The game was exciting and interesting because both elevens resorted to the forward pass and on-side kick often, which gave an element of open play uncertainty to the game. Both teams were well drilled in the forward pass, but in most cases the throw was intercepted by the forwards of each team. They were on watch for just such a play, and almost every time it was used some one would break through and smear the play.

Kinney of the Trinity team is a player skilled in the kick from placement and has turned the trick in games this season, while Moore is uncommonly clever at drop kicking, and yet when the opportunity arose for either of these players to win the game by taking a long chance with the toe of their shoes not an attempt was made. Within reach of each other's goal line both teams resorted to old fashioned football tactics, which invariably failed.

In the first period Cook of Trinity kicked off to Moore, who by a dodging run brought the ball in fifteen yards before he was downed. Attempts to penetrate the Trinity line failed and Cumfort punted to Cook, who was downed in his tracks. Collett then tried to skirt the N. Y. U. end, but was forced out of bounds. Cook kicked from his own 20-yard line and Elliffe ran the ball in 10 yards. Moore, attempting to get around Ahearn's end, was thrown for a loss. Nixon tossed off a forward pass, which was uncompleted and Cumfort punted. Cook of Trinity soon returned the kick when he saw that he could not gain through the enemy's line.

Elliffe tried a forward pass, but Cook jumped up and knocked the ball down, and on the next play he broke away for a 15-yard run. Trinity was penalized five yards and finally lost the ball on downs. Moore and Elliffe got away for good gains and then Moore's forward pass failed. For Trinity, Hudson, Lawlor, and Capt. Howell advanced the ball about 20 yards when time was called for the first period.

At the start of the second period, N. Y. U. put up a stubborn defense and repelled the Trinity back field. The Hartford collegians were held for downs and Moore and Veseley again tried their line plunging plays, but were unable to gain. In this period Cumfort was outpunted by Cook and N. Y. U. fared badly in the exchange of kicks. In this period Trinity got off one fine forward pass, Cook to Ahern, which netted 15 yards. It was Trinity's ball on the 25-yard line when the first half ended.

Between the halves a new American flag, presented by Dr. John P. Munn, President of the N. Y. U. Athletic Association, was hoisted to the flag pole, while the student body danced on the gridiron and sang "Pallisades" and other N. Y. U. songs. Trinity rushed the ball perilously close to the N. Y. U. line in the third period, planting the oval on the five-yard line where N. Y. U. braced gallantly and held for downs. The playing in the fourth period alternated from one territory to the other, with neither team ever coming close to scoring. The elevens were very evenly matched and on straight football there was little choice between them. The line-up:

| N. Y. U. | Position. | Trinity. |
| Dutcher | left end | Ahern |

TOM SHEVLIN AT YALE.

Former Captain Comes with New Plays to Work Out Against Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—Head Coach Johnny Field is sliding the Yale football eleven gradually down into the strenuous scrimmaging that precedes the Brown game of next Saturday. To-day's work was snappy, but short, only thirty minutes' scrimmaging being ordered and several regulars being kept from the line-up because they are slow to round into condition from Saturday's game with New York University. Ed Freeman and Pete Francis were on the field, but did not play. Francis twisted his ankle during Saturday's game and will be used little this week.

Stellar scoring results were to-day obtained from the new formation for the first time this season. Five scores were whizzed past the scrubs, the largest total of any afternoon this season. As the scrubs included such actual 'Varsity material as Cooney, Childs, and Warren, they presented a stubborn proposition, but the 'Varsity found them easy to-day.

Capt. Howe kicked two of his prettiest field goals and Spalding, Camp, and Howe crossed the line with a touchdown each.

Ex-Capt. Tom Shevlin received an ovation as he reached the field from Minneapolis just in time for the afternoon practice. Shevlin watched the drill, assisted Brooks, coach of the ends, and laid before the coaches some novel formations. He will remain all the season. Few of his plays will be used against Brown Saturday, but they will be mastered before Princeton comes here next Saturday a week. Ex-Capt. Ray Bigelow, "Bo" Elliott, the New York University coach; Walter Camp, Sr., Foster Sanford, and ex-Head Coach Howard Jones joined the coaching squad to-day.

CORNELL IS IMPROVING.

Ithacans Expected to Show Good Form Against Michigan on Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Dan Reed got back to town this forenoon to resume charge of the Cornell football squad and a strenuous dummy scrimmage for the game with Michigan resulted. On the whole Cornell 'Varsity gave a good exhibition, showing up better than in the Williams game and indicating that they should be in good form against Michigan on Saturday.

In spite of the wet grounds and the rain a large number of forward pass plays and on-side kicks were tried, and though they did not make very great gains, they did on the whole work better than before. Butler, who again piloted the team, was instructed to use a number of old plays. Whyte was given first chance at right half back, and he proved he was a more consistent man than Hawkins who succeeded him. Whyte has been plugging along gradually for the two seasons, and his persistent work is bringing the rewards now. He is not a showy player, but follows his interference well and is quick to get off. His gains are more consistent than Hawkins. The latter made several big runs to-day, but later fell down in his work, proving the contention that he could not average as well as Whyte.

Cornell's first half back selections now are O'Connor, who played his usual good game this afternoon, and Whyte. Underhill was at full back and his backing up the line was excellent. He also proved a good man in the interference. In the absence of Frank O'Rourke, Delano played right guard, but the rest of the line was regular.

That Michigan is much interested in the coming game was proved by a request from Ann Arbor to-day for 500 seats for Saturday's contest. The Westerners will come in special trains.

CAPT. FISHER SHIFTED.

Harvard Leader Takes Gardiner's Position at Right Tackle.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 7.—Several important changes in the line-up of Harvard's 'Varsity football eleven were noted when the team was put through scrimmage to-day. Capt. Bob Fisher was moved from right guard to right tackle to fill the gap left by the injury last Saturday to Tudor Gardiner. Capt. Fisher's place was taken by Keays. Willett was tried out at full back with Huntington.

Practice to-day was of a simple order. A blackboard talk preceded a light scrimmage. The squad was then taken to the baseball cage where several trick plays were practiced.

One of the Harvard coaches said to-day that it is the intention of Head Coach Haughton to start a second team in the game with the Carlisle Indians next Saturday. First string players will be called upon if necessary.

Fast Youngsters on Navy Team.

Special to The New York Times

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 7.—Leonard and Nichols, the fast youngsters who have been showing up so well during the past ten days, were in the Navy back field again this afternoon, with Dalton and McReavey, Rodes and Sowell, who have been playing at full back and quarter back regularly, being kept on the side lines during the whole of the forty minute scrimmage. There were no other changes in the line-up except that Ingram took the place of Weems, who cut his head slightly yesterday, and Overesch, a strong and promising fourth class man, went in the place of Hamilton at left end during the latter part of the practice. The regulars scored two touchdowns against a strong and spirited scrub. Dalton carried the ball over once, and Gilchrist, who recovered a fumble, got the credit for the second touchdown. Weymouth, the old Yale back, came to Annapolis to-day, and will help the Navy team for the remainder of the week at least.

MORRIS HIGH SCHOOL SPRINGS SURPRISE

Bronx Lads Hold Commerce Eleven to 17 Points and Score 6 Themselves.

Morris High gave the High School of Commerce a double surprise at American League Park yesterday afternoon, the first consisting of a touchdown near the middle of the first period, and the other being the small score. It was generally predicted by close followers of scholastic football that the speedy Commerce eleven would run up at least four touchdowns on the Morris team, possibly six or seven. Only three, however, were made by Commerce, and two goals were kicked, Commerce winning 17 to 6.

Morris was considerably outweighed and was kept on the defensive practically all the time. The Morris back field could do nothing with the Commerce line, and throughout the game it was the same old story of two unsuccessful attempts to break through the line or skirt the ends, then a kick by Vigdor. To the trusty foot of the big right end belongs most of the credit for holding Commerce down to three touchdowns. Time after time he had to take poor passes, and often it seemed that he had to kick the ball between opponents near enough to reach out and block the punt, but he never failed. From behind his own goal line or within the shadows of the goal posts he displayed the same coolness in getting away his kicks, and these punts were marked alike by distance and accuracy. The majority of them hit the ground out of reach of the Commerce backs, and thus gave the Morris ends more time to get their man. Vigdor played a splendid game on the defense as well as the attack and was easily the star of the Morris line-up. Reifsnyder and Amaducci also played a strong game for Morris.

Reifsnyder was badly injured about the middle of the last period while making a tackle, which brought Tow to earth after a run of thirty yards. He received a terrific blow on the nose and was carried from the field with blood flowing from both his nose and mouth. He received a bad fracture of the nose and was otherwise bruised and badly shaken up. He was later removed to the Washington Heights Hospital for treatment and then taken to his home.

The Commerce back field found little resistance in the Morris line, and gains of from 7 to 15 yards were very frequent. The bright stars of the Commerce team were Tow and Blodgett, the former doing the most spectacular running with the ball, and the line shining in line bucks and in punting. Tow gained about as much ground during the game as the other three members of the back field combined.

The prettiest play of the game was a forward pass by Siff and Wigdor in the third period, which netted 35 yards. Holding by Morris, however, was responsible for a penalty, and the ball was brought back from midfield, where it had been carried on the pass and put on Morris's 10-yard line, because of the penalty. Wigdor then had to punt from behind his goal line and against the wind. It was a good kick, but the ball was run back soon for Commerce's second touchdown. It was a costly penalty for Morris, and it made the touchdown possible.

Morris's only score came in the first period after nine minutes of play. Strachner intercepted a forward pass on his own 35-yard line and ran 75 yards for a touchdown. Wigdor kicked the goal.

Commerce completely outplayed Morris in the second period, and rushing tactics soon brought the ball to the goal line. Blodgett fumbled the ball as he went over the line, but Freer recovered it for a touchdown. Blodgett kicked the goal. Two more touchdowns were added in the third period, the first coming after the penalty on the forward pass, and the other on rushing tactics. Tow got the last touchdown and Blodgett kicked the goal.

Neither team scored in the last period. Blodgett twice tried for field goals and failed each time. At one stage Morris took the ball away from Commerce on the 3-yard line. The line-up:

| Commerce. | Position. | Morris. |
|---|---|---|
| Waldman | Left end | Reifsnyder |
| Chalaire | Left tackle | Greenbaum |
| Barton | Left guard | Brady |
| Strong | Centre | Aberg |
| Fleming | Right guard | Amaducci |
| Cohen | Right tackle | Steinbach |
| Kear | Right end | Vigdor |
| Tow | Quarter back | Sherr |
| Freer | Left half back | Strachner |
| Blodgett | Right half back | Siff |
| Blenio | Full back | Hugginwig |

Touchdowns—Freer, Blodgett, Tow, Strachner. Goals from touchdowns—Blodgett, (2,) Wigdor. Substitution—Skoulchi for Reifsnyder. Referee—Mr. Farrier, Dartmouth. Umpire—Mr. McElroy, New York University. Field judge Mr. Hennessey, Brown. Head linesman—Dr. Newton, College of the City of New York. Time of periods—Fifteen minutes.

Fordham Prep. Wins, 33 to 0.

The crack Fordham Prep. eleven kept up its winning streak yesterday by defeating the Mount Vernon High School eleven at Pastime Field in Mount Vernon, before a large crowd of rooters, by the score of 33 to 0. The line-up:

| Fordham Prep. | Position. | Mt. Vernon H. |
|---|---|---|
| Viviano | Left end | Tynan |
| O'Brien | Left tackle | G. Cathcart |
| Scott | Left guard | Hoffman |
| Simonetti | Centre | Herdtman |
| Kane | Right guard | Bradbeer |
| Scully | Right tackle | Pines |
| Mahoney | Right end | Theal |
| Schaffmeister | Quarter back | Parker |
| Hinchliffe | Left half back | R. Cathcart |

Touchdowns—Mahoney, McNally, Schaffmeister, Robinson, Viviano. Goals from touchdowns—Schaffmeister, Viviano. Goals from field—Schaffmeister, 2. Referee—Mr. Raymond, Mount Vernon High School. Umpire—Mr. Kennedy, Fordham University. Time of periods—Ten minutes.

Army Scores on the Scrubs.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—With the field still wet and sloppy from yesterday's rain the cadets held their first practice of the week and the first team scored one touchdown. The linemen were given individual instruction in breaking through, and this was continued when the scrimmage began. With Pritchard doing the kicking, the Army forwards seemed to have benefited by the instruction, for they broke through several times and blocked the scrubs' kicks. The first team score came by Hoge blocking Pritchard's attempt to punt out from behind the goal line. Twice the scrubs got to the 'Varsity 25-yard line, but Weyand got through and blocked his attempt at drop kicking. Arnold did not get into the scrimmage to-day and Purnell played guard. Devore is still in the hospital squad and limps around with the aid of a cane, but it is said he will be around again the early part of next week. Benedict also has not reported since his injury in the Lehigh game.

NO SCORE IN THIS GAME.

De Witt Clinton and Commercial High in a Drawn Battle.

De Witt Clinton High School outplayed Commercial High School in football yesterday afternoon on the latter's field in Brooklyn, but the Red and Black could not score. Commercial was fortunate in getting away with a scoreless game, but they fought Clinton hard to save themselves from defeat.

The strong point of the Clinton eleven was in her impenetrable defense, but on the offensive, where they should have been strongest, they seemed to fall down at crucial moments. Onley and Hughes, both of whom played stellar games for Commercial, were mainly responsible for holding back the New Yorkers, and by outpunting Davis saved the game many times.

A touchdown for Clinton seemed inevitable in the second period. Davis kicked to the eleven-yard line, and Geller then made two yards through the line. Moore followed up with three more yards, and the Clinton contingent were just preparing to cheer the touchdown expected to be made in the next play when the New Yorkers were suddenly penalized ten yards because of coaching from the side lines. This changed matters, and Davis then had to try for a field goal, which was blocked by Dutemple, and the ball brought into Commercial's hands. Onley then punted out of danger.

The Commercial team never had a good chance to score. At one time they brought the ball down as far as the twenty-yard line, but here they ran up against the impregnable defense of Clinton, and lost on downs. In the fourth period Commercial held the Manhattan eleven for downs on the latter's twenty-yard line. The line-up:

| Commercial | Position. | Clinton |
| Dutemple | Left end | Tillotson |
| Lucke | Left tackle | White |
| Anderson | Left guard | Geller |
| Van Camp | Centre | Greenberg |
| Garcia | Right guard | McKay |
| Willison | Right tackle | Davis |
| Matthews | Right end | Zinn |
| Hughes | Quarter back | Newman |
| Onley | Left half back | Rozelle |
| Crawford | Right half back | Harris |
| McCrane | Full back | Moore |

ERASMUS NOSES OUT VICTORY

Boys' High Beaten by 5 to 0 Score After a Hard Struggle.

A well earned victory was wrested from Boys' High by the Erasmus Hall football eleven in the game at Saratoga Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 0. Erasmus found their opponents unexpectedly strong, but they were equal to the task set for them and started out in the first period to clinch the victory.

After an exchange of punts early in the first period, between Weber and Conroy, McGirney got the ball on Boys' High 35-yard line. A forward pass, Weber to Breilly then took the ball to the 10-yard line, where Breilly was dropped by McChesney. Brush was next sent through left tackle to the 8-yard line. On a delayed forward pass in the next play, Brush fumbled the ball, but recovered it again on the 8-yard line. When this near the goal line, Erasmus lost the pig skin to Boys' High on downs and it looked then as though Erasmus would lose all that they had gained. But on Conroy's kick out to the 30-yard line, McGirney got the ball and in the next play by a splendid forward pass from Weber to Breilly, Erasmus again got the ball on Boys' High's 11-yard line. Another forward pass from Weber to Brush gave Erasmus their touchdown. Although greater crowds attended other of the schoolboy games on yesterday's schedule, this game was the most important and interesting so far as actual football was concerned. Both elevens are playing high calibre ball and much depended on the outcome of the struggle. In the playing of the teams there was a combination of old and new football, which for schoolboy playing was exceptionally good and the game was watched closely in this respect by the followers of other of the schoolboy teams.

Erasmus tried to forward pass four times in the first period and missed but one. In the second period they tried it three times and were successful twice; in the third period they successfully executed in three times out of four attempts, and in the fourth they tried it twice and succeeded once. Boys' High on the other hand tried but four times on the first three periods to work. The pass and all of their attempts failed. In the fourth period three were tried by them and but one, Stieglitz to Conroy, succeeded. Line-up:

| Brielly | Left end | Strasser |
| Byrnes | Left tackle | Healy |
| Palmer | Left guard | Conroy |
| Halstead | Centre | Ebel |
| Brew | Right guard | Squillase |
| Collins | Right tackle | Rothman |
| Sacks | Right end | Carruthers |
| Weber | Quarter back | Tiffany |
| Brush | Left half | Stieglitz |
| McGivney | Right half | McChesney |
| Kephart | Full back | Hollman |

Touchdown—Brush. Substitutes—Mathews for Brush, Rappaport for Carruthers, Accuroso for Strasser, Campazzi for McChesney, Roth for Weber, Weber for Roth. Referee—Ed Thorpe, De La Salle. Umpire—E. Fitzpatrick, Fordham College. Field Judge—Mr. Valentine, New York University. Linesmen—Gene Kelly, Boys' High, and George McNulty, Erasmus. Time of Periods—Twelve minutes.

Player Dead with Broken Back.

FAIRMOUNT, Ind., Nov. 7.—Fairmount Academy, a school conducted here by the Friends' Church, to-day decided to abandon football for the remainder of the season, following the death of Bruce Adams, whose back was broken in a game at Alexandria, Ind., last Sunday. Adams was a star player when he attended school here and regrets over his death caused the academy's action.

Yonkers and Stuyvesant Tied.

The Yonkers High School football team played the Stuyvesant High School on Crotona Field yesterday to a tie, the score being 5 to 5.

PRINCETON ELEVEN BEGINS WORK AGAIN

General Instruction in Technical Plays—Men All in Good Shape.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—Returning from Atlantic City at an early hour this morning, the Princeton football men were put at work about 2 o'clock this afternoon, and they continued the drill at Osborne Field until after 5 o'clock. There was no scrimmage work, but a long and somewhat tedious analysis of plays and individual work kept the men on the jump throughout the practice. With the exception of Tom Wilson, all the 'Varsity men were back in the line-up this afternaan, and from the way they pranced around the gridiron there was no doubt that they are in good shape. Wilson is by no means incapacitated, and will be in the line against Dartmouth on Saturday.

Three sets of backs received some close attention to-day. Pendleton, Vaughan, Dewitt, and Chrystie were the first string; Baker, Andrews, Sawyer, and Penfield the second, and the scrub backs made up the third quartet. After a long drill in forming interference, these men were rushed through an assortment of plays at top speed. The line men, meanwhile, were being drilled by MacGregor at the other end of the field.

T. N. Pfeiffer, '09, former half back with the Tigers, and last year a member of the Harvard Law School eleven, was at the field to-day, with some snappy tricks up his sleeve. He can only remain in Princeton a few days, but the players should benefit by his suggestions. He played against the best college elevens in the country in the past two years, and he reached Princeton at a time when his advice may prove helpful.

There was an hour's practice in catching punts for the back field men this afternoon, and some of them gobbled them up in great shape, fumbles being the exception. Dewitt did most of the punting, averaging forty yards, but McCormick, Andrews, and Penfield were also given some work in that department. Following this preliminary work came the signal work, with all kinds of formations being tried. The forward pass met with little success, but a number of onside kicks, covering about twenty-five yards, were worked with good success.

From present indications both Wight and Farr will not participate in the Dartmouth game. The former has not appeared in togs since his injury in the Holy Cross game, and would hardly be trained up to the work of a game in case his knee should improve. Farr is still on crutches, and may not even be ready for the Elis.

MANUAL, 0; POLY PREP, 0.

Brooklyn Schoolboys in Scoreless Battle at Washington Park.

Fighting for every inch of ground, Manual Training School held the Poly Prep eleven to a no-score game yesterday afternoon at Washington Park, Brooklyn. Poly had been the favorite, and had the advantage of weight over the Manual lads, but when it came to making good there touted powers they fell helpless against the hard holding Manual eleven, and were in turn outplayed when the Orange and Blue resorted to open football.

Fully 5,000 fans turned out to witness this annual gridiron battle between the rival teams, and the gathering of gaily flowered girls and decorated motor cars fairly rivaled a college football gathering. The Poly Prep contingent remained quiet throughout the contest, but Manual made up for the loss of volume of noise thus occasioned, and their cheering section kept up a steady round of school yells.

The forward pass was Manual's weapon, and they used it to good advantage in eating up the yards across the field. But after getting the pigskin down repeatedly around Poly's twenty-five-yard and once to their eight-yard-line either they would fumble at the crucial moment or else resort to ineffectual tries for a goal from field. In one forward pass, Lente to Seaver in the third period, Seaver brought the ball down into Poly's territory for a thirty-yard gain, and several times made ten to twenty yards on a successful pass.

In contrast to this effectual open playing, Poly failed to negotiate a single complete pass. Both teams fumbled frequently for disastrous losses, and here the flukes rested about even between the two. The Poly eleven depended mainly on line gains, and had counted on weak spots in the manual line, which did not show up. At one time in the third period the Manual boys held Poly for downs on Poly's twenty-yard line, and nearly won the game when Dingwall's try for a goal from field after a five-yard loss veered six inches to the left of the post.

Neither eleven got the ball nearer than the eight-yard-line, and the game developed into a kicking contest, with many tries for field goals. Dingwall did some good punting, and was pitted against Kleinart and Du Tremblay, two good schoolboy punters, but he managed to hold his own. Kleinart was carried from the field in the second period, but got back into the game in the third period. The line-up:

| Poly Prep. | Position. | Manuel. |
| Gleason | Left end | Quinn |
| Nostrand | Left tackle | Esseltyn |
| Ganzmuller | Left guard | Dingwall |
| Neurohr | Centre | Cook |
| Mendez | Right guard | Higgins |
| Norris | Right tackle | Hart |
| Grossbeck | Right end | Formossa |
| Du Tremblay | Quarterback | Zeltz |
| Wulfing | Left half back | Harmon, (Capt.) |
| Kleinart | Right half back | Lente |

CRESCENTS SCORE SHUTOUT.

Montclair Field Club Soccer Team Defeated on Home Grounds.

In the Field Club Soccer League of New York and New Jersey series the champion Crescents administered defeat to the Montclair Field Club at Montclair by the score of 2 goals to 0. The game was fast throughout, and at half time the score stood in the Brooklynites' favor 1 to 0. The Crescents were handicapped by playing only ten men, and in consequence Harland at outside right had to perform the work usually allotted to two players. This did not bother him any, as he scored the half-mooners' first goal from the half-way line after receiving from Humphries.

In the second period the Crescents kept up their assault upon the Jerseymen's net, and Barret scored the second and final goal, Phillips passing the ball to him. Cyplot in goal for the winners played a great game and pulled the game out of danger in several instances. Gilbertson and Winpenny excelled for the Montclairs. The line-up:

| Crescent. | Position. | Montclair. |
|---|---|---|
| Cyplot | Goal | Mullin |
| Jackson | Right back | Williams |
| McClelland | Left back | Ractzer |
| Andrews | Right half | Winpenny |
| Humphries | Centre half | Gardnier |
| Salter | Left half | Gilbertson |
| Harland | Outside right | Wollman |
| ——— | Inside right | Patterson |
| Jennings | Centre | Parry |

Referee—Mr. Moore. Linesmen—Messrs. Jeffers and Dunn. Goals—Harland and Barret, for Crescent. Time—Halves of forty minutes each.

By a score of 5 goals to 0 the Brooklyn F. C. defeated the Bronx United eleven at Marquette Oval, Brooklyn, yesterday. At the end of play in the first period, Brooklyn led by 2 to 0. Van der Weghe scored both goals. After resumption of play the Brooklyns again had things all their own way, and Van der Weghe added another tally. Taylor contributed 2 goals in this period, the ball being passed from Stiles on both occasions.

The Bensonhurst Football Club went down to defeat at the hands of the Staten Island F. C. at Ulmer Park yesterday by the score of 10 goals to 0. C. E. Dwyer, last year's soccer captain, of Columbia University, was the star player for the Staten Islanders, scoring half of their goals, three of which he contributed in the first half. McWhinney, at inside right, secured three, while Kaufman and Nicholl each added one goal. Van der Zee, Van Laar, and Smith put up a good defense for the winners.

Tie in Soccer Game.

At Marquette Oval, Brooklyn, yesterday, the Central Y. M. C. A. soccer team played the second eleven of the Brooklyn F. C. in a preliminary game to the Brooklyn-Bronx, and the contest ended in a tie, the score being three goals each. Out of six starts this season the Y. M. C. A. team has three tie games on its list, the other games resulting in victories. The line-up:

| Y. M. C. A. | Position. | Brooklyn. |
|---|---|---|
| Barclay | Goal | Gilmore |
| Hunter | Right back | Van der Weghe |
| Allen | Right half | Granger |
| Kerr | Centre half | Opperman |
| De Baun | Left half | Ramsay |
| Darlington | Outside right | H. Owens |
| Brown | Inside right | Watts |
| Danielson | Centre | Taylor |

Referee—W. Williams. Linesmen—W. Owens and Mr. Burnie. Goals—Darlington (2) and Danielson, for Central Y. M. C. A.; Myer, Watts, and H. Owens, for Brooklyn Seconds. Time—Halves of thirty-five minutes each.

Curtis Teams Win at Soccer.

The Curtis High School soccer football team defeated Morris High School in a close and exciting game yesterday afternoon on the Curtis High School field at Staten Island, by the score of 2 goals to 1. Both teams displayed excellent form and put up a very interesting game. Doyle, playing centre forward for the winning eleven, tallied one of the goals for the Curtis High School team, and Halama, at outside right, scored the other goal. The goal for the Morris High School eleven was scored by Cullin, who plays centre forward.

In a preliminary game to the Curtis-Morris contest the All-Star team of the Curtis High School defeated the Clifton Academy eleven by the score of 5 goals to 0.

NEW MOTOR CYCLE MARK FOR CONSTANT

Daring Rider Pilots Machine Over Guttenberg Mile Course in 0:55 3-5.

Two new records were established at the motor cycle race meet at the Guttenberg Motordrome in Guttenberg, N. J., yesterday, under the auspices of the Metropolitan Motor Racing Association. J. U. Constant, the ten-mile amateur champion, shattered the records for the one and five mile marks. In a special time trial against the track record for a mile of 56 seconds, established by Walter Goerke last season, Constant rode with daring that thrilled the spectators and resulted in his bettering Goerke's mark by two-fifths of a second.

In the first event of the day, a five-mile trade riders' miss and out, from a flying start, Constant led the way throughout, though at times he was pressed closely by Mike Costello, and covered the distance in 4 minutes 47 2-5 seconds, the fastest time ever made for that distance at Guttenberg. On the fourth mile of this race he negotiated one lap of the course in 56 seconds flat. In both the five-mile race and the ten-mile handicap in which Constant was the winner, Costello was always to be considered.

Ralph De Palma, in a 90 horse power Mercedes, gave a three-mile exhibition, covering that distance in 3 minutes 3 2-5 seconds.

In the professional division J. J. Cox and "Tornado" Mercier were the stars, each winning an event. In the five-mile race Mercier rode faster than a mile a minute clip, and covered the five laps in 4:54 2-5, winning by a slight margin from Cox. Al Graves finished third. The latter was injured in the second mile of the ten-mile handicap, when his machine skidded on the first turn and his tire became loose. He was thrown in the air and landed on his side. He was rushed to the North Hudson County Hospital, where it was discovered that he was suffering only from contusions of the head and arms. The race was then converted into a five-mile match between Cox and Mercier, and the latter, after leading for four miles, was passed by Cox, who won in 4 minutes 54 2-5 seconds. The track was in excellent condition for records. A crowd of 2,000 persons witnessed the races. The summaries:

Five-Mile Trade Riders' Miss and Out Race, 61 cubic inches, flying start.—Won by J. U. Constant, (Indian, 7;) Michael Costello, (Merkel, 7,) second; William Teubner, (Indian, 7,) third. Time—4:47 2-5.

Five-Mile Professional Riders, 61 cubic inches, flying start.—Won by Ferdie Mercier, (Indian, 7;) J. J. Cox, (Indian, 7,) second; Al Graves, (Reading Standard, 7,) third. Time—4:54 2-5.

Three-mile exhibition by Ralph De Palma in a 90 horse power Mercedes. Time—3:03 1-5.

Five-mile match race between Ferdie Mercier (Indian, 7,) and J. J. Cox, (Indian, 7.) Won by Cox. Time—4:54 2-5.

Ten-Mile Trade Riders' Handicap, open, 61 cubic inches.—Won by J. U. Constant, (Indian,) (scratch;) Michael Costello, (Merkel, 7,) (scratch,) second; Walter Walker, (Indian, 4,) (1:10,) third. Time—10:55 2-5.

Mile time trial by J. U. Constant to reduce track record of 0:56. Time—0:55 3-5.

MOTOR CYCLIST HURT.

Marshall Thompson's Machine Dashes Off Track, Cutting His Right Leg.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 7.—One accident marred the automobile and motor cycle races on the White plains fairgrounds to-day, which brought together about 3,000 people, many of whom traveled in touring cars. A Merkle motorcycle, ridden by Marshall Thompson of Mount Vernon, while rounding one of the sharp curves, skidded and then dashed into the outer guard rail. The machine went under the rail, while Thompson was tossed over it and his right leg was badly cut. He also sustained other painful injuries, and had to be taken to Dr. Page's private hospital.

The most exciting event of the day was a ten-mile free-for-all race for a silver cup. The machines had to make twenty laps around the half-mile track. During the first twelve laps, Thompson Costello, driving a Maxwell car, led by a good margin, but on the thirteenth lap F. Monroe, driving a Mercer car, showed a great burst of speed while in front of the grand stand, and passed the Maxwell on the western turn by a small margin. It looked as though there would be a collision, but Monroe, who is an expert driver, shot ahead and held the lead until the close of the race. The time was 13 minutes, 10½ seconds.

The one-mile speed trials to beat the track record for that distance held by Wishart of Port Chester, 1 minute, 14 seconds, brought together some fast cars, but none of the drivers could equal the record time. The fastest time was made by a Mercer car driven by Belzhover, who covered the mile in 1:19. The summaries:

Motor Cycles, Five Miles.—Won by Excelsior, (Thompson;) Flanders, (Robert Moore,) second; Yale, (Todd,) third. Time—7:56.

Automobile Race, Ten Miles.—Won by Maxwell, (Thomas Costello driver;) Marion, (P. G. Thebaude, Jr.,) second; Abbott-Detroit, (Carlisle Mulhall,) third. Time—13:50 2-5.

Speed Trials for Automobiles, One Mile.—Maxwell, (Thomas Costello.) Time—1:22 2-5. Mercer, (Munroe.) Time—1:21. Marion, (P. G. Thebaude.) Time—1:23½. Mercer, (Belzhover.) Time—1:19. Abbott-Detroit, (Mulhall.) Time—1:26 1-5

Automobile Race, Five Miles.—Won by Abbott-Detroit, (Mulhall.) Time—7:02 3-5. Marion, (Thebaude,) second. Time—7:40.

Automobile Race, Ten Miles, Free for All.—Won by Mercer, (Munroe;) Maxwell, (Costello,) second; Marion, (Thebaude,) third. Time—13:10½.

Changes in Indian Line-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Nov. 7.—Changes on the Indian line and in the backfield marked the football practice at the Carlisle Indian School this afternoon. The injury of Capt. Sampson Burd will keep him out of the Harvard game at Boston on Saturday. This is greatly regretted here, as Burd is regarded as one of the greatest ends that has ever played at Carlisle. However, Thorpe will likely be in shape to play the Crimson. In this evening's work Capt. Burd's place was taken by Right Half Back Wheelock, whose position was taken by Acasa, but Thorpe did not go into the scrimmage. Sousa played at left half back. The fundamentals as well as the remainder of the afternoon work were put through briskly, much attention being shown to punting, at which Thorpe worked well. The extended signal drill was given over to qualifying the changed players for their new positions. Welch ran the team admirably, and the scrimmage against the scrubs was hotly contested.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Billy Lewis and Young Kurtz, two New Jersey welterweights, will come together to-night in the star bout at the Sharkey A. C. In the semi-final Tommy Andrich, a 105-pounder from New Jersey, will mix with Johnny Daly, a 105-pound boy from New York. Four preliminaries and a wrestling bout will also be put on.

Tom Kennedy, the former amateur heavyweight champion, will get his second tryout as a professional to-night when he faces Marty Cutler, formerly Jack Johnson's sparring partner, at the New Star A. C. In his bout against Al Palzer some months ago Kennedy made a great showing, but his lack of condition worked against him, and after having the better of the bout up to the closing rounds when Palzer put him out. Cutler has had plenty of ring experience in his work with the champion and is confident of defeating Kennedy. The latter has been working out in the mountains since the Palzer bout, and has taken off many pounds.

Young Shugrue, the New Jersey featherweight, and Ty Cobb of Philadelphia will hook up in the star bout at the Long Acre A. C. to-night. Young Nolan of Jersey City and Jimmy Smith of South Brooklyn will clash in the semi-final.

Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul welterweight, claims the welterweight title of Canada and announces that he will defeat any 145-pound man in the world, but he is not the only one to claim the Canadian title. Knockout Willie Brennen, the "Fighting Dutchman" of Buffalo, returns to New York this week, and he brings with him the title of welterweight champion of Canada. Brennan earned his championship by beating Hillard Lang, the recognized champion of Canada, in a battle for the title. A bout between the two is likely in the near future.

Tommy Maloney, the west side lightweight, and Willie Howard, the lightweight champion of Brooklyn, will clash again in a ten-round battle at the American A. A. of Brooklyn on Friday evening, Nov. 17. Howard has been on Maloney's trail ever since their recent bout at the Twentieth Century A. C., when Howard went on at short notice and gave Maloney a hard fight.

HUNTS AT MEADOW BROOK.

Drag and Fox Hounds Furnish Excellent Sport for Hunting Colony.

Special to The New York Times.

LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., Nov. 7.—Members of the hunting fraternity of the Meadow Brook Club had some fine sport to-day with both the drag and fox hounds, though disappointment was expressed at the elimination of the point-to-point races usually scheduled for election day.

The fox hounds met at Piping Rock early this morning, and "found" in the wood back of the Piping Rock Horse Show ground. The hunting party set a fast pace directly along the shore as far as Oyster Bay. From there the fox turned inland, running to East Norwich. After an exciting chase the pack "killed" on H. P. Hudson's place. Those out this morning included Miss Dorothy Canfield, Mr. Campbell, Mrs. J. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols, Mr. Caval, F. Ambrose Clark, Mrs. James A. Burden, George Milburn, R. F. Potter, James A. Rawlins, William G. Parks, Miss Titine Hitchcock, and Mrs. Whitney of Oyster Bay.

The drag hunt produced some equally good fun. The meet was at Glen Head, and the line lay over some entirely new country which has hitherto not been hunted over. The run consisted of about six miles, point to point, the monotony of which was broken by some stiff timber jumping. Among those who started were Hamilton Hadden, Russell Grace, F. S. Von Stade, H. E. Dreier, Watson Webb, Mr. Schwartz, William G. Parks, and huntsmen, and whips.

Race from Wharton to Morristown.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Nov. 7—Morris County Young Men's Christian Association held a relay race between Wharton and Morristown. Teams of fifteen men each from the associations of Morristown, Wharton, Succasunna, Rockaway, and Morris Plains ran. Succasunna was first, making the 12 1-5 miles in 1 hour and 10 seconds. Rockaway finished second. The racers were dispatched from Wharton by Mayor Robert F. Oram, and were received at the Morristown Young Men's Christian Association Building by Mayor Arthur S. Pierson.

No Score at Olympic Field.

The Glencoe A. C. eleven, champions of the east side of Harlem, and the Morningsides, champions of the west side, clashed yesterday afternoon at Olympic Field in a match to decide the title, and the game ended without either team being able to score. From start to finish it was a see-saw battle, but neither team was able to carry the ball with any consistency. For the most part straight football was played. Moses, the Glencoe full back, was easily the star for his team, and Schwartz, right half back for the Morningsides, was the star performer for the west siders. It is possible that the two teams will get together again on Thanksgiving Day.

Bohemian Wrestler Due To-day.

Josef Smejkal, the big Bohemian wrestler, will arrive here this morning on the Kronprinzessen Cecilie, and a parade and reception in his honor has been arranged by his countrymen in New York. On Friday night he will appear in a handicap match at Sokol Hall, East Seventy-second Street, against three opponents.

A. G. Miles Wins Bogey Handicap.

Alfred G. Miles was the winner of the bogey handicap at the Knollwood Country Club yesterday, finishing three down, while William McCord and J. M. Todd tied for second place, each finishing six down. The scores follow:

Alfred G. Miles, 3 down; William McCord, 6 down; J. M. Todd, 6 down; S. T. Evans, 7 down; H. W. Hayden, 7 down; S. Le Beau, 8 down; E. B. McShayne, 8 down; S. Prentice, 8 down; Richard King, 9 down; W. C. Breed, 10 down; William S. Leslie, 11 down; W. T. Cox, 11 down; S. P. Kimball, 11 down; Newton Rae, 11 down; E. L. Young, 13 down; S. K. Seggerman, 14 down; W. C. Tagle, 15 down.

Princeton Soccer Team Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—Princeton's soccer eleven slumped miserably this afternoon and fell in defeat before the Philadelphia Cricket Club team by 3 goals to 0 in a slow and uninteresting game. The Tigers were without the services of Dell, their star forward, and Baldwin, the goal keeper, and were handicapped, while the visitors presented a weighty, aggressive eleven that forced the play at all periods of the game. Bailey at outside left was easily the star of the Quaker City men, while Page was the Tiger's individual star. To-day's match was a preliminary test before the Columbia game at New York on Friday. The line-up:

| Philadelphia. | Position. | Princeton. |
|---|---|---|
| Baker | Goal | Currier |
| Leroy | Left full back | Eddy |
| Hamilton | Right full back | Chester |
| Hawley | Right half | Townsend |
| Jennings | Centre half | Winants |
| Harris | Left half | Moffat |
| Bailey | Outside left | Sisson |
| Gray | Inside left | McMaster |
| Meller | Centre | Page |
| Johnson | Inside right | Dawson |

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Mica Splittings Receive Lower Rate of Duty—Incandescent Mantle Duty.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has sustained protests filed by the General Electric Company, and the Bullock Electric Manufacturing Company, regarding the classification of mica splittings, which were returned by the Collectors of Customs at Albany and Cincinnati as "manufactured mica," with a tax of 10 cents a pound and 20 per cent. ad valorem. It was claimed to be mica unmanufactured and rough-trimmed only, with assessment of 5 cents a pound and 20 per cent. on the value. The assessments are reversed, and reliquidation ordered on the basis of the lower duties.

A contention raised by Fensterer & Ruhe was upheld. The merchandise consisted of magnesia articles used for holding incandescent mantles in position. They were classified under Paragraph 95, act of 1897, as "earthen articles," with duty at the rate of 60 per cent. on the value. The claim relied upon by the importers and sustained is that the merchandise is dutiable properly at 20 per cent. ad valorem as "non-enumerated manufactured articles."

STATE OF NEW YORK.
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC WORKS AT ALBANY.
November 6, 1911.

Notice to Contractors:

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Capitol in Albany, N. Y., until 12 o'clock noon of Tuesday, December 5th, 1911, at which place and hour they will be publicly opened and read for improving the New York State Canals pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 147 of the Laws of 1903 and of the amendments thereto, as follows:

Oswego Canal, Section 1.

For completing the construction of the canal and raising the upper dam at Fulton, together with all incidental work (except as may be shown on the plans) between 0.35 of a mile (Sta. 596-80) and 0.07 of a mile (Sta. 611-81) above the Broadway bridge at Fulton, N. Y., also a dyke southerly from Sta. 596-80 to high ground east of the river, being a part of the work originally included in Contract No. 10.

Thirteen sheets as follows: From original Contract No. 10 as modified by alterations, Sheet 100 and new Sheets 1A and 101 to 111 inclusive.

Plans may be seen and detailed specifications, engineer's estimate of quantities, proposal blanks, form of contract and bonds required and other information for proposers may be had at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works at Albany, N. Y.; at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Middle Division at Syracuse, N. Y.; at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Western Division at Rochester, N. Y.; and at the canal office, Spaulding's Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y.

Copies of detailed plans or drawings may be obtained from the State Engineer and Surveyor at Albany, N. Y., upon payment to him of the cost of producing them.

Monthly estimates will be paid of ninety per centum (90 per cent.) of the work done at the contract price. Every proposal for said work must be accompanied by a money deposit in the form of a draft or certified check upon some good banking institution in the City of Albany or New York, issued by a national or State bank in good credit within the State and payable at sight to the Superintendent of Public Works for five per centum (5 per cent.) of the amount of the proposal.

The person whose proposal shall be accepted will be required to execute a contract and furnish bonds within ten days from the date of notice of award delivered to him or them in person or mailed to the address given in the proposal.

Upon execution of the contract and approval of bonds, the certified check or draft will be returned to the proposer unless the same shall have been presented for collection prior to such time, in which case the amount of the deposit will be refunded by the Superintendent of Public Works.

The deposits of bidders other than the one to whom the award of contract shall be made will be returned immediately after the award has been made.

The amount of bond required for faithful performance will be ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, and an additional bond, known as the labor bond, in the sum of ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, will be required as security that the contractor will pay in full at least once in each month all laborers employed by him upon the work specified to be done in the contract.

In the event that more than one surety company is offered as surety on said bonds, coinsurance only will be accepted.

Each proposal must be addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., and must be endorsed on the envelope with the name of the construction for which the proposal is made.

Award, if made, will be made to the person or persons whose proposal shall be lowest in cost to the State for doing the work, and which shall comply with all provisions required to render it formal. Before any award shall be made the lowest bidder will be required to satisfy the Superintendent of Public Works of his ability to provide suitable equipment and materials for the proper performance of the work.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and readvertise and award the contract in the regular manner if, in the judgment of the undersigned, the interests of the State will be enhanced thereby.

CHARLES E. TREMAN,
Superintendent of Public Works.

Fiduciary Service

For very obvious reasons, trusts executed by individuals are apt to be at some disadvantage compared to those handled by the specialized service of a trust company.

This Company is authorized by the laws of the State of New York to act in various fiduciary capacities, in all of which its service is prompt, efficient and economical. It acts as executor or trustee under wills; administrator of the estates of deceased persons; guardian of minors; committee of incompetent persons; and as trustee to execute all kinds of trusts.

TO THE HOLDERS OF ASSENTING STOCK:

Notice is hereby given that, at the last annual meeting of the stockholders of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, the name of the stock of said Company formerly designated "assenting stock" was changed to "common stock." This change in name involves no change in the stockholders' rights. New forms of stock certificates have been prepared, and all holders of assenting stock certificates of said Company are entitled to receive in exchange therefor certificates in the new form on presentation of their old certificates for such exchange at any of the following offices:

Union Trust Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.
United States Mortgage and Trust Co., N. Y. City
New England Trust Company, Boston, Mass.

All stockholders are requested to present their certificates promptly for exchange. All certificates presented must be duly endorsed for transfer.

Washington Heights Apartment House in $500,000 Trade for Bronx Property.

MANY IMPORTANT LEASES

Long Lease in East Thirteenth Street for Commercial Improvement—Deal in Penn Loft Zone.

Several interesting transactions were reported yesterday despite the holiday, the most important of which was a half million dollar trade involving a Washington Height apartment house and a row of new-law tenements located in the Bronx.

The property disposed of was the Kenilworth, a six-story elevator structure, on a plot, 100.2 by 100, at the northeast corner of Pinehurst Avenue and 179th Street, owned by Charles M. Rosenthal.

The buyer, Matilda W. Brown, gave in exchange five five-story apartment houses comprising the block front on the east side of Union Avenue, between 166th and 167th Streets, and occupying a plot 200 by 100.

The Kenilworth was built last year by Max Weinstein, who sold it to Mr. Rosenthal. The Bronx houses were also put up last year by Reiss & Wolf. The builders sold them to the Brown Realty Company, who traded the houses in January with Mrs. Brower.

Good 13th St. Lease for Improvement

A deal involving about $100,000, carrying with it a commercial improvement, has just been closed by John H. Lawrence in East Thirteenth Street beyond First Avenue. He has leased for the Carisbrooke Realty Company the property at 427 and 429 East Thirteenth Street, a plot 49 by 100, for fifteen years at an aggregate rental of $68,000. The lessees have also secured through the same broker a building and permanent mortgage loan of $30,000 for the purpose of erecting a two-story laundry, from plans prepared by Larremore V. V. Sweezy, architect.

West Thirty-fourth Street Deal.

The four-story dwelling at 222 West Thirty-fourth Street, close to the Pennsylvania Station, has been sold to an investor by William G. Butler of Erie, Penn. The lot is 16.5 by 98.9, and is situated about 250 feet west of Seventh Avenue. The consideration was about $43,000.

Tenements on Long Lease.

William Fanning has leased for Emilie Talbot the five-story tenement at 528 West Forty-seventh Street, also the two five-story tenements, 442 and 444 West Nineteenth Street in the Chelsea district for a long term at an aggregate rental of about $50,000. The same broker has also leased for the same owner to Goldburg & Goldstein the tenement at 177 East Houston Street, for a period of fifteen years at an annual rental of $2,100 net.

Gregg and Mrs. Frances Hein, respectively, was reported recently. When existing leases expire on May 1, 1912, he will raze the present buildings, and erect a ten-story loft building.

Leases.

Ogden & Clarkson have leased for Stern Brothers the store and basement at 15 and 17 West Twenty-first Street through to 16 and 18 West Twenty-second Street, about 23,000 square feet, to Frederick Vietor & Achelis, for their lace department for a term of years.

The New York Times—

Having advertised a watch and chain in vain in another newspaper, I inserted an advertisement in the Lost column of The Times. Thanks to your assistance I am happy once more in the possession of my watch and chain. The advertisement in The Times was read by a street car conductor who promptly returned the lost articles.

URGES A CLEAN-UP OF CITY AND HARBOR

Giant Sewers Must Be Built and the Issue Should Be Faced Now, Says American Medicine.

CHEAPER IN THE LONG RUN

The Cost of Losses in Health, Life, and Commerce Would Be Far Greater, Writer Declares.

New York's problem of street cleaning seems destined to become different from that of any other city in the world, according to American Medicine, and we, therefore, might as well discuss the future at once.

"Of course," says the writer, "every city sweeps up all it can and removes the material beyond city limits or puts it where no nuisance is created, but they all depend upon rains to do the final and best cleaning. Some cities even wash the streets daily, and that is ideal if there is a water course handy and it is not unduly fouled thereby.

"In New York alone does the material remain in the harbor and never reach the ocean. The matter of keeping the harbor clean is becoming more and more urgent now that so many millions of people live on its shores, and we would not be at all surprised some time to learn that a demand is made that the streets be kept so clean that there will be little left for the rain to wash into the harbor to foul it or even to fill up the channels.

"The cost is already so great that steps must be taken to prevent people throwing any rubbish, dirt, or even paper into the streets. Indeed, it is not at all unlikely that the householder will be held responsible for the cleanliness of his surroundings—or even the owner himself held, if there is more than one tenant. Some one must be held, for we cannot go on as we are now. Prevention is infinitely cheaper than cure in all matters, so why not work it here?

"The per capita cost of removal of wastes is very little if we compare it to what an isolated householder pays. We are always dazed by aggregates. It is the same principle which makes us balk at the enormous cost of the future sewers soon to be demanded to carry our liquid wastes under the harbor to distant fields for disposal, but the cost for each person will not be anywhere near that in some small villages at present. So don't let us worry over this cost, but give a thought to the far greater cost in losses of health, life, and commerce if present conditions continue.

"Garbage disposal plants are now so perfect that they can be operated at our very doors without the slightest odor or other offense, and that question is already settled; but why we continue the present more expensive plans is a mystery which Albany may explain. Future improvements will doubtless render it possible to consume everything combustible—street sweepings and all—and use the slag for building purposes. When this comes the per capita cost will be too small to worry a miser.

"The ultimate disposal of New York's sewage might as well be discussed at once, for it is a problem almost as great as that of removing it from the city limits. One thing is certain, it must be taken away in sewers under the harbor—the distance it must be piped depending on its final disposition—but our success in pumping other fluids, such as coal oil, for long distances, shows that we need have no hesitation over mere length of sewer. The sole question is the location of the outlet and what is to become of the fluid.

"That it may be utilized with profit goes without saying, and there is no doubt that there are plenty of lands on which it can be used and which are sadly in need of such irrigation. What is more likely is some discovery whereby the valuable ingredients of sewage can be precipitated and recovered without using the fluid for irrigation. There have been much more wonderful utilizations of by-products formerly thrown away, and we can count on this one.

"No matter what we determine upon in the end, the sewers will be needed, and so why not study up the matter and plan at once? Manhattan Island must be cleaned and kept clean, and so must the harbor."

CAN'T STOP BAYONNE FIRE.

Gasoline Tanks in Standard Oil Yards Burning Twenty-four Hours.

Fire in the Standard Oil yards, Bayonne, that started Monday evening when two 20,000-gallon gasoline tanks blew up, was still burning last night. Seven agitators, each holding about 10,000 gallons of gasoline or oil, caught fire, and the flames will have to burn themselves out.

Thousands of persons were out yesterday watching the great columns of black smoke going up. Eight men in all were injured, but only one seriously. He was David Allen, Superintendent, whose hands were badly burned. He was removed yesterday from the hospital to his home, 96 West Thirty-sixth Street. The loss to the company is estimated at about $100,000.

Lusitania's Chief Steward Ill.

William H. Allison, chief steward of the Cunarder Lusitania, who is well known to hundreds of American travelers, is dangerously ill of pneumonia. Mr. Allison is being attended by Drs. Pointon and Garbner of the Lusitania. He was said to be slightly improved last night.

NON-MORMON TRAY NOW ON THE UTAH

Miss Helen Gould and Others Present One to Supplant the Brigham Young Design.

CAPT. BENSON ACCEPTS IT

Rear Admiral Nicholson, Acting Secretary of the Navy, Approves of the Gift.

A silver service, one of the 120 pieces in which was a coffee tray bearing a picture of the Pioneer Monument in Salt Lake City, on top of which is a statue of Brigham Young, the Mormon leader, was presented on Monday to the battleship Utah. Yesterday there was another presentation of silver on the same battleship, and, as was the case on Monday, those who made the gift were citizens of Utah.

The gift yesterday was another silver coffee tray, but on it there was nothing that suggested Mormonism or anyhing else that was ever identified with that faith. The tray bore the symbolic figure of a young girl as representing Utah, and those who gave it are members of what is known in Utah as the American Party, organized in opposition to everything that even remotely suggests Mormonism.

The presentation which was made with the approval of Rear Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation in the Navy Department at Washington, took place in the main cabin of the battleship, and Capt. Benson, who on Monday received from Gov. Spry of Utah the service of which the Brigham Young tray is a part, also accepted the second tray for the department. The tray presented to the ship yesterday bore this inscription:

> Presented to the United States Battleship Utah by members of the American Party in the State of Utah as an expression of their loyalty to that State and to the Constitution and domestic customs of the United States of America.

The non-Mormon tray was offered to the Navy Department a week ago yesterday by a committee of prominent men and women representing the American Party in Utah. Among them were Miss Helen Miller Gould, Herman Ridder, Mrs. Donald McLean, Mrs. Erna Von R. Owen, Dr. Anna Shaw, the Rev. Dr. Walter Laidlaw, Executive Secretary of the Federation of Churches and Christian Organizations in New York City, and the Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong, President of the Society for Social Service. The text of the letter to Secretary Meyer was made public yesterday, as was also the one from Rear Admiral Nicholson, who replied as Acting Secretary of the Navy. The letter offering the tray read:

> Nov. 1, 1911.
> The Hon George von L. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy, U. S. S. Mayflower:
>
> The undersigned as a committee representing citizens and the American party in Utah, respectfully request you to authorize the commanding officer of the battleship Utah to receive at their hands a silver platter presented as an expression of loyalty to the State:
>
> Erna von R. Owen, Mrs. C. E. Allen, Helen Miller Gould, Alexander M. Hadden, Mrs. Gilbert Jones, Walter Laidlaw, Mrs. Cumming Story, Ida Tarbell, Mrs. Donald McLean, Miss C. E. Mason, Miss Janet Richards, Herman Ridder, Dr. Anna H. Shaw, Rabert M. Stevenson, Josiah Strong, Mrs. Albion V. Wadhams.

To this Admiral Nicholson said in reply by telegraph:

> Nov. 3, 1911.
>
> Mrs. Erna von R. Owen, New York.
>
> Replying committee's telegram, you are informed presentation of silver platter for Utah may be made aboard that vessel at Navy Yard Tuesday, Nov. 7. Commanding officer has been informed. Suggest your communicating with him regarding hour and details.
>
> NICHOLSON,
> Acting Secretary of the Navy.

Mrs. Owen made the speech presenting the tray.

"For fourteen months," she said, "I have, as the representative of the non-Mormon citizens of Utah, protested against the use of the Brigham Young design on the silver of this great ship, the Utah. Our protest reached its climax when the American Party in convention assembled in Salt Lake City in September of this year passed a resolution of protest against this design and forwarded it to President Taft and the Secretary of the Navy. When it became known to our committee that our protest had failed of recognition we decided to offer to the Secretary of the Navy a tray which we had hoped to substitute for that bearing the Brigham Young design. That tray I now present to you."

Others who spoke along the same lines were Drs. Laidlaw and Strong and Mrs. Donald McLean, who spoke as President of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

CLERGY TO DISCUSS LIQUOR.

Prohibitionists Appeal to Episcopal Convention Delegates.

The question of license or no license will come up to-day or to-morrow, it is expected, in the Episcopal Convention of this Diocese. The opening service of the convention will be held in the new cathedral at 10 o'clock this morning, and business will begin about noon in Synod Hall.

The Prohibition people sent a circular to convention delegates yesterday, signed by the Rev. J. V. Chalmer of Holy Trinity Chapel, in which is the following appeal:

"If the question of the liquor traffic comes up, it is hoped that the Episcopal Church will utter no uncertain voice in regard to the gigantic evils resulting from this iniquitous trade."

In a circular accompanying occurs the following:

"The fight between the Church and the liquor traffic can know no end until one or the other lies dead upon the field. It is no walk-over. It is no gentlemen's agreement. No flirting with the traffic will answer."

The Episcopal Convention has not always taken the side of Prohibition, and it is remembered that the late Bishop Potter spoke and worked for regulation.

LIPPINCOTT GETS BAIL.

Seven Other Girls Said to be Ready to Accuse Him.

Oliver Lippincott, the photographer in the Singer Building, who was arrested in the Astor House Monday on a charge of abducting 18-year-old Emma V. Jahelka of Flatlands, was bailed before Magistrate Freschi in the Tombs Court yesterday.

M. L. Townes appeared as counsel for the photographer and announced that he had $5,000 bail ready. Assistant District Attorney Neumann appeared for the prosecution and asked for an increase of bail, saying that he had just received new evidence which was sufficient to make a new charge against the defendant.

He said at the hearing before Chief Magistrate McAdoo to-day he would produce witnesses to back up all the charges made by the young woman, and that Anthony Comstock also would submit evidence to the effect that seven other girls were ready to make similar complaints against the photographer. The bail stayed at $5,000.

DULL-DAY POLICE RUMOR.

Yarn That Waldo Is Tired and Wants to Quit Quickly Squelched.

The rumor, customary whenever news is dull in the Police Department, that a change in the Commissionership is approaching was heard once more yesterday. This time it took the form of a report that Commissioner Waldo was tired of his post and would resign in a few days to give place to William J. Wright, the Harlem district leader, now an Assistant Commissioner of Charities.

Mr. Wright had no information to confirm the rumor. Mr. Waldo smiled over it, but declined to consider it sufficiently important for a denial. A police official who knows the inside workings of the department said:

"Waldo resign? Rubbish! He's taking more interest in this job than in anything he ever undertook in his life. There's nothing to that yarn."

SICK FIRE HORSES IN PERIL.

Hustled Out of Hospital While a Blaze Raged Next Door.

Two firemen were overcome and about $40,000 damage was done last night by a fire which started on the top floor of the three-story Ansonia Storage Warehouse, 137-141 West Ninety-ninth Street.

The blaze started in a room filled with mattresses and other furniture, right under the roof, on the warehouse's east side.

The horse hospital of the Fire Department adjoins the east side of the warehouse. There were about twenty sick horses on the second floor of the hospital last night. John Lunny, who is Commissioner Johnson's chauffeur, has his headquarters in the hospital. With Firemen William Bowen, James Smith, Joseph Flynn and John McCann helping, he got all the sick horses down to the street by means of the elevator.

The flames, meantime, had burst out of the roof of the warehouse, and when Engine Company 76 arrived threatened to go down to the lower floors. Lieut. James Coleman of Company 76 led twelve men, with two lines of hose, up two flights of stairs in the burning building. Then practically every one in the company became blinded and weak, and Lieut. Coleman ordered them to get out. All reached the street except Fireman James Donovan and Lieut. Coleman himself, both of whom dropped on the second floor and had to be carried out by comrades. Coleman was taken to St. Luke's Hospital and Donovan to the Red Cross Hospital. Neither was seriously hurt.

Deputy Chief Devanney turned in a second alarm, which brought Acting Chief Martin of the Department. The fire got a big headway because, when the first alarm was turned in, all the fire companies of the district except No. 76 were busy fighting fires elsewhere. The blaze was under control, however, soon after Chief Martin arrived. The fire was confined to the top floor, but the contents of the whole warehouse were drenched.

Lieut. William Lennon of Engine Company 76, with a number of firemen was on the roof of the building adjoining the Ansonia Warehouse on the west. Lieut. Lennon became separated from his men, and becoming blinded by smoke, stepped off the roof, and fell four stories to the flagging in the rear of the building. He was taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where little hope of his recovery was held out.

MRS. JAS. HAVEMEYER KILLED

Falls from a Window of Her Apartment in West End Avenue.

Mrs. Sarah Cordelia Conklin Havemeyer, wife of James Havemeyer, formerly connected with the sugar industry, and daughter-in-law of William F. Havemeyer, who was three times Mayor of New York, met her death late yesterday afternoon by falling from a window of her apartment on the eighth floor of the apartment house at 401 West End Avenue.

Mrs. Havemeyer was 70 years old and had been an invalid for the last fifteen years, having been confined most of the time to her rooms. Within the last few years she suffered severely from neurasthenia.

Yesterday afternoon her nurse left the apartment for a few minutes to get medicine from a near-by drugstore. Mrs. Havemeyer was left seated in an armchair near an open window looking out on Seventy-ninth Street. Directly under the window, the sill of which does not extend more than 2 feet from the floor, is a radiator.

It is believed that when Mrs. Havemeyer arose from her chair to look out of the window she lost her balance, the radiator preventing her from checking her fall. Her body was found in the street by passers-by, who immediately notified the police. A doctor was summoned, but Mrs. Havemeyer showed no signs of life.

Her husband, who retired from business a few years ago, and her only son, J. Craig Havemeyer, of the firm of Wood & Havemeyer, 43 Exchange Place, arrived shortly afterward. The son said last night that his mother had not been unusually nervous during the day, and he explained her death as purely accidental. Coroner Holtzhauser gave a like explanation.

SHOT PLAYING WILD WEST.

Hackensack Boys Found Old Revolver in the Attic—One Dying.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 7.—In the midst of Wild West play with a boy companion, Roland Judson, 9 years old, was shot in the head with a revolver to-day, and is now dying in the hospital.

The wounded boy is a son of P. O. Judson, an importer at 114 Fifth Avenue, New York, living on West Anderson Street. During the afternoon the lad went to the home of John L. Flagg, on Lookout Avenue, to play with his chum, Vreeland Flagg. In the absence of his parents, Vreeland took Roland to the attic, and they had a great time among the collection of firearms.

At last Vreeland found a 38-calibre revolver in a drawer. It had not been used in years, and as proof of this it refused to explode as the boys took turns in pointing it at each other and snapping the trigger, despite the fact that it was fully loaded.

Then came a loud report, and Roland fell unconscious to the floor. Flagg called for the nurse, and soon the hospital ambulance was on its way to the house. The Flagg boy insists that Roland put the muzzle of the revolver to his left temple and fired. The bullet entered just over the right eye and took a downward course, passing through the boy's head. The doctors cannot quite conceive how the boy was able to hold the big revolver in a position necessary to produce such a wound. Both families are much distressed over the accident. Dr. St. John holds out no hope of the boy's recovery.

MRS. VERMILYA IN HOSPITAL.

Will Stay Until Hearing—Others May Be Involved in Poison Plot.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Louise Vermilya, charged with poisoning Policeman Arthur Bissonette, and suspected of having caused the death of at least half a dozen others, is to-day in the county jail hospital where she will remain until her next hearing, Nov. 28.

That some other person may be connected with her was indicated by Assistant State's Attorney Burnham, who said that in all probability Mrs. Vermilya and "others" would be indicted.

The investigation of the deaths of any members of the "Mystic Workers of the World and the Home Guards," who had been proposed for membership by Mrs. Vermilya was decided on to-day by Coroner Hoffman. He said that if the State were to hold that the motives for the murders were mercenary, it was essential to learn whether any members of the organizations referred to had died at Mrs. Vermilya's home.

"No criticism of these insurance orders has been made," he said.

PANAMA CANAL WORK PLEASED SENATORS

Five Members of Inspection Party Arrive Here from the Isthmus.

THINK IT WILL OPEN IN 1913

Mr. Brandegee, Speaking for Colleagues, Says Estimated Cost Will Not Be Exceeded.

Five of the seven United States Senators who went to the Isthmus of Panama last month to inspect the work of the Army engineers in charge of the great undertaking arrived in New York on the Panama liner Ancon, from Colon, yesterday. They are Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals. Senator Bristow of Kansas, Senator Overman of North Carolina, Senator Page of Vermont, and Senator Cummins of Iowa.

Senator Thornton of Louisiana, one of the other two Senators who went to the Isthmus, returned on a steamer to New Orleans. Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island is detained on the Isthmus by illness. He is improving, and is expected home next week. Congressman Higgins of Connecticut and Sergeant-at-Arms Ransdell of the Senate were also on the Ancon. Senator Brandegee did the talking for the delegation.

"We left New York on Oct. 14 last, and were on the Isthmus ten days," he said. "We were received by Col. Goethals and other Commissioners, and devoted several days to an inspection of the canal. The progress of the work since my last visit two years ago is remarkable. So far as it is possible to see into the future it looks as though the canal would be finished and opened for business in 1913.

"It will be finished within the estimated cost of $375,000,000. As to the so-called slides of material into the prism, concerning which alarming reports are printed at intervals, I think little apprehension need be felt. As the excavation deepens, especially in the Culebra Cut, other slides will probably occur, and this necessitates the excavation of the material which may move into the cuts. This is expected in the natural course of events, but the economies resulting from better organization, greater efficiency in operation and better knowledge of methods of treating the slides have enabled the operating force to excavate the material which had not originally been estimated for without increasing the estimated cost of the completed canal.

"The last three days were devoted to hearings on the progress of the work, the methods employed, the supplying and caring for vessels which will pass through the canal, and the form of government to be established there. I think we were all deeply impressed with the urgent necessity of legislation at the earliest possible minute providing for the establishment of tolls to be charged ships for use of the canal, and also for the establishment of a form of government."

When completed, the Culebra Cut, part of the Canal, Senator Brandegee said, will have cost about $100,000,000, or about $10,000,000 a mile. All the members of the committee, he said, were impressed by the discipline and spirit which animate the entire force. The health of those on the Isthmus, he added, would compare favorably with that of any body of men similarly situated in any city in the Temperate Zone. Canal legislation, he predicted, would be among the first subjects brought up in the next session of Congress.

FOR RAILWAY ACCIDENT FUND

Gompers Thinks Companies Should Be Required to Contribute to One.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was the principal witness before the Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Commission today. He gave a general indorsement to the commission's plan for compensating employes of inter-State railroads for injuries.

Taking the position that there would be a larger percentage of accidents on the poorly equipped roads than on those properly supplied with safety appliances, he argued that if all roads should be required to contribute to a common fund for insurance against accidents the tendency would be toward a better general equipment, and therefore toward greater protection of employes. The better roads, he thought, in time would force the poorer roads to improve conditions.

Mr. Gompers advocated the periodical payment of damages rather than payment by a lump sum. He said that the desirable thing was to protect the injured workman during his incompetency, and not to afford him capital to set himself up in business.

PERU QUITS DISPUTED POST.

Colombia Reoccupies Pedrera Custom House Captured from Her.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The evacuation by Peru of the custom house station at Pedrera, near the disputed territory between Colombia and Peru, and its immediate occupation by Colombia, was reported to-day in an official dispatch to the Colombian Legation here.

Pedrera was occupied by a Colombian garrison of fifty men up to the middle of July, when Peru captured the station in a three-days' battle.

Pedrera is one of the advance stations in Colombian territory, and is close to the zone which is claimed by Peru.

PLAN POSTAL BOND PARITY.

Treasury to Take Steps to Maintain Par Value of Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The low rate at which the first postal savings bonds are selling in New York surprises Treasury officials. It was generally expected that these bonds would hold close to par. In all probability the Postmaster General, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney General, who are the Trustees of the postal savings bank, will inquire into the situation, with a view to recommending to Congress such action as will maintain parity of the bonds in the market.

On July 1 last postal savings depositors invested $41,900 in these bonds. The next sale of bonds will be on Jan. 1, and it has been estimated that about $400,000 will be sold.

WOMAN MEMBER WON'T QUIT.

Not Without Giving Moonachie Board a Fight, Says Miss Liversey.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 7.—Moonachie is distinguished for two things—it is the youngest borough in Bergen County, and has a Board of Education that has nerve enough to speak right out and ask the woman member of that board to resign. The latter feature is enough to put Moonachie on the new map.

But don't think for a minute that this woman member has resigned. Any woman who can start enough strife in a Board of Education to drive the male members to ask her (by resolution only, not by word of mouth) to resign is not going to give up so easily.

"They seem to know me, but they don't know me well enough," said Miss Mary E. Liversey, the woman member, when asked if she was going to resign. "They will have to offer some more resolutions before I'll quit."

Here are the members who framed the resolution: Mayor Robert Craig, Joseph Kucera, Joseph Luvenetti, Louis Wilson, Daniel Saviello, Joseph Linden, Julius Priest, and Charles Foose. And here is the resolution they passed:

> Whereas, Miss Liversey has shown herself to be very contrary, and the majority of the board finds it simply can't get along with the lady member; Resolved, That Miss Liversey be asked to resign for the sake of harmony.

Miss Liversey is about thirty-five. She owns her own home in Moonachie, about three miles south of Hackensack, and she owns several tenements in Hoboken.

CONNOLLY APPOINTS O'LEARY

Assistant District Attorney Made Queens Public Works Commissioner.

Assistant District Attorney Dennis O'Leary of Queens was named yesterday Public Works Commissioner of the borough by Maurice E. Connolly, the new Borough President. Mr. O'Leary is about 45 years old. Before consolidation he was a Justice of the Peace of the old town of North Hempstead, served as Assistant District Attorney under former District Attorney George A. Gregg, and once ran for Justice of the Supreme Court on a Hearst ticket.

The salary of Public Works Commissioner is $4,000 a year. He succeeds Walter H. Bunn, who held office under former President Gresser and whose resignation was accepted last week following an address he made at a Democratic meeting in Flushing, where he indorsed the candidacy of William Willett for Supreme Court Justice.

ATTACKS MRS. EDDY'S WILL.

Son of Christian Scientist Founder Charges Fraud in Bequests.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7.—George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., has filed a petition with the Superior Court here for permission to appeal from the probate of the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy.

The petition states that the petitioner did not contest the probate of the will before, because the information that the bequests made to the Mother Church in Boston were illegal, contrary to public policy and "secured by fraud and undue influence," did not come to him until after his right of appeal had expired.

POLICE DOGS FOR SINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

SINGAC, N. J., Nov. 7.—Tramps and other intruders will probably give the home of Mme. Schumann-Heink a wide berth because of the arrival there to-day of two full-blooded wolfhounds that have seen service with the police of Munich.

Mme. Schumann-Heink got the dogs in Germany while on her recent trip abroad. Both of the dogs were highly prized by the Munich police, one of them having lost a part of his ear and sustained a scar on the head through an encounter with a burglar. The singer offered to buy the dogs, but the Germans made her a gift of the wolfhounds. The most notable performance of the two canine policemen was the tracking and ultimate capture of a murderer. They traced the man for three days and three nights.

REGISTER WOMEN IN CHURCH.

Los Angeles League Advocates Plan to Get Them Out.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—To insure the registration of many women, who it is believed will not otherwise qualify, before Nov. 9, the time limit for registration for the city election on Dec. 4, arrangements are being made to have registration clerks in attendance at the prayer meetings at various churches in the city to-morrow night. Members of the Women's Progressive League are back of the movement.

Registration of women in this city is proceeding more rapidly than that of the men. Between 3,000 and 4,000 are being registered daily. It is believed that 70,000 will have been registered by the night of Nov. 9.

COUPLE DIE BY POISON.

Man Takes It in One Hotel After She Does So in Another.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 7.—H. L. Westerman, a machinist, killed himself to-day in a hotel room here soon after he learned that his wife had committed suicide in another hotel. Both took cyanide of potassium. The Westermans lived in Mariette, Ohio.

From his hotel Westerman telephoned his wife's hotel several times during the day asking whether she was in. In reply to his last call he was told that his wife had been found dead. A little later Westerman was discovered dead also.

Mrs. Westerman left a letter saying that her husband was in financial difficulties.

MINISTER WHO WED ASTOR QUITS CHURCH

The Rev. Joseph Lambert Resigns Pulpit in Providence Because of Criticism.

SAYS HE'LL GO INTO BUSINESS

Many a Pastor Has Done for Poor Men What He Did for a Rich One and Escaped Censure, He Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.—The Rev. Joseph Lambert, who married John Jacob Astor and Madeleine Tallmadge Force in Newport on Sept. 9, has resigned his pulpit in the Elmwood Temple, because of protests against his action by the other clergymen. He will leave the church on Dec. 1 and go into business.

Although the church has not yet accepted his resignation, Mr. Lambert says it will have to for he is going to go anyway. His announcement, couched in very brief terms, was read by the clerk at the church services Sunday morning, and will be considered at a church meeting a week from Thursday night.

"There have been a lot of unkind things said against me especially by ministers of this city," said Mr. Lambert today. "I did not feel that I could continue in the work as I could not put the same spirit into it as before.

"I am going into business and shall retain my membership in the Elmwood Temple at the request of the trustees. My resignation is purely voluntary and was not taken as the result of any action by the people of the church. At the meeting of the trustees last month they urged me to stay.

"The worst thing the ministers can say against me is that I married a man who had been divorced for commiting a statutory offence. It was simply his money which called attention to the marriage and if it had been a poor man nothing would have been said. There are lots of ministers in this city who have done the same thing and I can prove it. The very fact that my own association did not censure me proves it."

Mr. Lambert has been the pastor of Elmwood Temple since a year ago last September. He would not say what business he is to enter, and said he did not know what the chances were of his returning to the ministry.

TESTS OF SHIP COLLISIONS.

Repulsion and Attraction Between Approaching Vessels Shown.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—An explanation of the summoning by the British Government of Naval Constructor D. W. Taylor as an expert witness in the Admiralty trial growing out of the collision last September between the British warship Hawke and the White Star liner Olympic, is found in the publication by the hydrographic office of the results of some remarkable experiments made by this officer in the model tank at the Washington Navy Yard last Summer.

These experiments were made with four models, each of 3,000 pounds displacement, which were drawn at varying speeds, and in different positions, toward each other. It was demonstrated that one vessel, approaching another from the rear, both proceeding in the same direction, is strongly repulsed by the forward vessel up to a certain point, representing an overlapping of about one-third of the ship's length. At that critical point, however, there is a sudden and powerful change, the rear vessel being strongly drawn toward the leading vessel, necessitating an almost instant change of the helm to avoid a disastrous collision.

Autoist Stops Runaway Pony.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 7.—When Herbert McCarthy, a stable boy, mounted a pony belonging to Percy Rockefeller to deliver it to a blacksmith shop to-day, the animal bolted up Lake Avenue. James Wilson in his automobile, overtook the runaway after a quarter-mile chase, and, running his machine in its path, stopped it. McCarthy was thrown to the ground and his leg broken.

HAZING AGAIN IN ANNAPOLIS.

Freshman Beats a Top-Classman Who Abused His Roommate.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 7.—An upper classman was badly beaten last night by a freshman in the Naval Academy because he had hazed the latter's roommate, a much smaller man. The incident occurred in Bancroft Hall last night. It is not certain that the authorities have details, but there is every reason to believe they have, as the upper classman was so badly whipped he had to go to the dispensary to be patched up.

The hazing corroborates the stories of a revival of hazing in the academy, which have been plentiful lately. Midshipmen say the long-continued physical exercises which formed the chief portion of hazing some years ago are again in full force. Up to this time investigations by the authorities have disclosed only light hazing, known as "running."

Fire Chaplain Elected Vicar.

The Rev. E. M. H. Knapp, one of the chaplains of the Fire Department, was elected vicar of Incarnation Chapel in East Thirty-first Street yesterday. He succeeds the Rev. Philip Cook, who resigned to accept the rectorship of St. Mark's Church, San Antonio, one of the largest Episcopal parishes in the Southwest. Mr. Knapp has been assistant at the Church of the Incarnation in Madison Avenue, but was formerly vicar of San Salvatore Italian mission in Bleecker Street.
